

JOHN W. DAVIS HEADS TICKET

POOL PLEADS GUILTY TO 2 COUNTS

WEST VIRGINIA MAN NOMINATED ON 103 BALLOT

(By The Associated Press)
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., July 9.—After nominating John W. Davis of West Virginia, for the presidency today the Democratic National Convention would have nominated Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana for vice president by acclamation, had he been permitted to do so. Despite a roar of demands for his immediate nomination Senator Walsh declared the convention in adjournment until 8:30 p. m. to give time for consideration of the matter. There appeared no doubt that he would be nominated at the session tonight.

(By The Associated Press)
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 9.—John W. Davis, of West Virginia, was nominated for president today by the Democratic National Convention after the 103rd ballot. The opposition of W. J. Bryan and the attempt of Wm. Gibbs McAdoo to deliver his strength to Meredith, failed to stop him.

Beginning with this morning's balloting the movement to Davis gathered a momentum which could not be retarded and gradually but surely through the succeeding ballots the votes flocked over into the John W. Davis column as State after State either increased his offering to him or turned over its whole quota.

Bryan's opposition to Davis was swept away in the rain of Davis votes which swept over the convention. The attempt of the McAdoo forces to make E. T. Meredith of Iowa, the heir to the McAdoo strength commanded a following which made only a bad third and when the Davis flood was rising so fast that all other candidates were being swept before it, E. T. Meredith's home State withdrew him from the contest and voted for Davis.

The scenes of disorder swept the convention as everybody clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When the uproar was at its height, Thomas Taggart, of Indiana, mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation. The motion was carried with a roar and Chairman Walsh shouted into the din before him: "The chair declares the Honorable John W. Davis, the nominee of this convention."

Immediately the tired, worn and weary convention which would be struggling in the throes of a seemingly interminable deadlock for two weeks—with the threat of going into a third—broke loose in a demonstration of joy and relief.

Out of the debris comes the story of where the McAdoo movement faltered and fell back when it was within sight of a goal.

On July 4th the McAdoo forces stood at their mark when they pushed their vote to 550; within striking distance of a majority. If they could get a majority they proposed to make a powerful play to abrogate the two-thirds rule. They appealed to the Glass delegation from Virginia to join them but the delegation stuck to Glass. For the next four ballots, the McAdoo field marshals managed by one device or another to keep their strength around the same level while they used all the powerful arguments at their command to induce the Virginia delegation to come over.

But the effort was in vain. The Virginia delegates stuck to Glass when a turn of their 24 votes would have turned a majority of the convention to McAdoo and possibly jerked the key from the lot jam and permitted the McAdoo tide to rush on to victory.

(By The Associated Press)

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

CITY COUNCIL TO ACT ON IMPORTANT MATTERS AT MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Tourist Camp Proposal and Bus Station Chief Business—To Act On Amended Prohibition Ordinance.

There will be a meeting of the City Council tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, at which a number of important business matters will come up for disposition. The matter of creating a tourist camp on the site of the old Hill Top sanitarium, will come up for consideration at this meeting. This is an ideal location for a tourist camp, and with the proper equipment and management, should add much to the city of Danville. The matter of an ordinance preserving space on the west side of the Leland hotel annex, where out-of-town buses may receive and discharge passengers will also come up before the meeting. In this connection, the committee waiting room, it is understood, will soon be ready. This will add much to the convenience and comfort of the visiting people in the city, also to those who will change from one bus line to another while passing through. A large road map that was made especially for this room will also help the traveling public in planning and mapping out the routes they will take when going on short or long motor trips.

The council is now preparing an amended prohibition ordinance, which will conform to the prohibition law, as passed by the last session of the legislature. It is expected that this measure will be passed on at the meeting tomorrow evening. Another item of importance will be a rather lengthy ordinance pertaining to the inspection of meats and foods in the city of Danville.

Geo. A. Burton, Sr. Died Early Today

George A. Burton, Sr. died at his home at 429 Ridge street, this morning at 7 o'clock. Mr. Burton was born in Mecklenburg county, May 18, 1847, where he was actively engaged as a planter until his removal to Danville in 1902, and was the son of George Allen Burton and Mary Ann Gillespie, of Mecklenburg county. He was in his 76th year at the time of his death, and had been in declining health for several years. He was a member of the Second Baptist church during his entire residence in Danville.

Mr. Burton is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Eliza Wood, of Mecklenburg county, numerous relatives throughout the states of North Carolina and Virginia, and the following children, all of Danville: Miss E. B. Gillespie, R. L. McQuinn, Miss E. B. Burton and Thomas A. Burton. The funeral services will be conducted from the home by Rev. A. G. Carter, pastor of the Second Baptist church, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Green Hill cemetery.

Call Attention of Shippers to Express Receipts

The Chamber of Commerce is directing the attention of shippers to the undating of express receipts, a practice which frequently results in confusion. Some shippers upon receipt of an order will prepare all the documents in connection with it, including the express receipt. In many instances the shipment is delivered to the express company several days after the documents are prepared, with the result that the express receipt does not correspond to the date the shipment was forwarded, and the consignee is led to believe that there has been a delay in transportation. And furthermore there is difficulty in locating the receipt if tracing is necessary. The Chamber of Commerce earnestly requests that all shippers conform to the correct dating of the express receipts, an thereby eliminate much unnecessary work in tracing shipments.

Commerce Chamber Active In Helping People Find Jobs

In many instances during the past few weeks applicants for positions and employers have been brought together through the Chamber of Commerce. Those seeking positions, and those desiring help, should state their needs and requirements, and file them with the Chamber of Commerce where every effort will be made to serve the applicants without any charges. This new employment service already seems to be working well. A sample of one of the replies to help seekers is as follows: Wanted at once by a large southern tobacco firm an experienced warehouseman for the coming year. Good proposition to right man must come. Commerce is constantly in touch with labor situation in the city, and are in position to render splendid services in this connection. Those who wish to secure work and those who desire help should appreciate this service, and should accept it as one of the best mediations between employers and employees.

PROPERTY TRANSFERS

A deed of bargain and sale recorded in the clerk's office of the corporation court shows to R. Blair Hays, wife, has purchased on D. E. Graham, Jr., 5 feet on "C" avenue for a consideration of $9,750.

WEATHER FORECAST.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Virginia, unsettled with local thundershowers tonight and Thursday, slightly warmer tonight.

North Carolina: Local thundershowers probably tonight and Thursday.

FORMER CASHIER AT VIRGINIA IS GIVEN 15 YEARS

Guilty Plea Entered by Counsel at Hustings Court in Richmond After Sentence Is Arranged—Defendant Carried Into Court on Stretcher.

(By The Associated Press)
RICHMOND, July 9.—Thomas G. Pool, former cashier of a bank at Virginia, pleaded guilty today to two counts of an indictment, charging him with misappropriating the bank's funds and by agreement of counsel will be sentenced to 15 years imprisonment. Pool was taken into Hustings Court here on a stretcher.

NEGRO BOY SHOT AND KILLED BY HIS BRO. TODAY

Willie Pritchett Meets Death Accidentally at Hands of Alphonso Pritchett.

Three colored boys, a 22-caliber rifle and a shot with flowers. Willie Pritchett, an eight-year-old colored boy, accidentally shot and killed his brother, Alphonso Pritchett, twelve years old, this morning at Creeley's Cut in North Danville. The two Pritchett boys and Eddie Fuller, another young colored boy, were playing at the Pritchett home, when Willie remarked that he was going to shoot Alphonso. He then went behind the door and got a 22-caliber Remington automatic rifle and shot his brother in the neck.

After the shooting, Alphonso went over to the home of Creeley Terry, and told her that he wanted to lie down. She took him in her arms and he died within ten minutes, from the loss of blood. There was no one at the house but the three boys at the time of the accident. Sergeant Martin examined Willie Pritchett and Eddie Fuller separately and they both told practically the same tale about it.

Sergeant Martin, T. C. Bowles and H. R. Dameron made the investigation and brought the boy to police headquarters in company with his father, Jim Pritchett, who is a highly respected hard-working negro. Judge Harris was out of the city, and on account of the extreme youth of the boy, Sergeant Martin did not wish to put him in jail, so he was placed under a $100 bond for his appearance at court tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, and was then allowed to return to his home in the custody of his father.

The officers also brought the rifle in with them, which was put away in the police station for future reference. Dr. Taylor viewed the boy's dead body. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Preparing For Final Assault On Sao Paulo

BUENOS AIRES, July 9.—Latest advices from Rio Janeiro, indicate that the pro-government forces of the rebel positions in Sao Paulo was premature. The positions now being bombarded by heavy artillery, with aeroplanes co-operating, it was stated, and the official word is that all is ready for the final assault.

A battle between rebel forces and six hundred marines and soldiers transported to Santos in the battleship Minas Geraes, near Sao Paulo, according to unofficial accounts, the federal losses in the fighting were heavy, totalling 250 dead and 200 wounded.

NEW OUTFIELDER FROM N. Y. GIANTS IS SIGNED, EXPECTED TOMORROW

Announcement was made today by Manager Herb Murphy that Benji Weger, outfielder, recently signed by the New York Giants, will report tomorrow night. Murphy said that he is no bad outfielder, and after he settles down to his position, can play as good a game in the infield as any body.

The locals and Raleigh will play the third and final game of the series today. McWhorter will be Murphy's choice for the mound while Kelly is expected to send in Garrison, his star pitcher.

The Twins come here tomorrow for three games and with the excellent player in the line-up, the attendance should be boosted to a good high mark.

DAN RIVER RISING FROM RECENT HEAVY RAINFALLS, FARMS ARE BADLY WASHED

On account of the continuous rains, the Dan River is constantly rising, and at an early hour this morning was a muddy turbulent stream. In the event that the rain continues very much longer, the water will most likely reach the high water marks. The rains have also resulted in the small streams swelling to unusual proportions, and the City Engineer has received a number of calls from people whose basements have been filled with water. The folk in the country districts are also experiencing difficulties on account of the persistent wet weather. The farmers were already considerably behind with their work, and the crops were planted unusually late. The small grain crops are now ready to harvest, and in order to save this crop, it will be necessary for the farmer to put in his appearance in the immediate future.

Reports from Pelham and surrounding country this morning were that numerous small bridges had been washed on side roads, also that the farm lands have been badly damaged by the heavy rains. A number of instances in which crops were badly damaged were reported.

LEGION CONVENTION DRIVE ON MONDAY

Definite steps were taken last night at a supper at the Country Club for the Chamber of Commerce and the local civic clubs to fulfill their promise to the American Legion, made last summer when the delegates to the State Convention of the American Legion were told: "You get the convention; we'll get the money."

After supper, Frank Talbott, general chairman of the campaign committee, referred briefly to the promise made to Danville's young World War veterans last summer and called attention to the fact that the time to make good on the promise had come.

He then called on Dr. Samuel T. Senter, pastor of Mt. Vernon church, who spoke along lines of patriotism and stressed the fact that the men and women who will attend this convention will be representative of the state's best people, including service men from all walks of life.

He pictured the days of 17 and 18 when all saluted the young men who were to carry our flag across the sea and bade them God-speed; the days of their return, and the period of reconstruction which the nations are passing through. He called attention to the fact that this would be the first chance that the people of Danville will have to greet many of these men, and their auxiliary mothers and sisters.

He spoke of the value of the having these men here, and the lessons in patriotism youth would learn from their appearance in Danville. He stressed the fact that they come not as a body of soldiers, but as men who have experienced war and whose big aim is to know their future wars.

Following his talk, which was strongly inspirational, the chairman announced the committees which will next week call on the people of Danville to contribute to the fund.

General discussion of methods brought to the fact that nearly every one in Danville is interested in the convention and that it is the one thing on which there can be no objection from any one.

During the past few years, many people have signified their desire to make the convention a success, and have assured those working on the plans for the gathering that they would be ready when the call came for funds.

The importance of Danville having won the convention last year over Petersburg, Portsmouth and Hampton was brought out, and the desire of people all over the state to get this convention was shown in that already one of last year's contenders has started to circulate the state in an effort to bring the convention to that city next year.

Papers throughout the state are carrying articles every week advertising the convention, and it is expected that all accommodations for housing will be made.

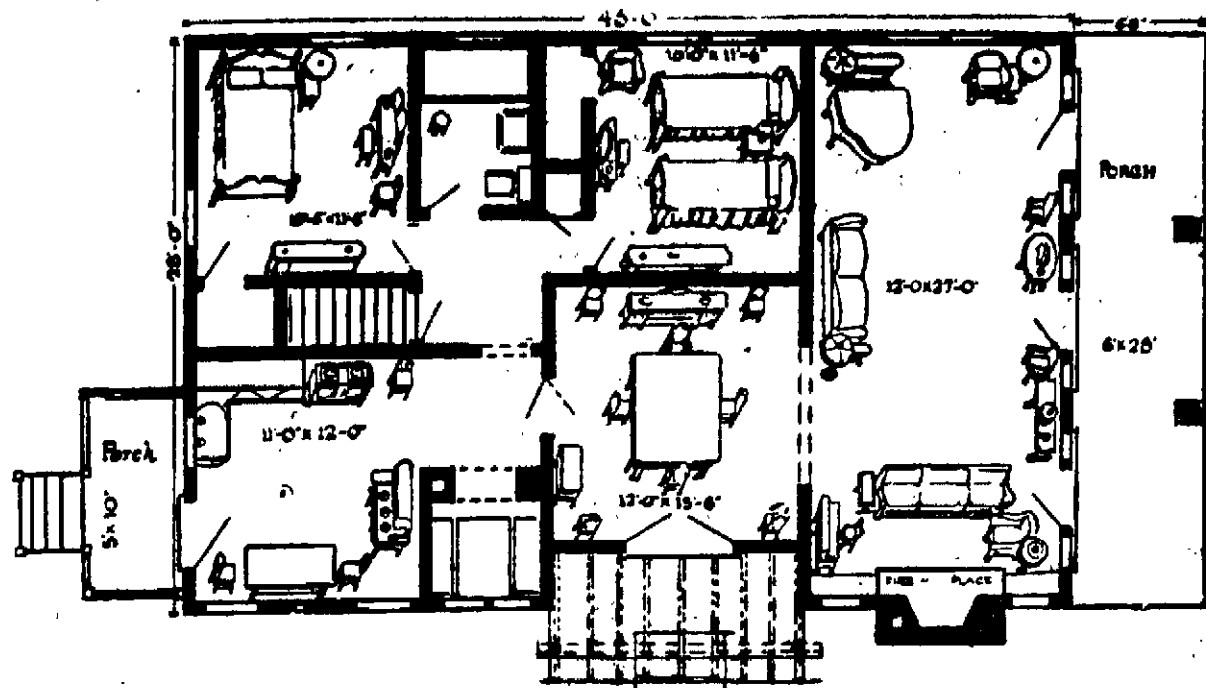

Everybody in Danville will be interested in the convention, for there is no home in the city which did not furnish a brother, a son, or a near relative to help keep the Star-Spanned banner still waving over the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

Feeling that no one will want to miss an opportunity to subscribe to this fund, the committee has arranged to have all the downtown business district visited by workers, and they will meet at the Chamber of Commerce Monday morning at 10 o'clock to receive final instructions and to go out and get the money.

Meanwhile, many who are not in the business district will feel the desire to contribute towards the entertainment of the convention, which will bring to Danville for the first time the commander-in-chief of the American Legion expeditionary forces, General John J. Pershing; the past national commander of the American Legion, Alvin Owsley, now prominently mentioned as one of the possible nominees of the Democratic party for vice president; and Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

In order to save the working committee time, any person desiring to contribute direct to C. L. Booth, treasurer, the Chamber of Commerce, or leave with Thomas A. Fox, post adjutant of the American Legion.

WELL-BALANCED BUNGALOW

FLOOR PLAN AND FRONT VIEW OF 5-ROOM BUNGALOW

Beauty and convenience in a home are in no way dependent upon the size of the house.

The quiet charm of the home illustrated here, is an example. The interesting curve of the porch roof, the French doors with side lights in front, the pergola porch opening from the dining room and the pleasing plain treatment of the fireplace and chimney combine to make the exterior of this home one of character.

The long living room, across the front of the home, has a wealth of light admitted by the doors, side lights and windows. The fireplace on one end of the room and the uninterrupted wall space at the other suggest interesting groupings of furniture.

The dining room is conveniently situated, of adequate size and is well lighted by French doors.

The bedroom group is efficient with the bath between, well segregated from the rest of the house.

The house is suitable for a narrow lot, the width being 28 feet, with a length of 43 feet without the porches.

The approximate cost of this home is $8,000. This figure is subject to as many variations as there are separate communities where it may be built.

PROMINENT CHARLOTTESVILLE MAN KILLED HIMSELF

While in a temporary fit of despondency, due to ill health, Thomas J. Wood, a prominent farmer and merchant residing at Wildwood, on the Virginia Air Line Railway, in Fluvanna county, ended his life at an early hour.

News of the death of Mr. Wood was brought to his partner, Bruce Davis, of the Davis and Wood Buick Company, 521 East Main street, this city, by a messenger from Wildwood about 8 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Wood ended his life soon after entering his general merchandise store at Wildwood at 7 o'clock, the weapon used being a 30-gauge shot gun. The residence adjoins the rear of the store and the report of the gun was heard by members of the family as they were seated at the breakfast table. Hastening to the store they found Mr. Wood lying prone upon the floor, with life extinct.

Mr. Wood was a native of Albemarle county and was born and reared near Burnsville. He was about fifty years of age. He married Miss Blanche Munday, daughter of Mr. J. O. Munday, of near Burnsville. She survives, with three children, two daughters and one son.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES INSTALLED

The Commercial Bank of Danville has just placed in their safety vault 250 new safety boxes which makes the total number of safety boxes available to the people of the city and surrounding county 747.

This bank has the only exclusive safety box vault in the city and up to the present has not been able to meet the demands of the people for boxes of certain sizes.

As a safe place for deeds, mortgages, stocks, bonds, insurance policies, contracts, receipts, wills and other personal papers a safety deposit box will relieve one from worry.

A group of bust portraits of Lucille Mott, Susan E. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton were placed in the crypt of the nation capital.

OLD BANDSMAN WRITES OF LIFE

Every man or boy who is interested in bands and band instruments will find something appealing in an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post entitled "The Silver Cornet Band."

Written by a cornetist who graduated from a "kid" band in a middle west town and saw service of many years with Ringling Brothers Circus band and later as organizer of a band at the University of Wisconsin, the article chronicles the rise, fall and renaissance of the village band and concludes that the present finds it in its highest development and on the firmest foundation in history.

There is food for thought in the views of the writer of the article for those who will not conceive that a band is a fine asset for a community, large or small.

Two men were arrested for sleeping in a Los Angeles theater and we think we have seen that show.

RADIO NOTES

WIRELESS IN CHINA

Hongkong has two broadcasting stations, but both are weak and do limited broadcasting. One, however, is planning a 1000-watt transmitting set for broadcasting vocal and instrumental music, besides news, weather and shipping reports.

RADIO KILLS BIRDS

Members of the United States Biological Survey report the death of thousands of birds annually due to radio. They are not electrocuted, but they meet death by crashing blindly into aerials.

WATCH B BATTERIES

To avoid waste, use only the size B battery that you need for the set. To tap off the required voltage from a larger battery is waste, because the life of the unused cells also is shortened.

SHORT WAVES FOR AIR

Aerial lighthouses may be constructed with short wave transmitting sets for all year round guidance of aviators. The transmitters are to be based on the one and a half and two-meter radio wave transmitters recently produced by the French commandant, Rene Mesny.

COLLEGE NEWS SERVICE

Chief colleges of the country are binding together to start a news service by radio, co-operate in broadcasting and help one another in research work. The league formed by these colleges is expected to include a membership of 150.

WIRELESS IN ARCTIC

The Oxford University Arctic expedition is to be fully equipped with wireless transmitting and receiving apparatus. The sledging party which will explore the islands north and east of Spitzbergen will carry both types of apparatus and the planes also will be armed with radio.

PICK RADIO PLAYS

GHOSTS ON THE AIR

Spooks will penetrate the ether one of these nights, when KGO, Oakland, Calif., broadcasts the radio drama "The Ghosts." There will be ghastly music, too.

IF YOUR RECEIVER GOES WRONG

If you have a regenerative set, keep this trouble sheet handy. It tells you what to look for in case of any of four possibilities—no signals, no regeneration, too critical adjustment, or weak signals.

No Signals—Antenna grounded; "A" battery dead; "B" battery dead; wrong connections; broken wire; bad soldering; shorted condenser.

No Regeneration—Wrong grid leak; "B" battery low; tickler leads reversed; broken tickler connection; not enough turns on secondary.

Too Critical—Too much grid leak; too much plate voltage; too large a secondary or tickler; phone condenser too small; grid wires too close to panel.

Weak Signals—Low "A" battery; low "B" battery; wrong grid connections; poor antenna insulation.

RADIO TABS

King George of England, has a seven-tube receiving set.

Simultaneous broadcasting in England has received great popularity.

A broadcast receiving license in Great Britain costs $2.50 a year.

England has issued about 56,000 experimental licenses.

British amateurs recently heard an Argentine station.

Station at Madrid, Spain, is broadcasting on two and a half kilowatts.

For economy buy a honeycomb coil, rather than make one.

Socket connections should be as far apart as possible.

Wilson was the first U. S. president to broadcast his voice.

Sunlight shortens the life of a storage battery.

Acid should not be used as a soldering flux, because it attacks the copper.

Radio manufacturers and others suggest the use of "radioact" instead of "broadcast."

Hang up the phones when not in use, so that the cords will not be kinked.

American Radio Relay League is checking up amateur radio conditions in foreign countries.

Great Britain has three classes of receiving licenses—broadcasting, construction and experimental.

From license fees alone the British Broadcasting Co. gets a revenue of about $1,190,000 a year.

Oscillations of uncontrolled receivers can be heard as far as 100 miles at sea from New York.

Station KDKA at Pittsburg is regularly received by British amateurs on low wavelength.

A Lake Linden (Mich.) fan reports he has logged 242 broadcasters on a simple regenerative set and three-tube amplifier.

Just put on this ear set and get any local station, if not more. For Frank Ferris of Boston has fitted it up with a crystal detector in each phone—a complete receiver in one piece. He is shown wearing the set which, he says, will act as a reflex with any single tube set.

BETTER STEEL OUTLOOK

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Steel mill operations this week will be the largest in more than two months. A turn around the corner, for the better, in the industrial slackness is indicated by the official announcement today of the week's operating schedule. All mills in the Mahoning Valley and Youngstown district show an increase in scheduled production, and plants which have been partly idle for some time will be operating nearly at capacity again, starting either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Ingot production will be brought up to 5 per cent of capacity.

LIGHT WALLS SAVE GAS BILLS

DRESDEN, Germany, July 8.—The somber-hued wallpapers so common in Germany are giving way to lighter shades. The change is not because of artistic reasons but a result of education of the public to the fact that light-toned walls save gas and electric bills.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement
Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit. The large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing.

It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it.

Its reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

COP DISMISSED FOR HIS PART IN DEMONSTRATION

Shots Were Fired at Burning of Cross by Robbed Men

(By The Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Harry Trout, an upper Darby policeman, has been dismissed from the force after being identified as one of ten hooded and armed men who burned a cross in the woods near there to terrorize a troop of negro boys in camp.
According to the police, Trout confessed last night that he and his friends wished to frighten away the negroes, who had driven white boys away from a swimming hole near their camp. Shots were fired in the demonstration.
Trout was charged with the men with setting to riot and illegal use of firearms will be issued, it is said.
Four men, who the police said admitted were members of the K. K. K., have been arrested in Ardmore for a demonstration near that suburb last Thursday night in which two policemen were shot.

Increase Shown In Expense of Welfare Body

Interesting figures were brought out at a meeting of Community Welfare Board held today showing a large increase in the work. The reports show that in the past seven months more has been expended for relief than was spent during the entire year dating from December 1, 1922 to December 1, 1923 and exceeding by $2,100 the amount of the total budget for the fiscal year dating from December 1, 1923 to December 1, 1924.
The amount expended for relief during the fiscal year dating from December 1, 1923 to December 1, 1924 was $6,494.45. The total relief budget for this year dating from December 1, 1923 to December 1, 1924 was $6,500.00. The amount expended since December 1, 1923 to June 1, 1924 (five months) was $8,445.40, or $2,445.40 more than the total budget for the entire year.
The increase in number of families to whom relief has been given shows an increase of 30 over last year, there having been 111 families in 1923, and 141 this year.
The increase in expense has been due partly to the natural growth of the work but primarily to industrial depression.

Independents Will Nominate Their Candidates Today

(By The Associated Press.)
INDIANAPOLIS, July 9.—Candidates for the presidency and vice presidency will be nominated by the national independent party, a political organization said to be the outgrowth of the committee of 43 which meets here today. A referendum vote was used in choosing the nominee and the ballots were to be counted.
The successful candidates will be announced at a banquet this evening.
Those who have been placed in nomination for the presidency are N. N. Neilson, Fort Worth, Texas; James C. Fuller, City, Mo.; R. L. Baldwin, Roberts, Montana; J. H. Hopkins, New York City; and John Zahnd, Indianapolis.
The independent party will not endorse the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette for the presidency, it was said last night.

War Department Seeks Whereabouts of Mayor McLeary

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 9.—The War Department sought information today of the whereabouts of Maj. Samuel McLeary of the coast artillery corps, who left Norfolk, Va., July 1, to drive to Fort Myer, Va., and has since been reported as missing. An accident was feared. Major McLeary was driving a Dodge touring car with license number 19,718 of Kansas. He was reported at Raleigh, N. C., July 1, a. m. July 2nd, when he was said to have tried the Bank of Hampton, Va., to forward money to him in care of the Jefferson Hotel, at Columbia, S. C. The money was never called for and he has since not reported.
Major McLeary's nearest of kin is Mrs. Samuel H. McLeary, 620 Colonial avenue, Norfolk, Va.

Ex-Service Men Urged to Send In Applications

T. A. Fox, Jr., advises that unless a large number of applications are received at Memorial Mansion for assistance in filling out the adjusted compensation insurance blanks, the parties who have been kept there for this purpose, will be after tonight. The office will be opened at 7:30 o'clock this evening. A large number of applications have been distributed so far, and the boys who are entitled to them are urged to get their blanks immediately. Thirty-five application blanks were filed on Monday evening, however, there were only a small number of applicants on hand yesterday evening. One of the requirements in filing these blanks is that an imprint of the fingers be made on the blank, which is done by pressing the front of three fingers on a stamp and transferring the impression to the application blank.

Lonnie Hayden Is On Trial Today

West Virginian Is Carried to New High Mark

ing to throw their strength elsewhere.
The indications were for a contest between John W. Davis, who was riding a rising tide as the season adjourned early this morning and E. T. Meredith, of Iowa, former secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet, to whom McAdoo leaders were attempting to deliver most of the McAdoo strength. At the beginning of the session today there was an undercurrent indicating a burst for Oscar S. Meredith, of Indiana, whose supporters expected to draw strength from several states, including New York, Ohio and Illinois.

It was in quite a different atmosphere that the convention met today. The marching, singing bands of McAdoo women waving flags and banners, that they intended to stay until Christmas for Mack-E-E-Doo were absent. There were scores of empty chairs in the delegates and alternates sections and canvasses of their forces by delegation leaders showed that few of the delegations were up to full strength. The convention was running from today onward at the expense of the democratic national committee and the band in the left, although still playing vigorously was doing so at the expense of the mayor's committee.

Apparently the musicians were still on full pay, forty tackled William Tell for the forty-first time with enthusiasm and gusto.

Meredith workers were busy on the floor carrying the word from the McAdoo people, and the plans were for Georgia and Texas which have been solid McAdoo delegations, to go for Meredith on the first ballot today. There were some votes for Davis in Texas but it was being held under unit rule. Georgia, it was said, was ready to break the unit rule but the McAdoo advice for Meredith, Massachusetts, which has been voting 33-1-2 for Smith and 2-1-2 for McAdoo was in a predicament. The religious issue and the klan had made things troublesome for the delegates from that state and for the effect at home at least they were stuck with Governor Smith, for a time.

Governor Davis of Kansas was not convinced that he was out of it and was trying to recover his delegation from John W. Davis of West Virginia. The availability of a dirt farmer of the ticket was being discussed to his advantage.

When the remaining McAdoo women delegates did come into the convention, they came noiselessly, but with some fight still left. They distributed leaflets pointing out that while Mr. McAdoo has released his delegates he has not actually withdrawn.

"We will stand by him to the end," said the women defiantly.

Today's session began with a prayer by the Rev. Wm. Kilkinson of Trinity church—"The Bishop of all States." The first ballot of the day was the 10th of the convention—an unheard of, an undreamed of record.

California which had been solid for McAdoo, split her vote, giving Chairman Walsh 19, the majority of it.
John W. Davis picked up Delaware's six; Dr. Murphy of Florida, one of the Florida votes, Georgia split for the first time, giving McAdoo 11, but 12 to Meredith, and five to John W. Davis.

Idaho's eight went solid to David F. Houston, former secretary of treasury. Senator Walsh of Montana and Underwood picked up scattering votes in various States, as the roll call proceeded. Maryland got on the Davis band wagon on this ballot and gave Gov. Ritchie's 16 to the West Virginian.

Governor Ritchie himself announced the ballot.

When New Jersey broke up, 16 of its votes went to Underwood and 12 to Glass. In North Carolina, J. W. Caldwell picked up 20. In Ohio he got 23 more. South Carolina which had been voting solidly for McAdoo, gave its votes under the unit rule for J. W. Davis. It put Mr. Davis in the lead for the first time.

Texas turned its forty bodily for Meredith. Virginia gave half of her 24 to J. W. Davis also but kept 12 for Glass. New York split up, giving the bulk of her vote to Underwood. He got 66-1-2. Then Connecticut changed and gave 11 of her 15 to Underwood also.

NEW YORK, July 9.—With the supporters of Wm. G. McAdoo released and Gov. Smith's withdrawal, conditioned upon similar action by the Californian, both of them, delegates to the Democratic National convention held until noon today to survey the new situation in the balloting for a presidential nominee.

The Smith announcement, which followed a file conference arranged between the two contenders in an effort to get them together on a compromise candidate, was made at the beginning of the long night session.

The only answer was a McAdoo drive that put him once more in the lead. McAdoo to Chairman Walsh releasing his delegates was read, and the 10th ballot was taken.

The McAdoo leaders said the letter was in no way connected with the Smith announcement, and it was phrased as not to put him in the position of formal withdrawal from the race. The Smith leaders held their lines, waiting to determine its effect; whether their condition for withdrawal had been met in fact, if not in words.

Pronounced drifts set in toward E. T. Meredith, of Iowa, secretary of agriculture in the Wilson cabinet, and Chairman Walsh of Montana. John W. Davis, of West Virginia, boomed in the night session after the final withdrawal of Senator Ralston of Indiana, at the close of a similar drive during the day held most of his gains.

On the 29th ballot McAdoo had 353.5 votes and Smith had 353. On the next roll call, after his letter was read, McAdoo dropped to 190, while Smith held 353.5. Davis, whose total had been driven up from 45 at the end of the day session to 216 on the 29th ballot was in second place with 202.5.

Meredith, who had been receiving a favorite son vote from Iowa from the 28th ballot through the 35th and had then lost it back to McAdoo during the evening drive, regained it on the 29th, giving him 37 and advanced on the 30th to 75.3. Chairman Walsh's total jumped from four to 22 on the 30th ballot. Governor Glass, of Virginia, given a trout the day before, dropped from 65.5 to 35. Senator Queen of Oklahoma, again got his state's 20 votes. Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, starting with 22.5 wound up with 17.5 and former Senator

His Funeral This Afternoon

CALVIN COOLIDGE, JR.

Saulsbury held his six from Delaware.

Si rothers were named on the last ballot. Former Secretary Daniels received North Carolina's 24, former Ambassador Gerard was given South Dakota's ten, David F. Houston got 3, Newton D. Baker 4, Gov. Bryan, of Nebraska, 2, and Major Berry 1.

That was the situation on the surface, with 17 candidates on the list—six had received votes during the day and night when the 10th ballot fell due and was put off until today.

Under the surface, however, were many portents, but only impending developments could disclose their real meaning. Reports were circulated that McAdoo and some of his leading advisers wanted his strength to go to Meredith, others said David L. Rockwell, his campaign manager, favored Chairman Walsh. All asserted that in releasing his delegates, McAdoo was not attempting to direct their course to any specific column.

The Meredith boom, however, had gained momentum while Rockwell was passing the word of the impending letter during the 29th roll call, and during the 10th prominent McAdoo men were working in his behalf.

Where the Smith supporters would go, once they were satisfied McAdoo was definitely out of the race, was still another question.

The eighth day of balloting culminated in the longest night session of the convention, beset with drama in the air for the first time in many days and worked up through colors and action into the most spirited spectacle of the spirit-quenching week of monotonous balloting.

First came the Ralston "run" that put him up and 195-1-4 at the end of the day session. Then during the recess, came his telegram cutting off plans in the making to launch an even more vigorous drive for him at the night session. The McAdoo-Smith conference, the subsequent decision of the governor to present his conditional withdrawal, the long series of conferences in the McAdoo room while his lieutenants drove his column back to a veto position and finally his letter to the Chairman. This major movement of the drama was enlivened throughout with motions to adjourn, attacks on the two-thirds and unit rules, and the frantic efforts to drive commanders.

U. S. WOMEN POSE AS MANICURISTS

BY HENRY WALES
(Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, July 8.—Two wealthy American women, both here obtaining divorces, evaded a successful scheme to the Prince of Wales this morning. Living in the Hotel Maurice, the same hotel at which the prince has been staying, the women daily visited the coiffeur, manicure and barber shop in the hotel, becoming good terms with the various employees. When the prince is staying at the Maurice every morning a barber, manicure girl and assistant and a Chinese pedicure visit the prince's suite to fix him up for the day.

One of the American women, who was a Chicago manicurist before marrying the millionaire she is now divorcing, figured out a plan to see the prince personally by inducing the barber shop to permit her to substitute her regular manicurist and to fetch her divorcing lady friend along as her assistant.

This morning the two society women, with borrowed aprons and carrying bowls of nail brushes and scissors and the mysterious little bottles all manicurists use, proceeded to the prince's apartment with the barber and Chinese foot carpenter and proceeded to do the royal nails.

The heir to the British throne was an Imperial yellow Japanese kimono during the manicure and commented on the costly diamond and emerald rings and ropes of pearls on the humble finger-nail artists and tipped each of them thirty francs. ($2.50.)

FIVE HUNDRED SCOUTS OUT ON STRIKE

By WALTER WILGUS
MANILA, July 8.—It is now learned authoritatively from Fort McKinley that more than 500 scouts were involved in the strike here.

The trouble arose this morning when the men fell in for fatigue duty without arms and refused to work. The men now are held in the barracks without arms. Generally it is believed that the Legionario Dei Trabaja, or Knights of Labor, a secret society, backs this movement and at the strike of 500 Filipino laborers at Cavite navy yard, which was called several days ago and is still unsettled. The Legionario has semi-bolshevik tendencies, though it is not believed it is connected with Russia.

Manuel Quezon is honorary president of the Legionario and areas it as an important political weapon. There is no ground for suspecting Japanese influence.

The Fort McKinley strike was the culmination of many incidents which include cutting the cable from Manila to Corregidor and clashes at Camp Nichols aviation field, near Manila. The army is disposed to let the Fort McKinley ringleaders off with a discharge from imprisonment, although their act is unquestionably mutinous.

SIMPLE FUNERAL FOR C. COOLIDGE TODAY AT 4 P. M.

Simplicity Rules in Every Detail Arrangement For Services.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Only the setting of the historic White House East Room, with its profusion of banked flowers, might distinguish the simple funeral services there today for Calvin Coolidge, from that for any other youth of his country. The government officials were permitted their wish to pay respects to the president's son, but the desire of the bereaved family for simplicity ruled in every detail of arrangement.

A prayer by the Reverend Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church which the president and Mrs. Coolidge attended here, his readings of Scripture and the singing of favorite hymns by a quartette was the simple rite for the last afternoon service.

Tonight the body of the youth, whose death Monday has cast a shadow over the White House and brought the keenest sorrow to those who had grown to know him during the little time he had been at home there, will be taken by the president's family, now broken for the first time, to his boyhood home at Northampton, Mass. There, amid old friends, services will be held tomorrow at the Edwards Congregational Church, of which Calvin was a member. Later in the day he will be laid to rest beside the grave of the president's mother at Plymouth, Vermont.

Joining the family in attendance at the White House service today were a few intimate friends, cabinet members, chiefs of diplomatic missions, justices of the supreme court and members of congress now in the city and high officials of the army, navy and marine corps.

On the journey to Northampton and Plymouth the president's family will be accompanied by the cabinet officers and their wives, J. Butler Wright, third assistant secretary of State, Col. C. O. Sherill, military aid to the president, Captain Adolphus Andrews, Naval Aide, Lieutenant Joel T. Boone and Major James F. Coughlin, the president's physicians who attended young Calvin in his last illness; C. Bancroft Slemmons, secretary to the president; T. T. Clark, the president's personal secretary and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, personal friends also will be on the funeral train. The party will be joined at Northampton by John Coolidge, the president's father.

To bear the body to its last resting place, six marines assigned to the presidential yacht, Mayflower, who with six blue jackets from the yacht, have stood guard over the bier in east room of the White House since yesterday also will proceed with the party, under command of Lieutenant Edgar Allen Fox. The president consented to the military guard for his son when it was chosen from among those aboard the Mayflower, who had become his fast friends during the week-end trips of the president's family on the yacht which were young Calvin's happiest occasions in the White House.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge were said to have faced the ordeal of the funeral service today with the same fortitude with which they have so far borne their heavy sorrow.

John, the elder son, who has lost an inseparable companion in Calvin's death, also was said to be showing as brave a front as a boy could.

Set for 4 p. m., the funeral rites included first the reading of the 23rd Psalm, John xiv, verses 1 to 3, 15 to 20 and 25 to 27, and Romans 8, verses 31 to 39. The selection for the quartet, which the boy has heard on previous occasions, was the hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go."

Reading by the Rev. Mr. Pierce of "Away," by James Whitcomb Riley and Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," followed, and then the hymn, "Still, Still, With Thee When Purple Morning Breaketh," by the quartet, and the benediction.

Musicians from the Mayflower were asked to play a prelude and postlude. President Coolidge visited his office for a short time this morning.

Secretary Hughes, who returned today from Philadelphia, called on him there. Mr. Hughes with Mrs. Hughes will join the other members of the cabinet at the funeral this afternoon and will go to Northampton and Plymouth.

Securities Mellon and Hoover will not accompany the funeral party, the former being in Europe and Mr. Hoover in California.

Government departments were ordered by their heads to close at 3 p. m. No official instructions went out, but each department, acting for itself, decided to cease all business an hour before the funeral services.

Bearing a wreath of flowers, two members of the Petersburg, Va., boys' chamber of commerce came to the White House this morning. Calvin was made an honorary member of this organization last winter and had planned to go down to Petersburg for a visit with the boys' organization this summer. Christian Munt and Wilmer Robertson represented the Petersburg boys here today.

At noon, Mrs. Coolidge sent word that White House employees might enter the east room and those connected with the offices, the grounds and the White House proper. Most of them, close friends of the youth, filed past the casket. It was the first time any member outside of the intimate family circle has been permitted into the death house.

OLD SEA CAPTAIN IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH NEAR BOAT
PETERSBURG, Va., July 8.—News has been received here of the tragic death of Captain A. F. Darling, an old sea captain, who resided in a house on the Appomattox river, near Hopewell, whose body was found last night shot through the abdomen.

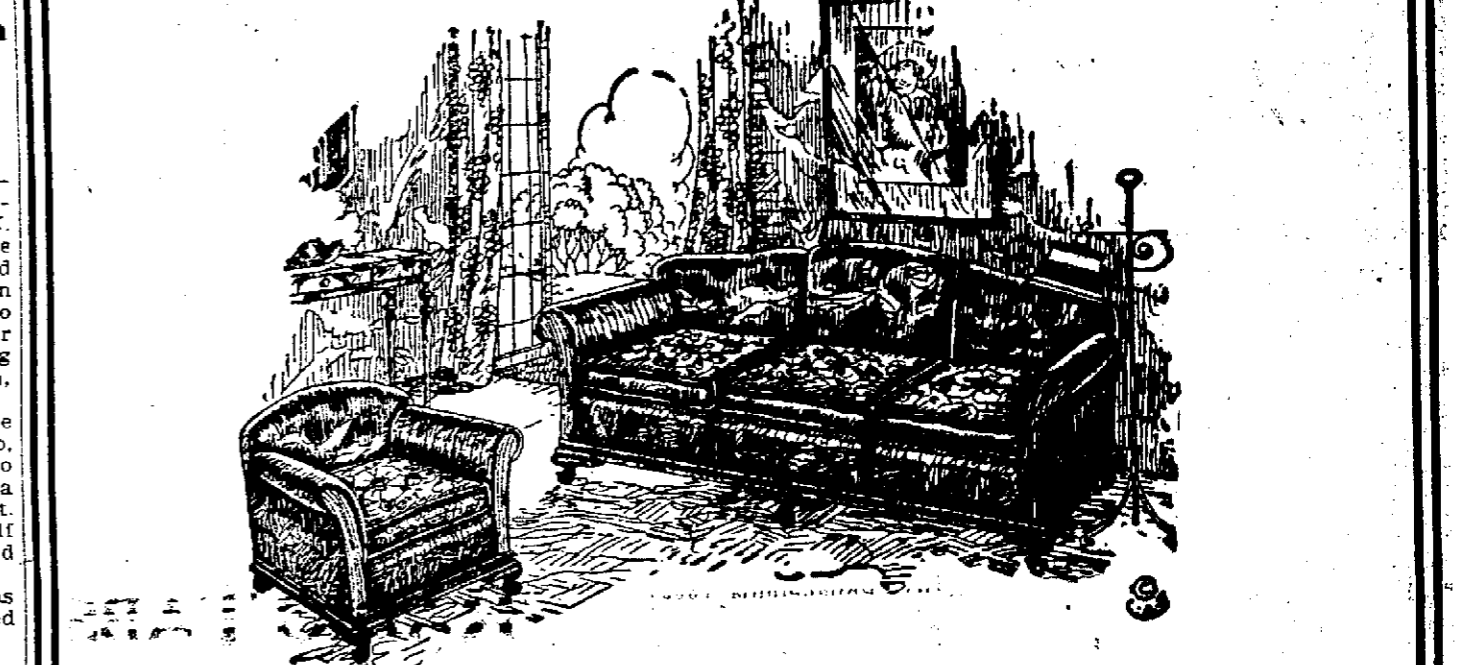

Captain Darling conducted a small store a short distance from his boat and between the boat and store his body was found. How he came to his death is not known. Darling had been residing in the neighborhood of Hopewell and City Point for a number of years and the frequently came to Petersburg, where he was widely known. He was unmarried.

From the nature of the wound it is said that the fatal shot must have been fired at short range.

Clerical work, stenography and office work in general are vocations in which women stand a good chance of marriage, records show, while school teaching is unsatisfactory in this respect.

Nurses Association.

The Danville Nurses Association held an enthusiastic meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening. Sixteen members were present among them Miss Florence Burrett of Ann Arbor, Mich., who has recently accepted the position of head nurse at Danville General Hospital. After the routine business meeting Miss Burrett gave a report of the biennial convention of the Nursing League of Education, the American Nurses Association and the National Association of Public Health Nursing, which was held in Detroit the latter part of May. Miss Burrett brought clippings and bulletins which will be added to the diary of reports and accounts of this association.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the announcement of a prize contest in which every member of the association is asked to take part, contributing by the first of September, a paper consisting of not more than two hundred and fifty words, outlining a plan by which a greater interest in the association may be stimulated. The sickness superintendent of the Edmunds Hospital, Miss Emily Allison, superintendent of General Hospital, and Miss Carmichael, public health nurse, will be the judges in the contest.

Among those present were Misses Sarah Simpson, Georgia Wilson, Kate Haulle, Frances Haulle, Annie Johnston, Annie Harrison, Elizabeth Staples, Grace Turberville, Willie Powell, Ethel Fowlkes, Miss Kent, Miss Carmichael, Miss Elmore and others.

Madame Party.

Guest of Mrs. Pritchett.

Fashion's Forecast

COOL FROCK FOR HOT DAYS

Almost denuded of sleeves makes this a splendid frock for hot-weather wear. And for those who prefer wrist-length sleeves, provision is made for same in pattern as shown in sketch of the back view. The design is of the popular coat type found becoming to almost any figure.

A vividly colored silk print would be lovely used for this style, the patterns for which cut in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. In the medium size, only 3 1/2 yards of 40-inch goods with 1 1/2 yards of 3-inch ribbon is required. Price in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Teacup yellow linen with violet ribbons is a striking possibility for an afternoon tub frock. You'd also like it in cretonne, ratine homespun or silk shirting.

Colonial Women of Affairs

A most interesting review of Mrs. Dexter's book as given in a recent issue of the New York Times says that she has turned new soil in the field of research and account which has yielded rich results. Mrs. Dexter investigates conditions and occupations of women during the early days of this country before 1776. It is interesting to note, according to the reviewer that Mrs. Dexter herself possesses the training and knowledge of sources necessary for the production of a book that will stand the test of modern standards. It is also interesting to note that her material has mostly been found by diligent search of the old newspapers of Colonial times whose announcements advertisements and inconspicuous items have been sifted out of the old household accounts and diaries and a few other sources of equal reliability.

The book being chiefly concerned with the occupations of women of that time and their position in society, draws a picture different from the prevailing conception of it, for she holds that the women of that time without question or hindrance in a great variety and perhaps a larger percentage of occupations than is the case today.

She points to the fact that the Puritan Fathers could have been so adverse to amusement as they have been painted if they are to be judged by the number of actresses of that day who found their profession profitable among them being Mary Stage, of Virginia, a first-leading-lady of an American theatrical company early in the 18th century.

One of the most interesting chapters is that which relates how those early women busied themselves with tongue, pen and printer's ink. The author has found proof that no least than 11 women ran printing presses and 16 of those published newspapers. Dina Nuthard was the first of these, setting up her press in Annapolis in 1693. Mrs. Dexter gives many instances of women-landowners and managers of plantations, packet lines, shops, bakeries, repair shops of all kinds. There were religious leaders, founders of towns, seamstresses, soap-makers, managers of warehouses, and secretaries. Having her calculations on actual count of advertisements appearing in the Boston Evening Post of 1773, Mrs. Dexter concludes that probably nine per cent of the merchants of Colonial days were women. They sold all manner of goods, dry-goods and groceries being the most frequent stock-in-trade.

The book is a valuable contribution to the social history of the country and to the story of the evolution of woman's economic position. It is a book whose graphic glimpses of Colonial life are very interesting.

This is the second of a series of five articles on methods of life saving about the water. The third will appear tomorrow.

By MARGARET PLUNKETT

When drowning a person frequently claps his hands around the neck of the one who is trying to save him. Unless the rescuer can break this hold both of them may sink.

The rescuer must place his right hand on the right jaw of the drowning person.

This movement will free the rescuer and leave him at the drowning person's back, from which point he will have command of the situation.

WOMEN ADOPT WIGS FOR EVENING WEAR

(Chicago Tribune Service.)
PARIS, July 8.—Smart society women are wearing wigs for evening wear. Fashionable gatherings at the theatres, restaurants and dance places at night reveal practically no bobbed heads, or shaved necks. At yesterday's polo game at St. Cloud many women were seen removing their hats and coats in their motor cars and witnessing the game bareheaded. The same sight was seen at Olympic stadium today.

GIFT TO PETERSBURG LIBRARY

PETERSBURG, Va., July 8.—According to City Manager Dewey, contributions of $10,000 have been made to the W. R. McKenny free library of this city, the donors being Mrs. George Cameron of Petersburg, and Miss Lyman D. Gilbert of Harrisonburg, Pa. who before her marriage was Mrs. Cameron. She donated was Miss Gabriella Cameron, of this city, who is to be used for the purchase of books for the children's department of the institution as a memorial to her son. Mrs. Gilbert, who has been married to Mr. Cameron, has donated $5,000 for books for adults as a memorial to her father, the late George Cameron. In addition to the $5,000 donation Mrs. Cameron gave books which belonged to her son.

—Mrs. Warner Wood has returned from Brooklyn, N. Y., where she has been visiting relatives for several weeks.

Mosquitoes and Flies Slain by the Roomful

Scientific spray destroys these annoying pests wholesale

No longer need folks waste their time and ruin their tempers with ineffectual "swats." Flies and mosquitoes now can be killed neatly—and with despatch—by a wonderful liquid spray that destroys these annoying pests by the roomful.

Dethol is the name of this new aid to summer comfort. A scientific formula worked out by Richmond chemists after years of careful experiment. A preparation that is safeguarding the health of thousands by ridding their homes of filthy, disease-carrying flies and other insects.

Sprayed freely through the house, and about the porch in the early evening, Dethol will insure the comfort of your whole family. Periodic sprayings in suspected places will keep the entire house free from roaches, ants, bedbugs, moths and other loathsome, destructive insect life. It does not stain.

Dethol also cleans like magic. Sprayed lightly on tile, marble, tubs, sinks, windows, bowls, etc., it cuts dirt and loosens grease without hard scrubbing—you simply wipe the sprayed articles clean with a damp rag. Sprayed in musty places about the house, Dethol purifies and disinfects the air. Full directions on can.

Drug, grocery, hardware and department stores sell Dethol in the handy combination package—complete with sprayer and large can of liquid—for 85 cents.

You really cannot afford to be without Dethol. If your dealer hasn't Dethol, we will send you the combination package, post free, on receipt of one dollar. Dethol Mfg. Co., Inc., Richmond, Va.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO PRISCILLA BRADFORD

My dear Priscilla! Leslie and John celebrate their wedding anniversary next Friday, and Leslie has been kind enough to say that I might invite you my dear Priscilla. I hope you will delay your return home until after that event.

I hope my dear (that you did not take the little altercation between John and Leslie the other day as of any great moment. I thought at the time that John had no right to find fault with Leslie for bobbing her hair but upon thinking it over, I think you are right in your suggestion that Leslie should have waited until she had spoken to John about whether she followed his advice or not.

I am finding out, my dear that the young women of this generation, however are very independent. Leslie is a very sweet girl but she does not always defer to John's wishes in the same way that I used to defer to John's father's wishes.

She is also particularly bent on having her own way with little John, and seemed very much put out when she arrived home and found that I had been rocking him to sleep.

The first night when she put him to bed in the dark I really went mad he screamed so. I thought he was going to burst a blood vessel, but she would not allow me to go near him and John agreed with her, although I was sure that the child would physically hurt himself.

For the first time since I have known Leslie she spoke quite respectfully to me and said:

"Mother I never dreamed that you would interfere in the regime that I had instituted for little Jack. No one rocks children now-a-days. It is very unscientific. The child should be taught to go to bed in the dark."

For three nights that poor baby sobbed and moaned himself to sleep and when I mentioned that I was sorry for him Leslie said, in a very abrupt and decided manner:

"You certainly should be sorry for him. Mother, as it is all your fault. Babies learn very quickly. At that age they are completely self-centered and dislikes are all that they understand. I do not see yet why you should go into the room and take little Jack up after Sarah had put him to bed."

"Oh I didn't do that," I said innocently. "I undressed him and rocked to sleep, and I am quite sure, Leslie, if you had a child of your own you would not be able to forgo that hour of the day when she has her babe in her arms."

"You will forgive me, Mother Prescott," said Leslie crisply, "If I say that I think perhaps Jack would not be so selfish if he had been brought up scientifically." (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

A Super-Clay

Brought me beauty and youth.

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I look back on a glorious career. First as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grandmother's age, a beauty still playing a beauty's part.

I owe all that to several factors but the greatest is a new beauty clay. Now I have arranged with druggists and toilet count—Edna Wallace Hopper tells to supply it to every woman I want it to bring to others what it brought to me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay. Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum results.

I owe this clay to men who have given it many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it. No woman keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. That is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my particular clay. But I urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

The Magical Effects. My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs it. It draws out the causes of black heads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

What's Going on in the World

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

NEA Service Writer

Politicians—those who admit anything at all—agree that the past week has improved the Progressive prospects enormously. Of the Progressives themselves, the more hopeful are even claiming victory. The more cautious ones don't go quite this far, but they do express confidence that La Follette will get more votes than either the Republican or the Democratic candidate, though perhaps not more than both of them put together.

Not Worried.

If so, with the House left to decide the issue, the present political division might make it impossible for the representatives to agree on a president. In such a case, presumably President Coolidge would go on holding office pending his successor's selection. But this isn't worrying the Progressives. If they get a plurality of the votes, they say it will mean the speedy end of the party and a realignment along liberal and conservative ideas, with the latter certain to sweep the country at the succeeding election.

While the Progressives have hoped all along to draw a good many votes from the Democrats as well as the Republicans, the general impression, until the New York convention was pretty well along, was that their lost fall would be taken from the Republicans. But the way the convention has split the Democratic party has changed this opinion. The belief now is that voters in shoals will desert both old groups to get under the Progressive banner.

Oil Again.

According to officials of the District of Columbia, where ex-Secretary of War Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Doheny and E. L. Doheny, Jr. were indicted on charges growing out of their oil deals, the trial of the quartet will be as good as the senate's Teapot Dome investigation. But the public is skeptical. Judging from the comment, the general belief is that nobody will go to prison as a result of the inquiry, that the cases simply will string along indefinitely until finally they peter out altogether.

Just Detecting.

It looks, however, as if Gaston B. Means, the investigators' star witness in the Daugherty inquiry, will go to prison. He's still fighting his case, but the prosecution has progressed as far as a conviction and sentence. Means will have to get the lower court reversed to escape and it may be difficult. He was found guilty of helping to get 5 barrels of whiskey out of the government's hands, to be sold by the drink. Means admits he did help but says he did it as a detective—to get evidence against bootleggers.

Japan.

The Washington government isn't worried over the anti-American "incidents," which have occurred in Japan since the new United States immigration law passed. The perpetrators have been private individuals and the Japanese officials honestly have done their best to run them down and punish them. But there isn't any question a lot of ill feeling exists which may lead to something later.

THE LAND CAME OUT TO MEET HIM

ONE OF THE "FLOATING ISLANDS" CAPTAIN JONAS PENDLEBURY SIGHTER IN THE PALAWAN PASSAGE BETWEEN THE PHILIPPINES AND BORNEO. THE CAPTAIN IS SEEN IN THE INSET.

By A. H. FREDERICK
NEA Service Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Land was coming out to meet him. Captain Jonas Pendlebury, master of the liner President Adams, couldn't figure it out. He scratched his head and looked at his charts. They only made him wonder all the more. He changed his course and slackened speed. But still the land trees and all, kept floating toward him. Eight little islands there were.

Eight little islands haphazardly swimming around. Eight little islands inhabited by chattering monkeys, singing birds and innumerable cobras. "Eight of them there were," the skipper says.

"One measured some seven acres. We sighted them in the Palawan passage. That is a sort of 'cut' in the China sea, between Borneo and the Palawan island of the Philippine group. "There were palm trees on them higher than our wireless masts. Foolish us, too.

"But, sir, they were floating along as pretty as you please. And they came within 40 feet of us."

A generalized substantiation of Captain Pendlebury's story comes from the National Geographic Society.

These islands are not unique, its records reveal. Others have been seen in tidal rivers, chiefly off the east coast of Borneo.

They are cut loose from the mainland by small inlets. And in time of flood or tidal disturbance, they are carried out into the sea.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

NEW YORK, July 9.—Political bosses are human sort of folks, despite all the mean things that are said about them.

Doubtless it is the human element in their composition that wins them the following which enables them to be bosses. For the successful boss is his henchmen rather than by fear.

Rules through the loyal adulation of Take George Brennan, czar of the rampant Democracy of Chicago.

Brennan, big bodied, big fisted, stomping about on his wooden leg, might double for a practical John Silver. His bushy eyebrows have a way of cocking themselves slantwise and that alone is quite terrifying. And his voice, swelling from his barrel-chest, rumbles like the wrath of Jehovah.

All of which fits into a proper picture of a political boss. But there is a benignant, paternal, kindly side to Brennan that quite belies his title and his looks.

One of his young ward workers in an outlying district of Chicago, who had been doing heroic work for the organization in a subordinate capacity until a few years ago, found this out quite to his surprise.

He found Brennan on the position of ward leadership, which he felt he had won by his efforts. So he mustered up courage to go and tell Brennan about it.

He found Brennan in and proceeded to state his case. He told what he had done and what he believed he could do in the future.

Brennan listened without a word, his hands clasped across his chest, his teeth clamped in the butt of a black cigar, his eyebrows cocked at the most disconcerting angle.

When the budding politician had finished, Brennan grunted and sat silent, puffing clouds of thick smoke.

"So you want to be ward boss, eh? Nothing doing."

The young man started to protest but was stopped by a thundering "Shut up!"

"No. I'll not make a ward boss!" Brennan shouted. "I should say not."

Then, dropping his voice to a burbling rumble, he continued: "I'm going to send you to Congress."

And he did.

A somewhat different sort of boss is Tom Taggart of Indiana.

Tom is more polished in appearance and method than Brennan. He is more of the diplomat and less of the bull-dozer.

Having been, by appointment, in the United States Senate for a time, Tom acquired the dignified title of "senator," which he still wears. "Senator," Taggart, you will notice, sounds much more genteel than "Boss" Brennan.

In addition to being the political boss of Hoosier Democrats, Tom is a hotel keeper. In fact, being a hotel keeper probably enabled him to become boss. For Tom's old Grand Hotel in Indianapolis, and his recent hotel at French Lick, being favorite foregatherings places for politicians, first an enabled Tom to get a peep at how the political wheels went round and to try his hand at spinning them occasionally.

Down at French Lick Springs, Tom's hotel is surrounded by glorious grounds, and folks of wealth and fashion go there to play golf and drink mineral water. Tom maintains several families of tame squirrels.

"To keep the nuts away," he explains.

One millionaire visitor, who coaxed one of the tame squirrels within reach, thought it a good joke to give it a rap with his cane. When Taggart heard of it he was furious. He ordered the guest away and warned him never to come back. Refusing his apologies, he gave the fellow a lecture that should have been reserved as a classic for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

RAILSTON.

Talking Honey

By G. L. FERGUSON

(No. 2)

The ancients "robbed" their bees and took out the honeycomb the way they handled it, and crushed honey, wax and all into a sticky mass. And in this way it was eaten.

Up to 10 years ago there was not much improvement in the method of preparing honey for eating. Those who did not care for the wax in comb honey, melted the chunks, and skimming off the wax as it came to the top, or strained it through cheesecloth or screen wire. Hence we have the term, "strained" honey. Many primitive beekeepers still prepare their honey for market in this manner. Such honey may be excellent in quality if it has not been overheated in the process. Heating honey above 160 degrees, at the highest, injures the flavor, and also darkens its color.

Strained honey can be distinguished from the best grades of extracted honey by a cloudiness or murkiness in the finished product that cannot be gotten rid of.

The modern, up-to-date beekeeper of the highest type neither kills his bees nor "robs" them to get the honey. Instead, he has "supers" or top hives that he sets above the regular beehive, and the only honey he takes is what they store in the supers after they have gathered a plenty for themselves and stored for their use in the hive below. Sometimes there isn't any surplus for the beekeeper.

In my next talk I'll tell you what the beekeeper does with his share of the honey before it is offered you to eat.

BREEDING YAKALOS MAY AUGMENT MEAT SUPPLY

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., July 8.—A new breed of livestock, which may have a bearing on the future meat supply, has been developed in the national park here by crossing buffaloes with yaks. Superintendent A. G. Smith says the stock has heavy beef qualities, combined with a good rustling nature.

The breed has been given the name "yakalos," which Mr. Smith believes will prove more practical than "catalo," evolved several years ago by crossing buffaloes with domestic cattle.

"Yakalos" breed true to type, are sturdy and able to forage for themselves, he said.

More than 1,500 buffalo calves were born this year in Wainwright park, which makes up for the excess ones killed last winter. The herd now numbers 6,000 full grown buffaloes, the largest in existence and one of the remnants of the millions of bison that once roamed western prairies, according to Mr. Smith.

SCHOONER IS EQUIPPED WITH ELECTRIC PLANT

NORFOLK, Va., July 8.—Fitted out like a hotel, with electric fans, electric lights and an electric stove and a radio outfit, the four-masted schooner Ella Pierce Thurlow is loading a cargo of piles for San Juan. She also had between decks 3,800 tons of coal for delivery at Cartagena, Colombia. Her master is Captain George W. Torrey, who has been following the sea for 25 years.

The schooner's electric power plant is the only one of its kind ever seen on a vessel of her type in this harbor. It not only furnishes the lighting power, but also supplies current for fans and an electric stove. Her galley is furnished with equipment as modern as that on an ocean liner. Captain Torrey has his wife and two babies on board at present but they will leave today for their home in Maine.

DAILY PUZZLE

The number six is called a "perfect number," because the three numbers which may be divided into it (1, 2 and 3), when added together, total 6. In the same way, the number 28 is a "perfect number," for its divisors 1, 2, 4, 7 and 14, add up to a total of 28. There is also a perfect number of three figures. What is it?

Yesterday's answer:

Jamisons Feature Day Hot Springs

(By The Associated Press.)

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 8.—Two members of the Roanoke House of Jamison supplied two victories and one championship fight, of the Virginia state golf association's annual tournament.

Paul Jamison defeated S. M. Newton of Richmond, medalist and conqueror of H. Crim Peck, of Lexington, state champion, 4 and 3; while Joe Jamison was victorious over Max Patton of Lexington, twice holder of the state title, 1 up.

In the other matches of the second round, championship fight, A. L. Hawse, of Richmond, former middle Atlantic champion, won from W. H. Wood, of the same city, 4 and 2, and W. F. Souder, of Charlottesville, defeated Judge M. Peck of Richmond, 3 and 1.

Today's result left Roanoke with two chances for the state title, while Richmond and Charlottesville have only one each. Tomorrow morning in the semi-finals, Souder will be paired with Paul Jamison and Hawse with Joe Jamison. The winners of these matches will play the finals of eighteenth holes in the Jamison.

While Paul Jamison, playing in the present tournament, had been steady, Newton's game in medal and match play had been brilliant, giving him the edge in predictions on the outcome of today's battle. Jamison, however, shot spectacular golf after losing the first hole to the Richmond star. The Roanoke player halved the next two holes and was one up at the fifth. From then on, he kept Newton down.

Newton, who yesterday went around the course in 74, two under par, appeared most completely off his usual game.

In the second round, second flight, C. E. Moran, Charlottesville, defeated W. A. Bagley, Richmond, 4 and 3; R. D. Shepherd, Charlottesville, defeated J. Allen Wheat, Charlottesville, 2 and 1; W. R. Mason, Charlottesville, won from Tom Scates, Richmond, 1 up in twenty two holes; and O. W. Lockett, Roanoke, was victorious over M. Lea, Charlottesville 2 up.

In the semi-finals, Moran will be paired with Shepherd and Mason with Lockett.

In the women's tournament, Miss Margaret Lucado of Lynchburg, defending champion, defeated Miss Martha Martin, Richmond, 1 up. Mrs. Ashby Jones, of Richmond, defeated Mrs. J. Allen Belvin of the same city, 5 and 4. Miss Lucado and Mrs. Jones will play for the title tomorrow.

A heavy downpour of rain last night and this morning caused the tournament committee to make several changes in the program. Second rounds and semi-finals of eighteen holes each had been slated for the day.

The semi-finals in the men's tournament were postponed until tomorrow morning, while the players were told to play their second round any time they desired today. The finals were reduced to eighteen holes in order to conform to the other changes.

AGREE ON FOOD TARIFF

BERLIN, July 8.—The protectionist food tariff is now definitely determined on. The Minister of Agriculture has promised to submit a bill to the Reichstag imposing duties which will bring German food prices up to the foreign level.

Industrial interests are supporting the bill, because they expect higher duties on manufactures also as a quid pro quo.

Feel Tired, Lame, Achy?

Is a constant backache spoiling your summer? Do you feel weak, worn and achy; so miserable you can't enjoy a moment's comfort?

How about your kidneys? Well kidneys, you know, filter off the body poisons. But when the kidneys slow up, these poisons accumulate and upset the whole system. Backache is apt to follow, with sharp, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities.

Don't risk neglect! Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

HERE IS DANVILLE PROOF: J. T. Allen, fireman, 714 E. Green St. says: "My kidneys became disordered and I was much disturbed by a dull ache in the small of my back. I felt miserable and my kidneys didn't act right, the secretions being unnatural in appearance. I got Doan's Pills at McFall's Drug Store and began using them. I received splendid results. One box of Doan's cured me of the attack and I have never had any trouble since."

In New York

NEW YORK, July 9.—The man who conceived the idea of the sightseeing bus can't walk.

He overlooks the bustle of Broadway every day from a wheel chair which he rolls atop an uptown hotel.

He is Howard Rice, a riddle-aged man, who seven years ago was stricken with a strange malady which has rendered him unable to walk.

Strange that the town that has made the rubberneck wagon famous—New York, with its Chinatown, Bowery and Coney Island trip—did not originate it.

Rubberneck wagons made their first appearance in St. Louis during the 1904 world's fair. There were four of them, built especially to Rice's specifications. Two of them seated 40 persons, two more 20 each.

Despite his affliction, Rice is one of the most pleasant and enthusiastic persons I ever have met. He gets no physical exercise yet has a healthful glow in his cheeks.

Each day he suns himself for hours on the roof of his hotel. Winter and summer, rain or shine, it is just the same to him.

During the lavish afternoons of summer Rice holds daily roof parties. Men prominent in many endeavors visit him.

Although the sightseeing bus was his idea, Rice made little money as a result of it. He didn't follow it through to its present state of perfection. He is, however, financially independent.

Through seven years of distress, Rice never once has complained, close friends relate.

His one ambition is to ride in an airplane.

Western Union messenger boys in New York exercise their lungs as well as their legs.

They have a brass band—a good one, too.

The lead band is composed of 70 pieces, with several times as many recruits to take the place of snappy messenger boys who climb up the ladder to fame.

White caps designate the members of the band from ordinary messenger boys.

The band members usually are paid $5 a performance.

On saunters through the East Side I always wonder what the men with whiskers, drooping to their waists, do with them at night.

Do they sleep with the whiskers?

New Yorkers of today measure distance in taxi fares, whereas their Dutch ancestors measured time and distance in "pipe's full of tobacco," the time required to smoke a pipe loaded with tobacco, smoked in leisurely Dutch manner.

In the foundation days of Manhattan Isle a meeting would be ordered "12 pipes long" or a distance between points was "120 pipes."

Now when one asks the distance between two points, somebody remarks, "about 70 cents," or whatever amount it costs to make the journey in a taxi.

RICE HAY FOR ARMY HORSES

MANILA, July 8.—The United States army within the last year has purchased 8,000,000 pounds of rice hay, which has been found satisfactory as fodder for horses and mules.

After July first the commissary expects to enter into contracts for about 10,000,000 pounds of this hay and it is hoped to encourage farmers to produce the entire quantity of hay used by the army in the Philippines.

A THOUGHT

Prov. 16:19.

Content thyself to live obscurely good.—Addison.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1924

OPPORTUNITIES

Colonel Thomas De Kay must have turned over in his grave several times.
In 1724 he traded 60 acres of land, in what is now the business heart of New York City, for a farm over in New Jersey.

The farm today is worth $25,000.
The 60 acres in New York City are worth 100 million dollars.

The colonel's great-grandson, now owner of the farm, has a faraway look in his eyes as he discusses how it might have been different.

He says, philosophically: "I probably would have done the same thing myself at the time. Who would have dreamed in 1724 that 60 acres at Broadway and Canal street would ever become the priceless parcel of land it is today?"

The De Kay incident will interest everyone, for it is just a big-scale experience that no one escapes—the overlooked bet. The man who does not pass up a big opportunity himself is sure to have an ancestor who did.

The trouble is, these are not opportunities at the time. They are made opportunities by the passing of time.

Many a reader will start reminiscing and say: "Gosh, I remember when I could have bought such-and-such a property for a song. Today it is worth a barrel of money."

People are passing up big future opportunities today just as much as a century ago when Colonel De Kay sold his farm. For instance, cities as large as New York is today may spring up on what now is remote farm land.

Up to now, there have been three main factors in making cities large: Commercially strategic location at the seashore with good harbor facilities; location to drain large farming territories; location logical for manufacturing.

A fourth factor will inevitably develop—location at points where air traffic will focus. Flying rivers by the millions are not improbable, nor even flying freight trains. If you can
of "air lines," a small investment may enable you to leave many millions to your descendants.

Of course, by the time the descendants get on the job, confiscatory taxation make the millionaire as extinct as a dodo or passenger pigeon.

WHY YOU HAVE GOAT-GETTERS

The peevish enemy of a farmer or home gardener is the cutworm.
Other pests annoy the man coaxing food out of the soil. But for sheer cussedness, the cutworm is worst of all.

Maybe you know how the cutworm is worst of all.

Maybe you know how the cutworm operates? He waits until night, when the gardener is asleep dreaming of his harvest. Then the cutworm starts along a row of say, beans. He nibbles through at the soil line until the bean stalk falls over like a choppeddown tree. Then he leaves the fallen plant, doesn't bother to eat the rest of it.

The cutworm is an out-and-out destroyer. One would not mind so much if it devoured the whole plant.
But this thing of operating like a logging crew felling trees and then leaving them to rot strikes a gardener as malicious vandalism.

Every form of life exists for a definite purpose. It has its function in creation. The cutworm simply does what he is intended to do. He is a destroyer, pure and simple, for he levels a whole row of vegetation before he gets through, though one bean stalk would feed him throughout his entire lifetime.

Nature makes us pay the full price

for everything we get.

She sends destroyers like the cut-worm to keep us constantly fighting to earn our living.

Nature does not want us to have too easy a time. If we had, we'd get lazy—wouldn't supply the toll that develops our brains and characters and makes humanity progress.

No muscular strength without exercise. No wisdom or knowledge without hard thought. No strength of character without temptations and ordeals.

Life is full of cutworms—pests, goat-getters, seemingly unnecessary annoyances. But that is because life is to the mind and spirit just what a gymnasium is to the athlete. There is always more purpose or destiny in trouble than in a "soft time." No man is ever a top-notch canoeist until he gets caught out on the water in several big storms. No man really knows an auto or other piece of mechanism until it breaks down and he has to repair it. And no man or woman experiences the real purpose of life until they go through trouble and conquer it.

It is like competitors or enemies—they are more valuable than friends and associates, for they make us fight for the worth-while things that can be obtained no other way.

WHAT THE MILLS MEAN TO DANVILLE

(The Danville Register.)

It is characteristic of humanity generally that we seldom appreciate the every day blessings and benefits to which we have become so accustomed that we take them for granted until we are suddenly deprived of them. This has been strikingly demonstrated in the case of the great local textile industry. Not until the exigencies of the cotton market and the high price of the raw staple forced the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, along with all the other textile industries of the country to curtail production and to operate on half time or less than full time did a great many people realize what this great textile industry means to Danville. The experience of recent months of operation on a scale of curtailed production has been keenly felt in every line of local business, in the realty and rental situation and in every channel of trade.

In years gone by not a few people have manifested some prejudice to this great industry here and have shown a disposition to undervalue and even to disparage its value and importance to this community. "Blessings brighten as they take their flight," truly, as many have now fully realized. The unavoidable curtailment of production and the diminution in the aggregate amount paid out in wages and salaries during the period of half-time operation have been sorely felt in the local real-estate trade and through them in all lines of business and industry. This tardy realization should and, we trust, will have the effect of creating more universal appreciation of the value of such a great enterprise and the important part it plays in the general prosperity.

In order to give some idea of the part played by this industry in the local financial and mercantile trade situation, it is only necessary to remind that the weekly pay-roll of the big textile industry averages about $125,000, or to state it on an annual basis, it must be remembered that something like six and a half million dollars per year is the sum normally disbursed in wages here. With the plant operating on half-time or nearly that it would mean that probably three million dollars, estimating on a yearly basis, is thus taken out of the channels of trade in Danville and vicinity. This is merely the wage phase of the matter, and when we remember that the plant disburses in semi-annual dividends on its preferred stock six per cent. on ten or twelve millions of dollars of that stock, we can realize what a further contribution this industry makes to the business activity and prosperity of the community.

We deem it timely and appropriate to direct attention to this matter at this time in order that a larger and better mutual understanding may be established and maintained between the people of the community and the great cotton milling industry located here.

If he scornfully refers to this as a materialistic age, he means that he isn't making much money, chumps Bunks.

When the cows come home, comments a Kansas editor, the main thing is that there's someone at home to milk them.

John Ainsley, Master Thief

By Arthur Somers Roche

Copyright 1924, NEA Service Inc.

BUTTON, BUTTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—preying upon other thieves.
His first venture into theft was at the expense of Daragon, a Fifth Avenue jeweler.

Now, in a resort hotel, Ainsley is recovering the strength which he lost in months of near-starvation before he turned to dishonesty. At the resort he is deftly losing $500 in a golf bet with Ernest Vantine, chief owner of a detective agency—a coarse and boorish individual. Vantine is engaged to a Miss Kernochan, daughter of a wealthy retired broker. Ainsley is his great wealth. Kernochan shows Ainsley a ring—an enormous ruby—which he gave to his daughter upon her engagement to Vantine.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

He was not loath to do so, and I learned that the wife and mother it had been owned by a Russian grand duke who had fled to Italy when Kerenski came into power. He had disposed of it to an American millionaire by the name of Adams, who had died shortly afterward, leaving his affairs much involved.

"I had a claim against his estate, and I took this stone in settlement from his widow," said Kernochan.
I wondered, looking at his smug face, with the pious edifiers and the mean, hard mouth, how just had been his claim against the estate.
Idly, I questioned him—yet not too loudly, for the stone attracted me. I thought of the stone which I had just seen in the hands of the woman who now resided in Boston and who was in rather straitened circumstances. Thinking of how comfortable that widow might live upon the proceeds of the sale of the ruby, I felt my distaste for Kernochan increasing. I made up my mind that I would have that ruby.

Next morning, starting for the second fairway, where the professionals were waiting me to correct a nasty slice that long absence from the game had produced in my drive,
I came upon the Kernochans and Vantine in the lobby. They were all dressed for travel, and porters were laden with bags. I stopped beside them.

"Yes, we're leaving," Kernochan told me in reply to my polite question. "A telegram late last night suddenly called me to my home in Boston. I'm sorry to see you go, but just now, when I am enjoying the gold, but it can't be helped."

His callous brutality should not have affected me. I had heard it up again and again. I, too, felt that his partner was inconsiderate. I wanted to tell him so, but I was too polite.

But he had entered into some sort of an agreement with Adams, and Kernochan had papers that seemed to prove that certain vast debts incurred under that name were entirely responsible for arrangement. Her gray eyes glistered. I sensed the devil within this sweet and simple lady.

"You say those papers seemed to prove certain things," I commented.
"I was wrong," she corrected herself. "I understand now. No more than I understand business. And the courts decided that Mr. Kernochan's claim was just. So it is not becoming in me to discuss the matter. But,"
—and she smiled again—"you see I no longer own the ruby."

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, July 9.— (Grapevine Wireline).—Passing the buck—Father as a Household Cipher: A recent court decision on a question of domestic discipline will not be accepted with unanimity. The learned judge in this case told a child to obey her mother if there was any conflict of parental authority. On the merits of the decision as applied concretely it is difficult to decide.
Perhaps the mother was worse than the father.
From an abstract point of view, however, the court seems to be treading on dangerous ground.

Is the man no longer the head of the family? The feminists would say yes without a moment's hesitation.
But if the mother's word is to be paramount, there is not even the equality of the sexes left. The father becomes a mere cipher. Paternal influence is abolished. Without deprecating the value of maternal influence, it may fairly be asked if it is always equal to the task of dealing with headstrong children, especially boys.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Exhibitionists.
Hold a minute! Before writing on this subject, it is advisable to find the definition of the term. The medical dictionaries consulted limit the use of the term to one kind of exhibitionist.
Stedman limits it to one who has an insane or neurotic compulsion to expose or exhibit certain parts of the body to certain groups of people. The medical dictionaries generally follow that type of definition.

The general dictionaries refer to other types of exhibitionists, broadening the term greatly. There is no dictionary limited to term used in behavior. If there was, possibly it would have the definition "I want" for the purpose of this article.

In this article, by "exhibitionist" is meant one who habitually dresses, or otherwise displays himself or his possessions in a way to attract attention.
This definition makes the exhibitionist and the poseur closely akin. The distinction made between the exhibition-ist family and the poseur family is the former exhibit their persons and their possessions, and the latter, their opinions and sayings. The latter is more a mental attitude; the former more physical.

At the bottom of exhibitionist behavior is self aggrandizement and conceit.
The desire is to be noticed. It is a mental malady—a form of mental sickness—and like all forms of sickness it varies in degree. At one end of the line is the kind of sickness set forth in the medical dictionaries—an insane or neurotic compulsion to behave in certain ways that lie beyond the limits placed by decent people. At the other end of the line is the almost normal mental attitude of the people who exhibit themselves and their possessions in order to obtain ends that are accepted as proper, or almost proper.

For instance, a man builds the finest residence in town. That fact shows him to be an exhibitionist, but it does not reflect seriously on his intelligence, nor stamp him as a pathetic egotist.
A woman wears the finest clothes in her town, or the costliest diamonds, because she is an exhibitionist, but her type of behavior does not put her anywhere near the class of those of "insane or neurotic compulsion," or exhibit so much of the human anatomy as the mode of the moment allowed for the purpose of ultimately winning a husband, a home and a family. That is exhibitionism, but it is not patho-

Can Sparky Matthews Keep Nats In Fight?

WID MATTHEWS

BY BILLY EVANS

What does one winning player mean to the success of a ball club? The unique experience of "Sparky" Matthews of the Washington club raises that question. It is doubtful if any major league player has ever enjoyed the thrill that has come to Matthews. In successive years he has played a leading role in the pennant aspirations of two big league ball clubs. A year ago last spring I looked over the Athletics in training at Montgomery. The previous year the club had finished seventh. Mack's material was much the same. It did not look as if his club was a first division possibility.

Mack likes Matthews. In discussing with the astute Mr. Mack his new material, the tall leader of the Athletics dwelled on the play of an outfielder, by name Matthews. Said Mr. Mack:

SOUTH WILL OPEN INSTITUTE TO STUDY POLITICAL PHASES GREENVILLE, S. C., July 8.—Designed to "promote the serious study of modern political problems, national and international," an institute of politics will be conducted at Furman University here from August 5th to August 15th. The school will be similar to the one inaugurated some years ago at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Prof. James W. Garner of the University of Illinois, will give a series of lectures.

"I do not regard Matthews as a great ball player. I am in doubt as to his ability to hit major league pitching. His arm is rather weak for a center fielder. He is slight of stature and may not be able to stand up under the strain of a hard race. However, he is by far the most impressive of my new players. He is bright and has initiative. He likes to play ball. He is fired with enthusiasm and the spirit to win. It wouldn't surprise me if he went big and proved a big help to my ball club."

Put Athletics in Race. The history of the 1923 campaign is still fresh in the minds of every fan. For about half the season the Athletics proved the sensation of the league, running neck and neck with the champion Yankees. Matthews played a stellar role in the club's success. "Sparky" the critics named him, because he seemed to have supplied the needed power to make the Athletics a winner. Then something happened that fouled "Sparky." It was a case of from stardom to the bench. During the off season he was sent back to the minors. Washington recently needed an outfielder and brought him back to the big show. Getting his second chance, Matthews proceeded to take up where he had left off with the Athletics.

Goos Big With Nats. A few days after he joined the Nationals the team started a spurt that brought 10 straight victories and first place. Can Matthews continue the mad pace he has set or will he stop? Washington fans are much concerned. They feel the good showing of the club centers around Matthews. If he must continue to stay if the team is to be a pennant contender.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, July 9.—Will it be America versus France in the Davis Cup finals this year? At least a fair chance that Australia will be displaced by the Latin team as one of the finalists in the great international tennis struggle.

In the European zone France certainly will be the strongest team. England will be the country she will have to beat and if she does the Frenchmen will have to come to this country to meet the winner of the American zone, which doubtless will be Australia.

The contest between the French and the Antipodeans, if it materializes, will be a dramatic affair and worthy of a great outpouring of lawn tennis enthusiasm. The main burden the Australian stars will undertake an immense contract in attempting to dispose of them and it is not certain they will succeed.

Edward B. Moss, secretary of the United States Tennis Association, tells the writer that he expects William Johnston to arrive here from the coast toward the end of the present month.

Johnston, he says, is through with a long and arduous tennis season which finds him completely beaten in the crucial contests of the season. He has planned for a season lasting from six to eight weeks and believes this will give him ample time in which to reach the peak of his form and to be in possession of a larger store of physical energy and stamina than has been the case in recent years. Johnston is said to be weighing more just now than he has ever weighed.

PROPOSED DEMPSEY-MADDEN FIGHT ON LABOR DAY

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 8.—Promoters of the Queensboro A. He said that the champion's motion picture work would keep him busy until August 14, and if he could get into fighting trim in the interval the match would be arranged.

OLD-TIME OLYMPIC HEROES NO. 5

J. FULLER NOYSE
For 16 straight and narrow years Walter Camp picked J. Fuller Noyse as All-American cheer leader, with the exception of one year, when he was a natural-born cheer leader. Indeed, it was hard to tell him from an ordinary half-wit of 2000 that he did not play a banjo.

Noyse, accompanied with the Olympic cheer-leading championship exactly 24 years ago, Rocky Mountain time. Everyone said this was remarkable because Noyse was just a freshman at the time. It would be remarkable today. Noyse is still a freshman.

Up until the time that Noyse entered the field, cheer leading was a hit-and-miss proposition. Noyse put the business on a scientific basis, adopting the methods made famous by Gentleman Jim Corbett. It was all hit and no miss with Noyse. His left uppercut was a terrible thing.

Noyse first attracted international attention in 1902, when one Punch O'Goofy, now a retired logger and philosopher, and Dr. Emmanuel Leaker, in the chess finals at the

SHOAF MASTER OF CAPS WHILE TOBACCONISTS HIT HARD AND OFTEN FOR WIN

Danville won from Raleigh yesterday by the top-sided score of 5 to 1 in an abbreviated affair of six and a half innings. Effective pitching by Shoaf and frequent and timely hitting behind him enabled the Champions to make a runaway affair of it.

The Capitals' only chance to score came when Barrett made his home run smash in the fourth, with no one on base.

Danville batsmen went after Pitcher Elliott from the jump and clinched the victory in the inning with four runs made on five hits, a base on balls and a wild pitch on which two men scored. Meanwhile a heavy rain storm was impending and the lower clouds made it seem likely that the Tobaccoists might lose the victory within their grasp. Consequently the Danville team hastened to complete four and a half innings, and in order to expedite the retirement of his own team in the fourth inning, the Danville team was then six to one in Danville's favor. As it turned out, however, the floods did not descend until Raleigh had seven turns at bat, whereupon Umpire Lewis called the game. Rain was then falling, and it was too dark to play longer.

Aside from the hurrying of Shoaf, who yielded but four hits and one run, a great catch by McDonald, a veritable shoe-string affair in which he came in fast for McMahon's fly and rolled over with the momentum of his sprint, but clutching the ball all the while, was the fielding feature. Myers and Cochlin continued their hard hitting, each getting a two-sacker and a single in three times up. Art Treffy had whiffed. Staley walked. Regan doubled to extreme right. McDonald cracked a single to right. Treffy grounded out, but Myers came through with a two-cushion shot, and Cochlin and Ernst drove hard line singles to center. In addition to all this cannonade, Pitcher Elliott let slip a wild pitch on which Staley scored. Myers' hard shot against the fence in left center sent McDonald in, and Myers counted on Cochlin's line drive to center.

One of the features of the game was the excellent work of Umpire Lewis. He watched the pitcher closely, called them promptly and generally accurately, and what is even more noteworthy, he expedited the play. At one time when Raleigh seemed stalling for time, he held the watch on them. If all the umpires would put more snap into the play and the shifting of the teams from bat to field, it would help the game and add to its interest and pleasure. The 6-1-2 innings game was played in an hour and ten minutes, or almost at the rate of eight minutes to an inning.

LAST OF RALEIGH SERIES TODAY

The Raleigh team will close its series here today and will fight to make two out of three. Garrison, the star hurler, who shot the Danville team out here on June 27 or 28th will probably be Kelly's choice in an effort to bring home the bacon, while McWhirter, one of Danville's best bats, will probably oppose him. Threatening weather greatly diminished the normal attendance yesterday, but with sunshine today a big crowd is anticipated to see a fine pitching contest.

MASTERS PITCHES WELL AND DURHAM WINS

DURHAM, July 8.—Masters kept his hits well scattered today and Durham defeated High Point by the score of 3 to 1. Hunter was hit for ten bingles by the Bulls but managed to keep them scattered enough to produce but three tallies, though sufficient to win the game. Bourga's double play unassisted was the only play which was outstanding. The locals have a new twirler on the way to join the club. He is Youngblood, of the Washington Senators, who was farmed out to Memphis the first of the year. The box score of the game follows:

Mellen, the American stroke of Leander, got some satisfaction for his defeat on the variety race by running in the Henley. But he had a hard struggle driving his Leander mates to a bar six feet margin over Jesus. Only those who know the dead water of Henley and the pace that is set over that course can appreciate what this means.

When one comes to sum up the American rating this year, an enormous amount of credit must be given to Wisconsin and Coach Vail for the plucky visit to Poughkeepsie and the remarkable showing there, where Wisconsin finished second, though unheralded and unused.

Measuring it will be very interesting to get the report on the physical condition of the men who tried rowing at Wisconsin this year, and compare it with the records made some years ago which Wisconsin temporarily abandoned rowing.

Talking at manual work has been found by official investigation to cause considerable loss of time, except when the work is entirely automatic.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Tale's craft rowing crew is going to have worth-foemen in the Olympic races. The fact has been established by the defeat of Australia to send a crew which has rowed together for two or three years and which they regard as unbeatable and Leander, up to Saturday an unknown quantity, has demonstrated its worth by winning the Grand Challenge at Henley. Ed. Leander, the Tale coach, will have his hands full yet.

Noyse, accompanied with the Olympic cheer-leading championship exactly 24 years ago, Rocky Mountain time. Everyone said this was remarkable because Noyse was just a freshman at the time. It would be remarkable today. Noyse is still a freshman.

Up until the time that Noyse entered the field, cheer leading was a hit-and-miss proposition. Noyse put the business on a scientific basis, adopting the methods made famous by Gentleman Jim Corbett. It was all hit and no miss with Noyse. His left uppercut was a terrible thing.

Noyse first attracted international attention in 1902, when one Punch O'Goofy, now a retired logger and philosopher, and Dr. Emmanuel Leaker, in the chess finals at the Noyse was a so the first cheer leader to use "Sis Boom Bah." Few people knew the tragic irony that lurked behind that yell. Noyse lost his heart to one of the lovely Boom girls of Louisville. Sis Boom! Player in a minstrel band beat him to her.

Sis Boom? Bah!
No wonder Noyse could do more with that yell than any cheer leader that ever roused a lip.

TWO BROTHERS MAY MEET TODAY IN GOLF FINALS

(By The Associated Press.)
HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 9.—With the possibility that two brothers from the same city might meet later in the day in the finals, playing in the semi-finals of the Virginia State Golf Association's annual championship tournament started this morning.

The two brothers that went into the semi-finals are Joe Jamieson and Paul Jamieson of Roanoke, who yesterday defeated Max Paxton, Lexington, State champion, and J. M. Newton, Richmond, also a former champion and medalist in the present tournament, respectively.

Paul Jamieson sprung a surprise in winning from Newton for the latter had defeated H. Crum Peck, Lexington, defending champion Monday, and had been playing sensational golf. The Roanoke star ignored what had happened in the past and came out of the match with a 4 and 3 victory.

The other member of the house of Jamieson defeated Paxton 1 up.

As a result of his victory in the second round over W. L. Wood, Richmond, by a score of 2 and 1, L. A. Hays of the same city, former middle Atlantic title holder, went into the

DAN KINSEY, OF UNITED STATES, IS VICTORIOUS

America Opens Fourth Day of Olympics With Hurdles Victory

(By The Associated Press.)
OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—America has opened the fourth day of the Olympic games with a thrilling victory in the 110-meter hurdles scored by Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois.

This victory, with two other places won by American competitors in the event, set the total score of the United States up to 12 or just double the number of the nearest competitor, Finland, with 5.

The United States would have added to this score, however, had it not been for the misfortune of Karl Anderson, Illinois A. C. who when up with the leaders, stumbled at the next to the last hurdle and fell flat to the track, finishing fifth, while George Guthrie of Ohio State, who crossed the line third, failed to get the place because of knocking over three of the hurdles. Kinsey's time of 15 seconds flat was only 1-5 of a second short of the world's record for the event. It was a remarkable performance, considering the fact that the track had been soaked by a down pour of several hours.

Kinsey and Anderson raced nearly a hundred yards on even terms with Atkinson, the South African, and Peterson, the Swedish star, at their shoulders. Kinsey quickened his stride at the last two hurdles and nipped Atkinson by two feet with Peterson third.

Anderson completed the course after picking himself up and was awarded fifth place over Guthrie, who despite qualification for knocking over the hurdles was the only other finalist, thus being given a point for last place.

Lee Barnes, of Hollywood, Calif., and James K. Brockner, University of Michigan, both qualified in the trials of the pole vault today for the final tomorrow. With the bar set at 12 feet both Americans cleared it easily with apparently a lot in reserve.

Jackson Scholz, New York A. C. won the 200-meter dash for the United States.

Pennsylvania star for third place while Bayes Norton of Yale had a yard margin on Abrahams for fifth position.

(By The Associated Press.)
OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—Jackson V. Scholz, of the New York A. C. and George Hill, of the University of Pennsylvania, finished ahead of Harold Abrahams, the Cambridge flash, winner of the 100-meter dash, in the beginning of the pole vault, his fourth straight day of competition.

Paddock showed his first real flash of form by winning the second semi-final with Diddell of Great Britain second, and Peterson of Sweden third, thus making the final a battle between English speaking rivals. Kinseyman the speedy South African, who was rated among the favorites until he injured his thigh, just failed to place in the second heat, although virtually running on only one leg.

It was announced that Charley Hoff, of Norway, the world's record holder in the pole vault would not compete in the event, in which the trials were set for today, having broken down after the 700-meter run yesterday, in which he finished last.

The Americans regret the absence of Hoff from the competition. They felt confident they would have been able to knock him out of the pole vault appears like a clean sweep for the United States athletes. A change in the result of the pentathlon, contested Monday, gave the United States one point and the United States one more.

The French Olympic committee announced this after the Swedish star, Unger, who originally was placed fourth, was withdrawn upon a check, reckoned originated by the Swedes themselves.

The revised final standing which moved Morton Kaer, the Californian, Lehtonen, Finland, second, 14 points; Sonnerup, Hungary, second, 16; Robert Legendre, Newark, A. C. third, 18; Leino, Finland, fourth, 23; Morton Kaer, University of Southern California, fifth, 24; Lathen, Finland, sixth, 27.

With the completion of ten events in the Olympic games the point score showed the United States with just double the number of Finland's points—112 to 56.

SCHOLZ DEFEATS CHARLIE PADDOK IN SPRINTING

(By The Associated Press.)
OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—America came back to Olympic sprinting glory today when Jackson V. Scholz, the speedy New York A. C. sprinter, won a spectacular duel, defeating his countryman, Charlie Paddock in the 200-meter dash final in which Harold Abrahams, the British victor in the 100-meter event, finished last.

Scholz came from behind in the race, 200 meters and beat Paddock by a foot in the time of 21-3 seconds, equalling the Olympic record.

Scholz and Paddock finished so close together it seemed like a dead heat from the stand and the judges required several minutes to make their decision.

After his flying leap toward the tape, Paddock who appeared to twist his ankle, fell to the ground. It was several minutes before he was able to take to his feet and limp off the field.

Scholz's time of 21-3 seconds, equals the Olympic record made by Archie Hahn, in the 1924 games.

By winning the first, second, fourth and fifth places in the final of the 200-meter dash, the United States added 20 to its point score, making the total 132, as compared with 56 for Finland, the nearest competitor.

Seven men including all four Americans entered, qualified in the pole vault trials today for the final tomorrow. These were: James K. Brockner, University of Michigan; Lee Barnes, Hollywood, Calif.; Ralph Spearow, University of Oregon; Glenn Graham, California Tech; Pickard, Canada; Henriksen, Belgium; Peterson, Denmark. All made jumps of twelve feet.

The British threat in this event, instead of being made by Abrahams, whose exertions the past three days, have caused his virtual collapse, was made by E. H. Ladd, the best one of out George Hill, the University of

U. S. VICTOR IN TRAP SHOOTING EVENTS

PARIS, July 9.—The United States was the victor in the Olympic Trap shooting events, which ended today, piling up a score of 15 points. Hungary was second with ten, Finland, third with 9, Canada fourth with 8, Belgium, fifth with 5, with 1 with 2, Australia, sixth with 1.

G. R. Goodwin, Great Britain first, Pavesi, Italy second; Harvath, Hungary, third; Bohata, Italy fourth; Lermon, France fifth time 49 minutes 4-5 seconds.

200-meter dash, Final: Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C. first, Charlie Paddock, United States, second, W. H. Ladd, Great Britain, third, George Hill, University of Pennsylvania, fourth, Bayes Norton, Yale fifth, H. M. Abrahams, Great Britain sixth, time 21-3 seconds.

Francis Hunter injured.

PARIS, July 9.—Francis T. Hunter, fifth ranking American, will be unable to play in the Olympic lawn tennis championships owing to a slight fracture of a bone in his hand suffered in a fall during the final doubles match at Wimbledon, according to indications today. The hand is not infected but is badly swollen.

The draw for the Olympic play, which starts Sunday, shows that Helen Wills, the American champion, will

EAST TEAMS MEET WEST WITH INDECISIVE RESULTS

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 9.—East met west in the first round of the inter-sectional series in the major leagues with indecisive results. Of the nine games played in the two circuits, the representatives of the Atlantic seaboard won five from their rivals of the wide open spaces.

Only one alteration in the standing of the clubs was recorded today on the strength of the outcome. The Philadelphia Nationals change places with the Boston Braves, the former advancing to sixth.

The Yanks failed to improve their opportunity to gain on Washington while the Senators were prevented from meeting Detroit by rain.

An even break was the best the world champions could get out of a double header with the invading White Sox. Chicago breezed through to a 10 to 2 victory behind Thurston's skillful pitching in the first, while the Chicago boxman's thirty-ninth win of the season. In the closing engagement New York got to Lyons and Barnes for 16 hits, registering an 8 to 5 triumph.

Spits of a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the second inning Ethme, Red Sox moundsman, lost an 8 to 7 decision to St. Louis. Veach made his second homer in two days.

In a game halted by rain at the end of the seventh inning, Philadelphia shut out Cleveland 4 to 0. Joe Houser's homer with two on in the sixth clinched the battle for the Athletics.

Three St. Louis pitchers failed to stop New York's vicious attack and the Glads drew first blood in the opener by a score of 11 to 6. Hack Wilson lived up to his reputation as an extra base slugger with a drive for the circuit.

Brooklyn cut down the four game lead by which the held second place to three with a 13 to 11 saw-saw triumph. A grand total of 35 hits was made by the two teams, the Robins accounting for 22. Each club used three pitchers.

Grantsburg nursed its embryo winning streak to four games by downing Boston 8 to 3. The Pirates clubbed the Braves' twirlers at will for 18 hits. After 28 innings of fast baseball Cincinnati and Philadelphia were no better off than when they started. The Phillies took the first by a 3 to 1 margin in ten innings and the Reds reciprocated with a 2 to 1 decision in 16 rounds. All four initial boxmen went the full route.

PLAN TO APPLY DAWES REPORT IS AGREED ON

Reparation Settlement Proposal Is Accepted By Premiers

(By The Associated Press.)
PARIS, July 9.—A joint note to the Allies suggesting how different questions connected with the application of the Dawes plan might be settled, was drawn up at the conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, the British premier announced today.

Mr. MacDonald said the documents he had drawn up with M. Herriot, constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes plan might be settled at the interallied London conference which remained fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

The British Prime Minister receiving representatives of the press after his conference with the French premier, said: "We have succeeded in making a substantial beginning toward a full accord between France and Great Britain."

Declaring there was no intention to postpone the London conference he added: "What an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time. We have invited the Americans to be present, and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

PARIS, July 9.—The premiers of France and Great Britain resumed their conversations at 10 o'clock this morning in the foreign office, though looking very fatigued from their long night session at the British embassy which did not end until after midnight.

The conversations centered it is understood on the British premier's proposal to dispossess the reparation commission of its right to decide if and when Germany is in default on the Dawes reparations plan. Several

Carpenter Will Quit Ring If He Loses Next Fight

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 9.—If Georges Carpentier is defeated by Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, when they meet at the Polo Grounds on July 24, the Frenchman will hang up his gloves for good and cancel all future engagements.

This statement was made by Francois Desamps, the Frenchman's manager, today in discussing the Parisian's chances with the American champion.

Carpentier has booked matches with young Stribling, Macon, Ga., school boy, and Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, light heavyweight, both of which bring him big guarantees but these will be thrown into the discard if the Frenchman loses the decision to Tunney.

In discussing Carpentier's defeat at the hands of Dempsey, Desamps alleged that Carpentier's true weight the day he stepped into the ring against the champion at Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921, was 165 pounds, while Dempsey tipped the scales at 190 pounds.

LONG DEADLOCK PROVES SEVERE DRAIN ON FUNDS

N. Y. Committee Spends Nearly Million and Then Quits

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 9.—The long deadlock in the Democratic National Convention has proved a severe drain on official as well as private funds. The New York convention committee, which virtually financed the big show for the past two weeks, turned this task over to the Democratic National Committee this week after expending about $500,000, not including the $500 daily cost of the band and other amusement features.

The national committee with funds limited to about $100,000, promptly began to reduce the costs eliminating among other things, 41 of the 45 sessions on the theory that after a score of sessions ticket holders needed no judges to find their seats.

In spite of the retrenchments, however, it was said today that the national committee already had overdrawn its funds by $25,000.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF DANVILLE IMPROVED

The financial statement for the city during the past year has been completed and turned over to the Wardell Printing Company. There are sixty or seventy pages of tabulated matter, which will indicate the source of the revenue received also what the money was expended for. The balance sheet shows that the city is in much better shape financially than it was a year ago. A summary of the assets and liabilities are given here, with also a comparison with the year for last year.

Assets: Cash, $12,125.22; cash in bank, $5,414.39; accounts receivable, $11,295.00; current deficit, $59,204.18; liabilities for same period, accounts payable, $109,602.62; borrowed money, $124,450.00; reserves for losses, $4,617.63; current surplus, none; report for current year, assets cash on hand, $31,745.52; cash in bank, $5,414.39; accounts receivable, $11,295.00; materials and supplies, $54,120.99; current deficit, none; liabilities, accounts payable, $109,602.62; borrowed money, $124,450.00; reserves for losses, $4,617.63; current surplus, $3,845.51. According to the city auditor, the conservative spending of money has been instrumental in making it possible for the report to show a surplus of $3,845.51, instead of a deficit of $59,204.18 as of last year's report.

SIDELIGHTS ON CONVENTION

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—When and if this Democratic convention ever adjourns it will be like the parting of old friends. Everybody has come to know everybody else. It has been like one big family where all the members feel privileged to quarrel with all the other members. Madison Square Garden will never be the same with the old familiar faces gone.

Your old acquaintances in the convention stand entirely upon their own neighbors as Texas is nearest the writer and he knows everybody in the delegation by their first name. It has been interesting to see a change come over the delegates. They are no longer a stern grim lot and all through the Klan and Anti-Klan fight the tenseness of their feeling was apparent.

But now all that is gone. Age has mellowed the delegates. They are much older than when they arrived in New York and therefore much more tolerant. They have been smiling lately at the same sort of outburst which at first seemed to them most to the breaking point. When some of the A. Smith people go on parade about the hall nowadays the Texans instead of scowling at them, slap them on the back and say: "It is the old old saying that after you get to know the average man you can't keep on hating him. At the world war the greatest danger of the state mate in the trenches was that the opposing soldiers would meet in No Man's Land and fraternize."

Well, the enemy delegates in Madison Square Garden have been fraternizing of late. Texas has been receiving an extraordinary delegation from virtually every delegation in the hall. So things have not been quite so bitter as they were in the beginning and on the surface at least things are quite genial. How can any one stay mad for three long weeks?

Ad evidence of the good humor which has come to take the place of so much of the anger is apparent at the beginning of every "roll call." As soon as the clerk calls out "Alabama," the entire assemblage of delegates and many persons in the galleries join in the swelling chorus.

Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood.

This has become so much of a ceremony that Alabama could not vote for anyone else even if she wanted to which she does not intend to do.

Some one figured it out today that on the first 58 ballots Senator Underwood had received 264 votes from Alabama alone. This was about three times as many as necessary to nominate—if they only all have been cast at one time.

Of course Wall Street does not know much about politics, but it has not the hunch the prolonged deadlock in the Democratic convention and the apparent wide split in the party over religious affiliations has heightened tremendously the chances for the election of Calvin Coolidge next November.

When the convention opened the betting in Wall Street was 8 to 5 on Coolidge as against any candidate the Democrats would name. Wall Street brokers are what is known as favorite players. They were willing to back Mr. Coolidge because he was already in the White House and they regarded that as being the most favorable place from which to conduct a campaign for re-election.

Today the odds on Mr. Coolidge had lengthened to 11 to 5 with very few

Missionary to Use an Airplane

HONEYMOONS IN THE AIR

BECOMING MORE POPULAR

LONDON, July 8.—Honeymoon trips to the Continent are becoming more and more the vogue. Once merely a somewhat adventurous journey for business men in a hurry for hustling American tourists, the swift and exhilarating trip across the channel by aeroplane has now become recognized as an ideal way of starting a honeymoon on the Continent.

As the always now radiate from London to Paris, Berlin, Brussels, and other European centers, and as from these places start other aeroplane lines, many of these ultra-modern "honeymooners" spend all their travelling time in the air and not in a railway carriage.

In nearly every case the flying honeymoon seems to have been the thought of the bride, and it has been noticed at Croydon Aerodrome that women seem less nervous than men when about to start.

GOLD CONTINUES TO COME

LONDON, July 8.—Gold imports into England last week were $61,536 pounds, practically all from South Africa. Exports were $14,335 pounds, the United States taking $56,100 pounds and India $5,034 pounds.

There was a notable increase in silver imports during the week, which aggregated 408,888 pounds, of which $11,213 pounds came from the United States. The week's export of silver was only $4,629 pounds.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY Openly Condemns the Ku Klux Klan

CLEVELAND, July 8.—The socialist party late today officially condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name after the sharpest debate in the national convention that has been meeting here for three days.

The resolution said: "We emphatically condemn the Ku Klux Klan and every other effort to divide the workers on racial or religious lines and to effect political purposes by secret or terrorist methods."

Opposition developed on the ground that the party was injecting itself into a religious fight with which it was concerned and that a pronouncement covering only the party's stand in opposition to attempts to divide the workers would be better suited to a socialist declaration.

The substitute was defeated 19 to 53 and the resolution was then passed 56 to 15. This represented less than half the full registration as many of the delegates had departed for their homes.

Assange Feelings. To assuage the feelings engendered by the debate, Morris Hillquit, New York, had passed an instruction to the executive committee to circulate a pamphlet setting forth the party's detailed position on the subject.

"This would have a good effect upon not only the delegates to this convention," said Hillquit, after George M. Goebel, New Jersey, who moved the substitute, had attempted to shut off his talk on a point of order.

"So long as the businessmen merely hate the Jew or the Roman Catholic or the negro, they are merely exercising a personal privilege, but when they put on their pillow slips to intimidate voters and commit murder in opposition to the rule, for and by the people, then it is time for every socialist to take the stand on the side of civic right and liberty."

William H. Henry, Indiana, said his state was so permeated with the Klan that condemnation of it by the party would require a lot of explaining by socialist organizers.

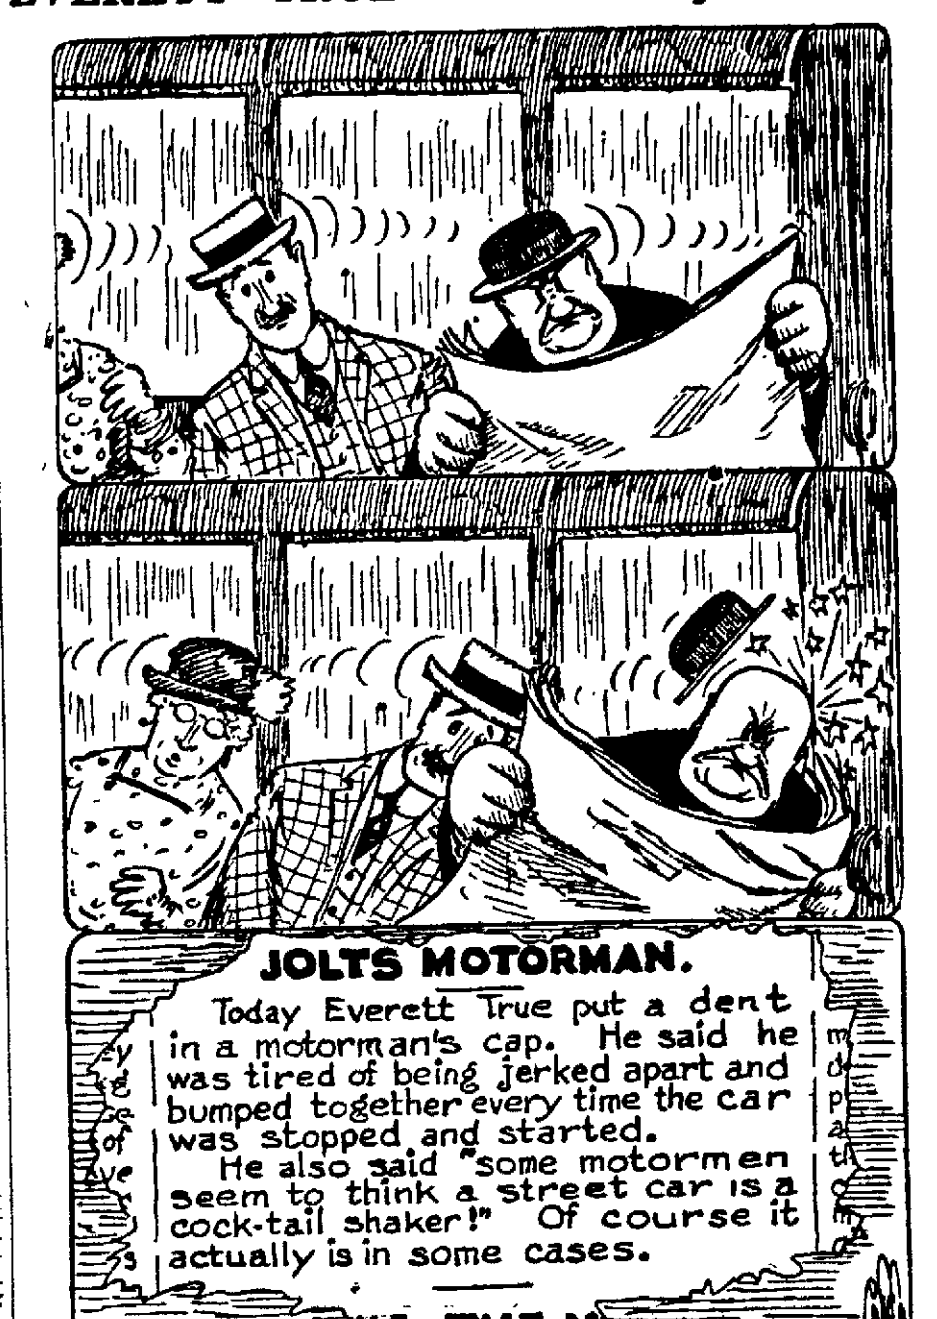

Workers in Klan Ranks. "The mining towns are crowded with union men marching in Klan regalia," he said.

"Then, rejoiced Walter Thomas Mills of California, 'You must explain why workers are at each other's throats. You must either tear down the flaming cross or crucify the labor movement upon it.'"

The convention also passed resolutions denouncing the fascist movement in Italy and the assassination there of socialist deputy of Matteotti. A dozen other declarations were passed, the avalanche of resolutions coming in place of a formal platform which the party passed yesterday when it endorsed the LaFollette candidacy and his platform.

Among these declarations were resolutions pledging active support to the child labor amendment, favoring proportional representation for minor-rites in legislative bodies, endorsing Victor Berger's bill for a circulating billion dollar loan with which to restore the economic balance between the United States and Central Europe and condemning the thumb print system of identifying immigrants.

Denounce Exploitation. The convention supplemented the Klan declaration with a resolution denouncing exploitation of negro workers and urging their education in the doctrines of socialism. In fact much of the closing day of the session was taken up with discussion of educational methods, special attention being paid to work with the labor unions. One of the resolutions provided for a research commission to study methods of reaching the young and another for advertising and publicity experts to aid the national executive committee in its campaign work.

A lengthy resolution by Mills provided for farm loans on public credit, public ownership of transportation and marketing facilities, governmental stabilization of farm prices and cooperative purchasing of supplies and of farms on lengthy credits to individuals by the government.

The convention selected a new national executive committee of seven and created the office of national chairman, naming Eugene V. Debs for the honor. It also selected a special committee to visit the veteran leader of the party at Elmhurst, Ill., and extend to him personally the affectionate greetings of the delegates.

Our guess is that vulcanizing was discovered by studying a movie kls.

MARKET FOR GERMAN ART AT A LOW EBB

BERLIN, July 8.—Recent auctions in this city of paintings and etchings have demonstrated that art is about as cheap a commodity as anything purchasable in Germany today.

One of the largest dealers in works of art conducted an auction recently for which the most careful preparations were made. Despite the high cost of printing and engraving, the firm went to the expense of reproducing two dozen of the principal works by modern masters offered for sale. Yet when the day came a work by no less an artist than Liebermann, which was conservatively estimated at 20,000 gold marks, went unsold because not even one-fourth of this sum was offered. An oil painting by Ludwig von Hoffmann brought only 50 marks. Other ridiculously low prices were a large landscape by Ludwig Willroder, 380 marks; a typical painting by Eduard von Gebhardt, 200 marks; landscapes by Eugen Bracht, until recently one of the German favorites, 80 and 90 marks.

What is true of paintings is also true of other artistic things. For antique furniture, for instance, there is practically no demand at this time, and valuable first editions and rare bindings can be bought for low figures.

Americans Not Wanted!

Some Japanese merchants and professional men have been quick to inform the world they do not cater to Americans. This sign has been posted on the Paris Inn, near the Imperial Hotel, to avoid any possible boycott by Japanese who might consider it "undesirably foreign." It reads: "The Paris Inn adopts the pure French style appealing to Japanese taste. We do not follow example of America, absolutely! We hope for your understanding. Manager Kimiko Satomi."

Book Value. A stock salesman dropped in on me the other day. He had a beautiful proposition. To clinch it, he leaned forward confidentially and said: "You know, I am offering you this stock at $50 a share and its book value is $100."

"How do you estimate the book value?" I asked.

"That's simple," he answered. "Just divide the total net value of the property by the number of shares of stock outstanding. The result is the book value."

"Yes, but how do you get that total net value of the property? Who says it is worth a certain figure? How do they determine its value? Is the property carried at its original valuation; that is, do they figure what the property originally cost and then allow for depreciation or do they value it on a basis of what it would cost today to replace or do they value it at what it would bring at a forced sale?"

"There's little or no difference in the three forms of valuation," he answered. "Well, if you bought equipment at prices prevailing ten years ago you would quickly find a great deal of difference if you tried to replace it today. So, you see, if your 'book value' were figured on cost or replacing cost, it would be a very different matter."

"I never realized," he said, "a difference in the basis of valuation made."

(Mr. Hughes' forty-second article will appear in The Bee next Saturday.)

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE

CENSORED

Spicy magazines, whose fiction stories are too close to the obscene, hereafter will be barred from sale in Massachusetts.

This is the only kind of censorship that is ever justifiable. There will be a loud howl from the buzzards who commercialize sex. It will be claimed there's no way of agreeing as to where decency ends and indecency begins. Some may even consider Housatonic puritan. The faintest common sense will find the boundary.

FRENCH

France in five months sells to other countries 1566 million francs more of goods than she buys from them. This gives her a very fat surplus for the bank.

In the corresponding months last year, the tide was running the other way and French imports exceeded exports by 362 million francs.

With France building up big trade balances in her favor, it is not as improbable as many believe that we'll get back the money she borrowed from Uncle Sam.

COLLECTION

Auction sales have brought in the vicinity of two million dollars for the stamp collection of Count Ferrari de la Renottiere. The stamps were sold in Paris and Americans were the largest purchasers.

For all practical purposes, these stamps are worth no more than waste paper. Their value is in their scarcity. It's odd that in a very matter-of-fact sort of way depends not so much on usefulness as on rarity—which is a appeal to vanity.

FORGOT

They forgot all about their municipal election this year in Grimsland, N. C. Even the politicians were asleep on the job and neglected to provide candidates. It's a town of 500.

Strange to say, things are going along as well as ever, with former officials continuing in office.

Be a good thing if the nation could forget politics a bit more. Our national campaigns are too long—too many months of ferment that makes business timid. Uncertainty that accompanies presidential elections is, in effect, the largest single item in cost of government.

KISSES

A Seattle couple, celebrating their golden wedding, some figuring and estimate they have kissed 74,000 times since their marriage.

ROADHOUSE

Roadhouses in the air, riding at anchor high above the ground, are predicted by Lord Thomson, British Air Minister. He pictures people in lightweight, inexpensive planes gliding slowly into garages attached to the roadhouses, leaving their planes parked while they enjoy relief from hot summer nights below.

Would such floating roadhouses be within the law if they served hard liquor? How far up into the air does Uncle Sam own? The flying machine inevitably will become the greatest problem of prohibition enforcement agents.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Reports of further showers in the Atlantic states and relatively firm Liverpool cables for the day followed by an opening advance of 5 to 25 points in the cotton market today.

Foreign and domestic trade buying in the upturn carried July up to 28 1/2 and October to 24 1/2 on the call. The advance attracted enough realizing to cause irregularity in the early trading but the undercurrent was steady and there was covering by receipt sellers who appeared somewhat uncertain of the probable showing of the weather report.

Private reports indicated domestic consumption of 26,000 bales for July compared with 413,000 for May and 142,000 for June last year.

Philippine Army Will Discharge 100 More Men at Once

(By The Associated Press.)

MANILA, July 9.—About 100 men of the 34th and 35th Ambulance Companies of the 12th medical regiment of the Philippines Scouts will be discharged for refusing to perform their duties in addition to the 20 men of the 34th regiment who are to be discharged for insubordination and refusal to drill. The men struck for an equality of pay with white soldiers.

A board of nine officers is investigating individual cases in both regiments. A number of men of the 34th regiment were discharged today without honor. The dismissal of the men of the 12th regiment begins tomorrow.

The eight ring leaders of the movement will be charged with mutiny and tried by court martial.

Approximately 500 men of the 37th regiment refused to perform their duties Monday but when the situation was explained to them all but 90 remained.

The military authorities are making a thorough investigation of all scout regiments with a view to weeding out malcontents.

400 Lawyers Sail Today For London

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—More than 400 members of the American Bar Association with their families, will sail today for London on the Cunard liner Aquitania to attend the International Convention of Lawyers in the Middle Temple, July 21.

The American will present to the English Bar a statute of Sir Wm. Blackstone. Presentation will be made by former Attorney-General G. W. Wickham.

The main group of the bar association will sail Saturday on the Berengaria.

While the radio may keep him home at nights it does not let him go to bed any earlier than before.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—The cotton market opened steady with first trades on new crop months showing no change from yesterday's close, but July was 8 points down, prices rallied right after the call owing to much better Liverpool cables than due. July advanced 12 points from the opening sale to 36.55. October traded up to 23.45 and December to 23.34 or 9 points higher. Private cables from Liverpool showed a strong tone owing to rapidly diminishing stocks. Early advices reported little rain in the belt with higher temperatures. The 18,945 bales cleared here for Russia yesterday were officially added to exports this morning.

Cotton futures opened quiet:
July 26.52
October 23.36
December 23.25
January 23.27
March 23.30

NEW YORK STOCKS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Stock prices surged upward again at the opening of today's market, with a half dozen issues establishing new 1924 high records in the first five minutes of trading. Included in the list of new top prices were Southern Railway, American Smelting, West Pennsylvania Power, Philadelphia Company and General Electric, the latter up 2 1/2 points.

With speculative sentiment veering more to the long side of the market, the advance developed more vitality in the late transactions when several popular stocks, including Studebaker, climbed previous 1924 peak prices. American Water Works soared four points to 107, a record high. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by St. Louis and Southwestern common and preferred, Davison Chemical, Yellow Cab, United Cigar Stores and United Railway investment preferred.

American and foreign power certificates moved up 2 1/2. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

NICKEL SANDWICH BACK

(By The Associated Press.)

BOSTON, July 9.—The five-cent sandwich has come back! True, it isn't much more than a mouthful—a bit of bread with cheese, ham, beef or lettuce—but the way people line up in Joe's Place here, suggests that it is worth a nickel, anyhow.

POOL PLEADS GUILTY TO 2 COUNTS

Announcement was made today by Manager Herb Murphy that Eddie Wefer, outfielder, recently acquired by the New York Yankees, has been stung by a bee and that he will report sometime tonight. Murphy stated that a major league scout put him on to Wefer, who has just been dropped by McGraw, who has taken the youngster with him on a training trip south this spring. Wefer was recommended by the scout as a classy outfielder and as fast as Eddie Rogan. Murphy, in a good humor, according to the scout who said at once got in touch with Wefer and the player replied by telegram that he was leaving immediately and would be due to report to McGraw this will surprise the locals considerably since Manager Murphy himself has been out of the game with injuries and will not be able to play for some time yet.

Murphy's plans at present are to put Wefer in the center garden and bring Rogan to the short field, probably on third. Rogan has proven that he is no bad infielder and after he settles down to his position, can play as good a game in the infield as any body.

The locals and Raleigh will play the third and final game of the series today. McWhirter will be Murphy's choice for the mound while Kelly is expected to send in Garrison, his star twirler.

Twins come here tomorrow for three games and with the star Giant player in the line-up, the attendance should be boosted to a good high mark.

Pool was sentenced to serve fifteen years in the penitentiary, but it is hardly possible that he will live to serve very much if any of the term. He is afflicted with a physical ailment from which there is little chance for an ultimate recovery. Dr. Evans stated on the witness stand at Halifax that in his opinion Pool could not live longer than eighteen months at the longest. Now that justice has been done in this matter, and surely those who lost most heavily in the bank collapse have any criticism to offer to a sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary for a man who is practically one foot in the grave.

those desiring help should usually first apply to the Chamber of Commerce with the Chamber of Commerce where every effort will be made to serve the applicants without charge. This new employment office already meets requirements for a sample of one of the articles for help reads as follows: Wanted at once by a large soul tobacco firm, an experienced warehouseman for the purpose of packing and shipping. Must be a first class man. Must be recommended. The Chamber of Commerce is constantly in touch with labor situation in the city, and a position to render splendid service in this connection. Those who desire to work and those who desire should appreciate this service. It should also accept it as one of the mediums between employers and employees.

Announcement was made today by Manager Herb Murphy that former New York outfielder, who has been signed to a contract and that he will report sometime tonight. Murphy stated that the major league scout put him on the list of prospects because of the fact that Wefer, who has just been dropped by McGraw, who took the youngster over to the Cubs in a training trip south in the spring. Wefer was recommended by the scout as a class, outfielder and as fast as Eddie Rusan. He is a good right hander. The scout said that Murphy at one got in touch with Wefer and the player replied by telegram that he was leaving immediately and would be due to report to the Cubs in a few days. The locals considered it a pity since Manager Murphy himself has been out of the game with injuries and will not be able to play for some time yet.

Murphy's plans at present are to bring Weber in the center garden, to bring Reagan to the short field, probably on third. Reagan has proven that he is no bad infielder and after settling down to his position, can probably good a game in the infield as anybody.

The locals and Kalech will play the third and final game of the series today. McWhiter will be Murphy's choice for the mound while Kelly is expected to send in Garrison, his twirler.

Twins come here tomorrow for three games and with the Giant player in the line-up, the attendance should be boosted to a good high mark.

LEGION CONVENTION DRIVE ON MONDAY

Definite steps were taken last night at a supper at the Country Club for the Chamber of Commerce and the local civic clubs to fulfill their promise to the American Legion, made last summer when the delegates to the State Convention of the American Legion were told: "You get the convention; we'll get the money."

After supper, Frank Talbott, general chairman of the campaign committee, referred briefly to the sea-bath made to Danville's young World War veterans last summer, and called attention to the fact that the time to make good on the promise had come. He then called on Mr. Samuel T. Senter, pastor of Mt. Vernon church, who spoke along lines of patriotism and stressed the fact that the men and women who will attend this convention will be representative of the state's best people, including service men from all walks of life. He pictured the days of '17 and '18 when all saluted the young men who were to carry our flag across the sea and bade them God-speed; the days of their return, and the period of reconstruction which the nations are passing through. He called attention to the fact that this would be the first time that the people of Danville will have to greet many of these men, and their auxiliary mothers and sisters. He spoke of the value of having these men here, and the value of their appearance in Danville. He stressed the fact that they come, not as a body of soldiers, but as men who have experienced war and whose aim is to keep down future wars. Following his talk, which was strongly inspirational, the chairman announced the committees which will be in charge of the convention, and called on the people of Danville to contribute to this fund. A general discussion of methods brought out the fact that nearly every one in Danville is interested in the convention and that it is not an objection from any one. During the past few months many people have signified their desire to make the convention a success, and have assured those working on the plans for the gathering that they would be ready when the call came for funds.

The importance of Danville having won the convention last year over Petersburg, Portsmouth and Hampton was brought out, and the desire of people all over the state to get this convention was shown in that already one of last year's contenders has started to circulate the state in an effort to bring the convention to that city next year.

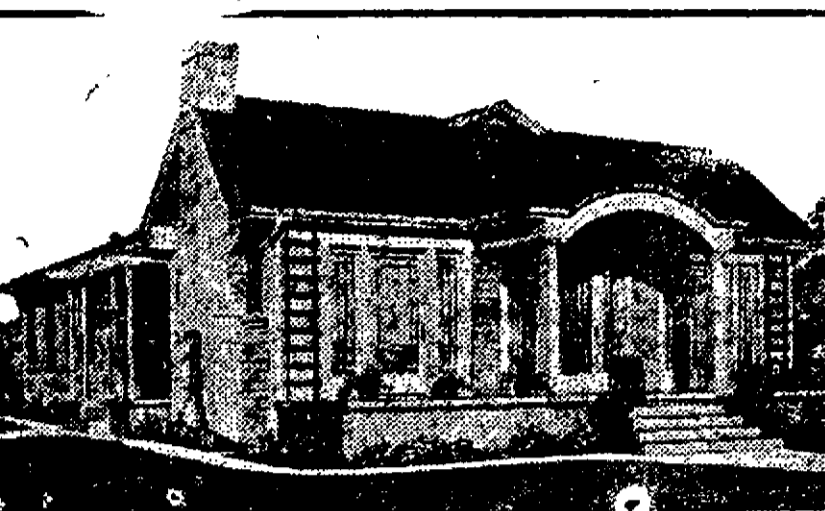

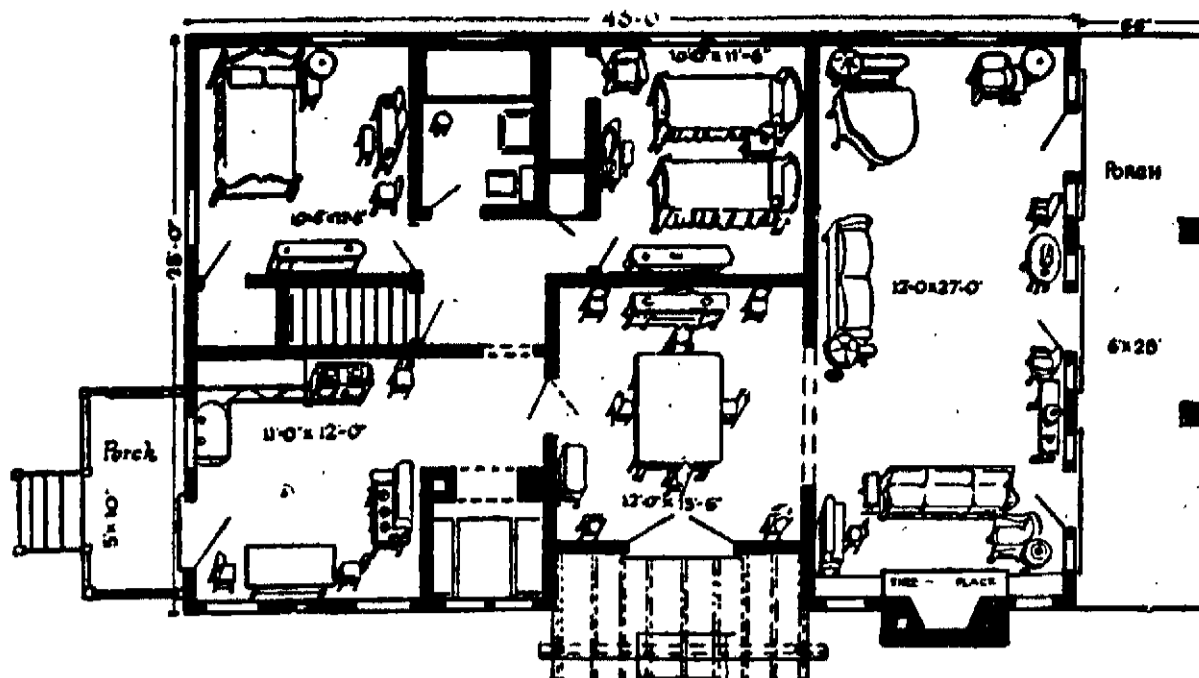

Papers throughout the state are carrying articles every week advertising the convention, and it is expected that all accommodations for housing will be taxed.

Everybody in Danville will be interested in the convention, for there is a home in the city which did not furnish a brother, a son, or a near relative to help keep the Star-Spanned banner still waving over the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

Feeling that no one will want to miss an opportunity to subscribe to this fund, the committee has arranged to have all the downtown business district visited by workers, and they will meet at the Chamber of Commerce Monday morning at 10 o'clock to receive final instructions and to go out and get the money. Many who are not in the business district will feel the desire to contribute towards the entertainment of the convention, which will bring to Danville for the first time the commander-in-chief of the American Legion, General John J. Pershing; the past national commander of the American Legion, Alvin Owsley, now prominently mentioned as one of the possible nominees of the Democratic party for vice president, and Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, past national president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

In order to save the working committees time, any person desiring to contribute towards the fund may send the contribution direct to C. L. Booth, treasurer, the Chamber of Commerce, or leave with Thomas A. Fox, post adjutant of the American Legion.

WELL-BALANCED BUNGALOW

FLOOR PLAN AND FRONT VIEW OF 5-ROOM BUNGALOW

Beauty and convenience in a home are in no way dependent upon the size of the house.

The quiet charm of the home illustrated here, is an example. The interesting curve of the porch roof, the French doors with side lights in front, the pergola porch opening from the dining room and the pleasingly plain treatment of the fireplace and chimney combine to make the exterior of this home one of character.

The long living room, across the front of the home, has a wealth of light admitted by the doors, side lights and windows. The fireplace on one end of the room and the uninterrupted wall space at the other end suggest interesting groupings of furniture.

The dining room is conveniently situated, of adequate size and is well lighted by French doors.

The bedroom group is efficient, with the bath between, well segregated from the rest of the house. The house is suitable for a narrow lot, the width being 28 feet, with a length of 43 feet without the porches.

The approximate cost of this home is $6,000. This figure is subject to as many variations as there are separate communities where it may be built.

PROMINENT CHARLOTTESVILLE MAN KILLED HIMSELF

While in a temporary fit of despondency, due to ill health, Thomas J. Wood, a prominent farmer and merchant residing at Wildwood, on the Virginia Air Line Railway, in Fluvanna county, ended his life at an early hour.

News of the death of Mr. Wood was brought to his partner, Bruce Davis, of the Davis and Wood Buick Company, 521 East Main street, this city, by a messenger from Wildwood about 8 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Wood ended his life soon after entering his general merchandise store at Wildwood at 7 o'clock, the weapon used being a 30-gauge shot gun. The residence adjoins the rear of the store, and the report of the gun was heard by members of the family as they were seated at the breakfast table. Hastening to the store they found Mr. Wood lying prone upon the floor, with life extinct.

Mr. Wood was a native of Albemarle county and was born and reared near Burnsville. He was about fifty years of age. He married Miss Blanche Munday, daughter of Mr. J. O. Munday, of near Burnsville. She survives, with three children, two daughters and one son.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES INSTALLED

The Commercial Bank of Danville has just placed in their safety vault 330 new safety boxes which makes the total number of safety boxes available to the people of the city and surrounding county 787.

This bank has the only exclusive safety box vault in the city and up to the present has not been able to meet the demands of the people for boxes of certain sizes.

As a safe place for deeds, mortgages, stocks, bonds, insurance policies, contracts, receipts, wills and other personal papers a safety deposit box will relieve one from worry.

A group of bust portraits of Lafayette Mott, Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton were placed in the crypt of the nation capital.

IF YOUR RECEIVER GOES WRONG

If you have a regenerative set, keep this trouble sheet handy. It tells you what to look for in case of any of four possibilities—no signals, no regeneration, too critical adjustment, or weak signals.

No Signals—Antenna grounded; "A" battery dead; "B" battery dead; wrong connections; broken wire; bad soldering; shorted condenser.

No Regeneration—Wrong grid leak; "B" battery low; tickler leads reversed; broken tickler connection; not enough turns on secondary.

Too Critical—Too much grid leak; too much plate voltage; too large a secondary or tickler; phone condenser too small; grid wires too close to panel.

Weak Signals—"B" battery; wrong grid connections; poor antenna insulation.

2 IN 1

Just put on this ear set and get any local station, if not more. For Frank Ferris of Boston has fitted it up with a crystal detector in each phone—a complete receiver in one piece. He is shown wearing the set which, he says, will act as a reflex with any single tube set.

BETTER STEEL OUTLOOK

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Steel mill operations this week will be the largest in more than two months. A turn around the corner for the better, in the industrial slackness is indicated by the official announcement today of the week's operating schedule. All mills in the Mahoning Valley and Youngstown district show an increase in scheduled production, and plants which have been partly idle for some time will be operating nearly at capacity again, starting either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Iron production will be brought up to 5 per cent of capacity.

98 OUT OF EVERY 100 WOMEN BENEFITED

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Canvass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question.

98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it.

Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100.

Did you ever hear anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

RADIO NOTES

WIRELESS IN CHINA

Hongkong has two broadcasting stations, but they are weak and do limited broadcasting. One, however, is planning a 1000-watt transmitting set for broadcasting vocal and instrumental music, besides news, weather and shipping reports.

RADIO KILLS BIRDS

Members of the United States Biological Survey report the death of thousands of birds annually due to radio. They are not electrocuted, but they meet death by crashing blindly into aerials.

WATCH B BATTERIES

To avoid waste, use only the size B battery that you need for the set. To tap off the required voltage from a larger battery is waste, because the life of the unused cells also is shortened.

SHORT WAVES FOR AIR

Aerial lighthouses may be constructed with short wave transmitting sets for all year round guidance of aviators. These transmitters are to be based on the one and a half and two-meter radio wave transmitters recently produced by the French commandant, Rene Menery.

COLLEGE NEWS SERVICE

Chief colleges of the country are banding together to start a news service by radio, co-operate in broadcasting and help one another in research work. The league formed by these colleges is expected to include a membership of 100.

WIRELESS IN ARCTIC

The Oxford University Arctic expedition is to be fully equipped with wireless transmitting and receiving apparatus. The sledging party which will explore the islands north and east of Spitzbergen will carry both types of apparatus, and the airplanes also will be armed with radio.

PICK RADIO PLAYS

GHOSTS ON THE AIR

Spooks will penetrate the ether one of these nights, when KGO, Oakland, Calif., broadcasts the drama, "There Live Ghosts." There is a ghostly music, too.

RADIO IN JERUSALEM

Radio fans in Jerusalem are asking for the better type of receivers, because they have to tune in on English, French or German stations if they want to hear anything at all in the line of entertainment.

ACROSS THE TROPICS

Sixty-six amateurs in America have succeeded in getting through to South America. Two of them are in Canada and the rest are scattered throughout all the radio districts, except the seventh.

AMATEUR BROADCASTS

Station WGI, Medford, Hillsdale, Mass., is to broadcast special announcements for amateurs twice a week at about 6:40 in the evening. It is expected a better understanding will result between amateurs and broadcast listeners.

Nurses Association.
The Graduate Nurses Association of Danville held an enthusiastic meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening. Sixteen members were present, among them Miss Florence Burnett, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who has recently accepted the position of head nurse at Danville General hospital. After the routine business meeting, Miss Burnett gave a report of the biennial convention of the Nursing League of Education, American Nurses Association and the National Association of Public Health Nursing, which was held in Detroit the latter part of May. Miss Burnett brought clippings and bulletins which will be added to the diary of reports and accounts of this association.

The question of the nurses' annual picnic was discussed and Crystal Lake was chosen as the place of meeting this year, and next Tuesday evening as the time.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the announcement of a prize contest in which every member of the association is asked to take part, contributing, by the first of September, a paper consisting of not more than two hundred and fifty words, outlining a plan by which a greater interest in the association may be stimulated. Edmonds hospital, superintendent of Edmonds hospital; Miss Emily Allison, superintendent of General hospital, and Miss Carmichael, public health nurse, will be the judges in the contest.

Among those present were: Misses Sarah Simpson, Georgia Wilson, Kate Hallie, Frances Wimbley, Annie Mifflin, Annie Harrison, Elizabeth Staples, Grace Turberville, Willie Powell, Ethel Powles, Miss Kate Miss Carmichael, Miss Elmore and others.

Matinee Party.
Miss Mildred Hill and her guests, Miss Annie Bottoms Miller, of Goldsboro; Miss Margaret Patterson, of Wilmington, Delaware; Miss Marjorie Barnes, of Wilson, N. C., and William R. Hill, of Greensboro, motored to Greensboro, this afternoon to see "The Covered Wagon." They will return to Danville in the early evening.

Guest of Mrs. Fritchett.
Mrs. Russell Ford, of Rockingham, N. C., who has been the guest of Mrs. James T. Catlin, Jr., for the past week, will be the guest of Mrs. James I. Fritchett, Jr., for several days.

Roll Call of Red Cross Nurses.
All graduate nurses in the city are requested to communicate with the Red Cross chapter, to which they belong, not later than September 12. The object is to give each local chapter time to arrange a correct list which later will be sent to headquarters in Washington.

Porch Party.
Miss Charlotte Jones was hostess at a beautiful porch-party Tuesday morning at her home on Main street, entertaining Misses Elizabeth Henchle, Louise Brown, Lucy Morgan, Jane Riddle, Katherine Jones, Kathleen Tomlin and Virginia Raine.

Potted ferns and a profusion of garden flowers were beautifully arranged to convert the porch into a bower, and in spite of the rain, the party was a success. A two-course luncheon was served. Miss Virginia Raine won top-score prize, and Miss Katherine Jones received the consolation gift.

Motor Trip.
Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Paylor, of College avenue, this city, left Saturday for a motor-trip to Richmond, Newport News and Virginia Beach. They will be gone ten days.

To Speak in Roanoke.
James T. Catlin, Jr., left today for Roanoke, where he will attend a state meeting of insurance men. Mr. Catlin is on the program for an address to be given tomorrow.

At Patrick Springs.
Little Miss Zoe Teley left this morning for Patrick Springs, where she will spend a week with her father, who has been there for the past two weeks.

At Health Office.
Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Harper, of the State Board of Health, Richmond, are holding a tuberculosis clinic at the health office today from 9 to 12, 2 to 4, p. m., 7 to 8 p. m.

Summering at Fire Island.
Mrs. John Gilmer, of Winston-Salem, passed through Danville a few days ago, spending a day with her mother, Mrs. P. R. Jones, en route to Fire Island, where she will remain several weeks.

Returned from Kentucky.
Mrs. W. R. Toomey, who was called to Louisville, Ky., a fortnight ago, on account of the illness of a relative, has returned home.

Engagement Announced.
Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Vaughn, North Main street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Vaughn, to Willard Motley, of Malmont, Va. The wedding will take place July 19th.

Bridge Party.
One of the attractive morning parties of the week was given by Miss Elizabeth Owens yesterday at her home on Hubbard avenue, when the guests played eight tables of bridge. Summer flowers were used to decorate the lovely rooms. Delicious refreshments were served in two courses.

MERCHANT FINANCIAL WRECK.
I am a financial wreck because of the expense of doctors and medicine for my wife, who has been a chronic sufferer for years. Some physicians said it was some gastric and some intestinal ailment. I have tried every remedy and from her I have learned a simple home-remedy preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and thus the inflammation which causes the gastric and stomach troubles. I have tried every remedy, including the one of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I have not been able to convince or money has been lost. Mr. Fall's Drug Store and druggists everywhere—advise.

COOL FROCK FOR HOT DAYS

Almost denuded of sleeves makes this a splendid frock for hot-weather wear. And for those who prefer wrist-length sleeves, provision is made for same in pattern as shown in sketch of the back view. The design is of the popular coat type found becoming to almost any figure.

A vividly colored silk print would be lovely used for this style, the patterns for which cut in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. In the medium size, only 3 1/2 yards of 40-inch goods is required. Price 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Teacup yellow linen with violet ribbons is a striking possibility for an afternoon "ub frock." You'd also like it in cretonne, ratine homespun or silk shirting.

Colonial Women of Affairs
A most interesting review of Mrs. Dexter's book as given in a recent issue of the New York Times, says that the history of the world is the field of research and account which has yielded rich results. Mrs. Dexter investigates conditions and occupations of women during the early days of this country before 1776. It is interesting to note, according to the review, that Mrs. Dexter is a professor of history, in Skidmore College, possesses the training and knowledge of sources necessary for the production of a book that will stand the test of modern standards. It is also interesting to note that the reviewer has found by diligent search of the old newspapers of Colonial times whose announcements, advertisements and inconspicuous items, have proved a treasure-house of information along with diaries and a few other sources, that the reliability of the one who is trying to save him, unless the rescuer can break this hold, of both of them may have right.

(Chicago Tribune Service.)
PARIS, July 8.—Smart society women are wearing wigs for evening wear. Fashionable gatherings at the theatres, restaurants, and dance places at night have practically no bobbed heads or shaved necks. At yesterday's polo game at St. Cloud many women were seen removing their hats and coats in their motor cars and witnessing the game bareheaded. The same sight was seen at Olympic stadium today.

GIFT TO PETERSBURG LIBRARY
PETERSBURG, Va., July 8.—According to City Manager Brewster, a collection of $10,000 have been made to the W. R. McKenney free library of this city, the donors being Mrs. George Cameron, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Lyman D. Gilbert, of Petersburg, Pa., who before her marriage was Miss Gabriella Cameron, of this city. The collection was made for the purchase of books for the children's department of the institution as a memorial to the late Mrs. Cameron. Mrs. Cameron has donated $5,000 for books for adults as a memorial to her father, the late George Cameron. In addition to the $5,000 donation, Mrs. Cameron gave books which belonged to her son.

—Mrs. Warner Wood has returned from Brooklyn, New York, where she has been visiting relatives for several weeks.

Mosquitoes and Flies Slain by the Roomful
Scientific spray destroys these annoying pests wholesale

No longer need folks waste their time and ruin their tempers with ineffectual "swats." Flies and mosquitoes now can be killed neatly—and with despatch—by a wonderful liquid spray that destroys these annoying pests by the roomful.

Detrol is the name of this new aid to summer comfort. A scientific formula worked out by Richmond chemists after years of careful experiment. A preparation that is safeguarding the health of thousands by ridding their homes of filthy, disease-carrying flies and other insects.

Sprayed freely through the house, and about the porch in the early evening, Detrol will insure the comfort of your whole family. Periodic spraying in suspected places will keep the entire house free from roaches, ants, bedbugs, moths and other loathsome, destructive insect life. It does not stain.

Detrol also cleans like magic. Sprayed lightly on tile, marble, tubs, sinks, windows, bowls, etc., it cuts dirt and loosens grease without hard scrubbing. You simply wipe the sprayed articles clean with a damp rag. Sprayed in musty places about the house, Detrol purifies and disinfects the air. Full directions on can.

Drug, grocery, hardware and department stores sell Detrol in the handy combination package—complete with sprayer and large can of liquid—for 85 cents.

You really cannot afford to be without Detrol. If your dealer hasn't Detrol, we will send you the combination package, post free, on receipt of one dollar. Detrol Mfg. Co., Inc., Richmond, Va.

FOR GREASE.
To remove grease from a stone basin or stone steps, pour on a strong solution of washing soda in boiling water, then cover the stain with a layer of earth and let it stand overnight. Brush out the earth and repeat the process. The stain is not entirely removed.

THREE PIECES.
The most common mistake with a coat is to have every costume, in a technical sense, the same. When the pieces are not exactly matching, they harmonize.

The most common "pale" of a day is found on the coast of New Zealand. It is a pale that is dawn on one horizon and dusk on the other. When the sun is not exactly matching, they harmonize.

Planner styles of gloves are much better style than elaborately embroidered or cut ones. White gloves are rarely seen except with the tan-colored suit.

When drowning, a person frequently claps his hands around the neck of the one who is trying to save him. Unless the rescuer can break this hold, both of them may have right hand on the right jaw of the drowning person.

This movement will free the rescuer and leave him at the drowning person's back, from which point he will have command of the situation. The rescuer must place his right hand on the right jaw of the drowning person.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO PRISCILLA BRADFORD

My dear Priscilla: Leslie and John celebrate their wedding anniversary next Friday, and Leslie has been kind enough to say that I might invite you, my dear Priscilla. I hope you will delay your return home until after that event.

I hope, my dear, that you did not take the little altercation between John and Leslie the other day as of any great moment. I thought at the time that John had no right to find fault with Leslie for bobbing her hair, but upon thinking it over, I think you are right in your suggestion that Leslie should have waited until she had spoken to John about it, whether she followed his advice or not.

I am finding out, my dear, that the young women of this generation, however are very independent. Leslie is a very sweet girl, but she does not always defer to John's wishes in the same way that I used to defer to John's father's wishes.

She is also particularly bent on having her own way with little John, and seemed very much put out when she arrived home and found that I had been rocking him to sleep.

The first night when she put him to bed in the dark, I nearly went mad when I saw her. I thought he was going to burst a blood vessel, but she would not allow me to go near him, and John agreed with her, although I was sure that the child would physically hurt himself.

For the first time since I have known Leslie she spoke quite respectfully to me, and said: "Mother, I never dreamed that you would interfere in the regime that I had instituted for little Jack. No one rocks children now-a-days. It is very unscientific. The child should be taught to go to bed in the dark."

For three nights that poor baby sobbed and moaned himself to sleep, and when I mentioned that I was sorry for him, Leslie said, in a very abrupt but decided manner: "You certainly should be sorry for him. Mother, as it is all your fault. Babies learn very quickly. At that age they are completely self-centered and dislike are all that they understand. I do not see yet why you should go into the room and take little Jack up after Sarah had put him to bed."

"Oh, I didn't do that," I said innocently. "I undressed him and rocked to sleep, and, I am quite sure, Leslie, if you had a child of your own."

White Youth Clay
My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. Husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

ACID BURNS SKIRTS OF LADIES ON STREET
CHICAGO, July 8.—Morons of various sorts roam the streets of Chicago, but a new specimen is being sought by the police. His specialty is burning dresses with acid off women who resist his advances. His third victim within a week reported today.

Based on the testimony of the three victims, two of whom went on the street fully clothed and dashed into shelter with their skirts eaten away by acid, the police believe the moron is armed with some sort of a spray gun, filled with an acid of remarkable erosive quality. In all the cases the man, who is described as six feet tall, with a cowboy hat, follows his victims, about a step behind, making insulting suggestions. When these are ignored he puts the acid spray into action and their flimsy garments drop away within a few minutes.

None of the women were burned by the acid, which appears to attack clothing only, or its work was discovered before it had time to erode the skin of the victims.

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

NEA Service Writer

Politicians—those who admit anything at all—agree that the past week has improved the Progressive prospects enormously. Of the Progressives themselves, the more hopeful are even claiming victory. The more cautious ones don't go quite this far, but they do express confidence that La Follette will get more votes than either the Republican or the Democratic candidate, though perhaps not more than both of them put together.

Not Worried.

If so, with the House left to decide the issue, the Progressive division might make it impossible for the representatives to agree on a president in such a case presumably President Coolidge would go on holding office pending his successor's selection. But this isn't worrying the Progressives. If they get a plurality of the votes, they say it will mean the speedy end of both old parties and a realignment along liberal and conservative ideas, with the latter certain to sweep the country at the succeeding election.

Both Alike.
While the Progressives have hoped all along to draw a good many votes from the Democrats as well as the Republicans, the general impression, until the New York convention was pretty well along, was that their heavy toll would be taken from the Republicans. But the way the convention has split the Democratic party has changed this opinion. The belief now is that voters in shoals will desert both old groups to get under the Progressive banner.

Oil Again.

According to officials of the District of Columbia, where ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Doheny and E. L. Doheny, Jr. were indicted on charges growing out of their oil deals, the trial of the quartet will be as good as the senate's Teapot Dome investigation. But the public is skeptical. Judging from the comment, the general belief is that nobody will go to prison as a result of the inquiry that the case will simply drag along indefinitely until finally they peter out altogether.

Just Detecting.
It looks, however, as if Gaston B. Means, the investigators' star witness in the Daugherty inquiry, will go to prison. He's still fighting his case, but the prosecution has progressed as far as a conviction and sentence. Means will have to get the lower court reversed to escape and it may be difficult. He was found guilty of helping to get 5 barrels of whiskey out of the government's hands, to be sold by the drink. Means admits he did help but says he did it as a detective—to get evidence against bootleggers.

Japan.

The Washington government isn't worried over the anti-American "Incidents," which have occurred in Japan since the new United States immigration law passed. The perpetrators have been private individuals and the Japanese officials have done their best to run them down and punish them. But there isn't any question a lot of ill feeling exists which may lead to something later.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

NEW YORK, July 9.—Political bosses are human sort of folks. Despite all the mean things that are said about them.

Doubtless it is the human element in their composition that wins them the following which enables them to be bosses. For the successful boss his henchmen rather than by fear.

Take George Brennan, czar of the rampant Democracy of Chicago. Brennan, big bodied, big fisted, stomping about on his legs, might doubtless be a practical John. His bushy eyebrows have a way of cocking themselves slantwise that alone is quite terrifying. And his voice, swelling from his barrel-like chest, rumbles like the wrath of Jehovah.

All of which fits into a proper picture of a political boss. But there is a benignant, paternal, kindly side to Brennan that quite belies his title and looks.

One of his young ward workers in an outlying district of Chicago, who had been doing heroic work for the organization in a subordinate capacity until a few years ago, found this out quite to his surprise.

He had his eyes on the position of ward leadership, which he felt he had won by his efforts. So he mustered up courage to go and tell Brennan about it.

He found Brennan in and proceeded to state his case. He told him he had done and what he believed he could do in the future. Brennan listened without a word, his hands clasped across his stomach, his teeth clamped in the butt of a black cigar, his eyebrows cocked at their most disconcerting angle.

When the budding politician had finished, Brennan grunted and sat silent, puffing clouds of thick smoke. "So you want to be ward boss, eh? Nothing doing!"

The young man started to protest but was stopped by a thundering "Shut up, I'll not make a ward boss!" Brennan shouted. "I should say not."

Then, dropping his voice to a burbling rumble, he continued: "I'm going to send you to Congress. And he did."

A somewhat different sort of boss is Tom Taggart of Indiana. Tom is more polished in appearance and method than Brennan. He is more of the diplomat and less of the bulldozer.

Having been, by appointment, in the United States Senate for a time, Tom acquired the dignified title of "senator," which he still wears. "Senator Taggart," you will notice, sounds much more genteel than "Boss" Brennan.

In addition to being the political boss of Hoosier Democrats, Tom is a hotel keeper. The fact of being a hotel keeper probably enabled him to be boss. For Tom's old Grand Hotel in Indianapolis, and his resort hotel at French Lick, being favorite foregather places for politicians, first enabled Tom to get a peep at how the political wheels went round and to try his hand at spinning them occasionally.

Down at French Lick Springs, Tom's hotel is surrounded by spacious grounds, and folks of wealth and fashion go there to play golf and drink mineral water. Tom maintains several families of tame squirrels. "To keep the nuts away," he explains.

One millionaire visitor, who coaxed one of these pets within reach, thought it a good joke to give it a rap with his cane. When Taggart heard of it he was furious. He ordered the guest away and warned him never to come back. Refusing all apologies, the guest gave the fellow a lecture that should have been reserved as a classic for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

RAILSTON.

Talking Honey

By G. L. FURGERSON

(No. 2)

The ancients "robbed" their bees and took out the honeycomb in chunks (none too cleanly the way they handled it), and crushed honey, wax and all into a sticky mass. And in this way it was eaten.

Up to 70 years ago there was not much improvement in the method of preparing honey for eating. Those who did not care for the wax in comb honey, melted the chunks, and skimmed off the wax as it came to the top, or strained it through cheesecloth or screen wire. Hence we have the term, "strained" honey. Many primitive beekeepers still prepare their honey for market in this manner. Such honey may be excellent in quality, if it has not been overheated in the process. Heating honey above 160 degrees, at the highest, injures the flavor, and also darkens its color.

Strained honey can be distinguished from the best grades of extracted honey by a cloudiness or murkiness in the finished product that cannot be gotten rid of.

BREEDING YAKALOS MAY AUGMENT MEAT SUPPLY

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., July 8.—A new breed of livestock which may have a bearing on the future meat supply here is being developed in the town here by crossing buffaloes with yaks. Superintendent A. G. Smith says the stock has heavy build, qualities combined with a good rustling nature.

The breed has been given the name "yakalos," which Mr. Smith believes will prove more practical than "cat-talo," evolved several years ago by crossing buffaloes with domestic cattle. "Yakalos" breed true to type, are sturdy and able to forage for themselves, he said.

More than 1,500 buffalo calves were born this year in Wainwright park, which makes up for the excess sties killed last winter. The herd now numbers about 6,000 full grown buffaloes, the largest in existence and one of the remnants of the millions of bison that once roamed western prairies, according to Mr. Smith.

SCHOONER IS EQUIPPED WITH ELECTRIC PLANT

NORFOLK, Va., July 8.—Fitted out like a hotel, with electric fans, electric lights and an electric stove and a radio outfit, the four-masted schooner Ella Pierce Thurlow is loading a cargo of piles for San Juan. She also had between decks 3,800 tons of coal for delivery at Cartagena, Colombia. Her master is Captain George W. Torrey, who has been following the sea for 25 years. The schooner's electric power plant is the only one of its kind ever seen on a vessel of her type in this harbor. It not only furnishes the lighting power, but also supplies current for fans and an electric stove. Her galley is furnished with equipment as modern as that on an ocean liner. Captain Torrey has his wife and two babies on board at present but they will leave today for their home in Maine.

DAILY PUZZLE

The number six is called a "perfect number," because the three numbers which may be divided into it, 1, 2 and 3, when added together, total 6. In the same way, the number 28 is a "perfect number," for its divisors 1, 2, 4, 7 and 14, add up to a total of 28. There is also a perfect number of three figures. What is it?

Yesterday's answer:

AGIN

Jamisons Feature Day Hot Springs

(By The Associated Press.)

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 8.—Two members of the Roanoke House of Jamison supplied two victories and fine playing today in the second round championship flight, of the Virginia state golf association's annual tournament.

Paul Jamison defeated S. M. Newton of Richmond, medalist and conqueror of H. Grim Peck, of Lexington, state champion, 4 and 3, while Joe Jamison was victorious over Max Paxton of Lexington, twice holder of the state title, 1 up.

In the bracket matches of the second round, championship flight, A. L. Hawse, of Richmond, former middle Atlantic champion, won from W. H. Wood, of the same city, 4 and 2, and W. F. Souder, of Charlottesville, defeated Judge M. Peck of Richmond, 3 and 1.

Today's result left Roanoke with two chances for the state title, while Richmond and Charlottesville have only one each. Tomorrow morning in the semi-finals, Souder will be paired with Paul Jamison and Hawse with Joe Jamison. The winners of these matches will play the finals of eighteenth holes in the afternoon.

While Paul Jamison's playing in the present tournament had been steady, Newton's game in medal and match play had been brilliant, giving him the edge in predictions on the outcome of today's battle. Jamison, however, shot spectacular golf after losing the first hole to the Richmond star. The Roanoke player halved the match, but he held on to the fifth. From then on, he kept Newton down.

Newton, who yesterday went around the course in 73, two under par, appeared most completely off his usual game.

In the second round, second flight, C. E. Moran, Charlottesville, defeated W. A. Bagley, Richmond, 4 and 3; R. D. Shepherd, Charlottesville, conquered J. Allen Wheat, Charlottesville, 2 and 1; W. R. Mason, Charlottesville, won from Tom Sales, Richmond, 1 up in twenty two holes; and O. W. Lockett, Roanoke, was victorious over M. L. Rea, Charlottesville, 2 up.

In the semi-finals, Moran will be paired with Shepherd and Mason with Lockett.

In the women's tournament, Miss Margaret Lucado of Lynchburg, defending champion, defeated Miss Martha Martin, Richmond, 1 up. Mrs. Ashby Jones, of Richmond, defeated Mrs. J. Allen Belvin of the same city, 5 and 4. Miss Lucado and Mrs. Jones will play for the title tomorrow.

A heavy downpour of rain last night and the morning caused the tournament committee to make several changes in the program. Second rounds and semi-finals of eighteen each had been slated for the day.

The semi-finals in the men's tournament were postponed until tomorrow morning, while the players were told to play their second round any time they desired today. The finals were reduced to eighteen holes in order to conform to the other changes.

AGREE ON FOOD TARIFF

BERLIN, July 8.—The protectionist food tariff is now definitely determined on. The Minister of Agriculture has promised to submit a bill to the Reichstag imposing duties which will bring German food prices up to the foreign level. Industrial interests are supporting the bill, because they expect higher duties on manufactures also as a quid pro quo.

Feel Tired, Lame, Achy?

Is a constant backache spoiling your summer? Do you feel weak, worn and achy; so miserable you can't enjoy a moment's comfort?

How about your kidneys? Well kidneys, you know, filter off the body poisons. But when the kidneys slow up, these poisons accumulate and upset the whole system. Backache is apt to follow, with sharp, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities.

HERE IS DAVENLEE PROOF:

J. T. Allen, fireman, 714 E. Green St., says: "My kidneys became disordered and I was much disturbed by a dull ache in the small of my back. I felt miserable and my kidneys didn't act right, the secretions being unnatural in appearance. I got Doan's Pills at McFall's Drug Store and began using them. I received splendid results. One box of Doan's cured me of the attack and I have never had any trouble since."

THE LAND CAME OUT TO MEET HIM

ONE OF THE "FLOATING ISLANDS" CAPTAIN JONAS PENDLEBURY SIGHTER IN THE PALAWAN PASSAGE BETWEEN THE PHILIPPINES AND BORNEO. THE CAPTAIN IS SEEN IN THE INSET.

By A. H. FREDERICK
NEA Service Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Land was coming out to meet him. Captain Jonas Pendlebury, master of the liner President Adams, couldn't figure it out. He scratched his head and looked at his charts. They only made him wonder all the more. He changed his course and slackened speed. But still the land trees and all kept floating toward him. Eight little islands there were.

Eight little islands haphazardly swimming around. Eight little islands inhabited by chattering monkeys, singing birds and innumerable cobras. "Flight of them there were," the skipper says.

"One measured some seven acres. We sighted them in the Palawan passage. That is a sort of 'cut' in the China sea, between Borneo and the Palawan island of the Philippine group. "There were palm trees on them higher than our wireless masts. Foolish us, too."

"But, sir, they were floating along as pretty as you please. And they came within 40 feet of us."

A generalized substantiation of Captain Pendlebury's story comes from the National Geographic Society.

These islands are not unique, its records reveal. Others have been seen in tidal rivers, chiefly off the east coast of Borneo.

In the 3 by 9 front yard of a house in congested Fifty-fourth street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues is a small tree, battling its growing way alongside the house.

New Yorkers of today measure distance in taxi fares, whereas their Dutch ancestors measured time and distance in "pipe's fun or tobacco," the time required to smoke a pipe loaded with tobacco, smoked in leisurely Dutch manner.

In the foundation days of Manhattan Isle a meeting would be in order "12 pipes long" or a distance between points was "120 pipes."

Now when one asks the distance between two points somebody remarks, "about 70 cents," or whatever amount it costs to make the journey in a taxicab.

RICE HAY FOR ARMY HORSES

MANILA, July 8.—The United States army within the last year has purchased 8,000,000 pounds of rice hay, which has been found satisfactory as fodder for horses and mules. After July first the commissary expects to enter into contracts for about 10,000,000 pounds of this hay and it is hoped to encourage farmers to produce the entire quantity of hay used by the army in the Philippines.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1924

OPPORTUNITIES

Colonel Thomas De Kay must have turned over in his grave several times. In 1724 he traded 60 acres of land, in what is now the business heart of New York City, for a farm over in New Jersey.

The farm today is worth $25,000. The 60 acres in New York City are worth 100 million dollars.

The colonel's great-grandson, now owner of the farm, has a faraway look in his eyes as he discusses how it might have been different.

He says, philosophically: "I probably would have done the same thing myself at the time. Who would have dreamed in 1724 that 60 acres at Broadway and Canal street would ever become the priceless parcel of land it is today?"

The De Kay incident will interest everyone, for it is just a big-scale experience that no one escapes—the overlooked bet. The man who does not pass up a big opportunity himself is sure to have an ancestor who did.

The trouble is, these are not opportunities at the time. They are made opportunities by the passing of time.

Many a reader will start reminiscing and say: "Gosh, I remember when I could have bought such-and-such a property for a song. Today it is worth a barrel of money."

People are passing up big future opportunities today just as much as a century ago when Colonel De Kay sold his farm. For instance, cities as large as New York is today may spring up on what now is remote farm land.

Up to now, there have been three main factors in making cities large: Commercially strategic location at the seashore with good harbor facilities; location to drain large farming territories; location logical for manufacturing.

A fourth factor will inevitably develop—location at points where air traffic will focus. Flying flyers by the millions are not improbable, nor even flying freight trains. If you can figure out the future traffic centers of "air lines," a small investment may enable you to leave many millions to your descendants.

Of course, by the time the descendants get on the job, confiscatory taxation make the millionaire as extinct as a dodo or passenger pigeon.

WHY YOU HAVE GOAT-GETTERS

The peevish enemy of a farmer or home gardener is the cutworm. Other pests annoy the man coaxing food out of the soil. But for sheer cussedness, the cutworm is worst of all.

Maybe you know how the cutworm operates? He waits until night, when the gardener is asleep dreaming of his harvest. Then the cutworm starts along a row of, say, beans. He nibbles through at the soil line until the bean stalk falls over like a chopped-down tree. Then he leaves the fallen plant, doesn't bother to eat the rest of it.

The cutworm is an out-and-out destroyer. One would not mind so much if it devoured the whole plant. But this thing of operating like a logging crew felling trees and then leaving them to rot strikes a gardener as malicious vandalism.

Every form of life exists for a definite purpose. It has its function in creation. The cutworm simply does what he is intended to do. He is a destroyer, pure and simple, for he levels a whole row of vegetation before he gets through, though one bean stalk would feed him throughout his entire lifetime.

Nature makes us pay the full price

for everything we get.
She sends destroyers like the cutworm to keep us constantly fighting to earn our living.

Nature does not want us to have too easy a time. If we had, we'd get lazy—wouldn't supply the toll that develops our brains and characters and makes humanity progress.

No muscular strength without exercise. No wisdom or knowledge without hard thought. No strength of character without temptations and ordeals.

Life is full of cutworms—pests, goat-getters, seemingly unnecessary annoyances. But that is because life is to the mind and spirit just what a gymnasium is to the athlete. There is always more purpose or destiny in trouble than in a "soft time." No man is ever a top-notch canoeist until he gets caught out on the water in several big storms. No man really knows an auto or other piece of mechanism until it breaks down and he has to repair it. And no man or woman experiences the real purpose of life until they go through trouble and conquer it.

It is like competitors or enemies—they are more valuable than friends and associates, for they make us fight for the worth-while things that can be obtained no other way.

WHAT THE MILLS MEAN TO DANVILLE

(The Danville Register.)
It is characteristic of humanity generally that we seldom appreciate the every day blessings and benefits to which we have become so accustomed that we take them for granted until we are suddenly deprived of them. This has been strikingly demonstrated in the case of the great local textile industry. Not until the exigencies of the cotton market and the high price of the raw staple forced the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills, along with all the other textile industries of the country to curtail production and to operate on half time or less than full time did a great many people realize what this great textile industry means to Danville. The experience of recent months of operation on a scale of curtailed production has been keenly felt in every line of local business, in the realty and rental situation and in every channel of trade.

In years gone by not a few people have manifested some prejudice to this great industry here and have shown a disposition to undervalue and even to disparage its value and importance to this community. "Blessings brighten as they take their flight," truly, as many have now fully realized. The unavoidable curtailment of production and the diminution in the aggregate amount paid out in wages and salaries during the period of half-time operation have been sorely felt in the local retail trade and through them in all lines of business and industry. This tardy realization should and, we trust, will have the effect of creating more universal appreciation of the value of such a great enterprise and the important part it plays in the general prosperity.

In order to give some idea of the part played by this industry in the local financial and mercantile trade situation, it is only necessary to remind that the weekly pay-roll of the big textile industry averages about $125,000, or to state it on an annual basis, it must be remembered that something like six and a half million dollars per year is the sum normally disbursed in wages here. With the plant operating on half-time or nearly that it would mean that probably three million dollars, estimating on a yearly basis, is thus taken out of the channels of trade in Danville and vicinity. This is merely the wage phase of the matter, and when we remember that the plant disburses in semi-annual dividends on its preferred stock six per cent, on ten or twelve millions of dollars, of that stock, we can realize what a further contribution this industry makes to the business activity and prosperity of the community.

We deem it timely and appropriate to direct attention to this matter at this time in order that a larger and better mutual understanding may be established and maintained between the people of the community and the great cotton milling industry located here.

If he scornfully refers to this as a materialistic age, he means that he isn't making much money, chants Bunka.

John Ainsley, Master Thief
BY Arthur Somers Roche
Copyright 1924, NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—praying upon the credulity of his first venture into the life of a crook. At the expense of Dargason, a Fifth Avenue Jeweler.

Now, in a resort hotel, Ainsley is recovering the strength which he lost in months of confinement before he turned to dishonesty. At the resort he unfairly loses $500 in a golf bet with Ernest Vantine, chief officer of a detective agency—a coat and a beach individual. Vantine is engaged to Miss Kernochan, daughter of a wealthy retired broker. As proof of his great wealth, Kernochan shows Ainsley a ring—an enormous ruby which he gave to his daughter upon her engagement to Vantine.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
He was not loath to do so, and I learned that the jewel had a history. It had been owned by a Russian grand duke who had fled to Italy. His Kerenski came into power. He had disposed of it to an American millionaire by the name of Adams, who had died shortly afterward, leaving his affairs much involved. I had a signed receipt for the stone, and I took this stone in settlement from his widow," said Kernochan.

I wondered, looking at his smug face, with the pious side-whiskers and the mean, hard mouth, how he had been his claim against the estate. I questioned him—yet not too idly, for the stone attracted me. I learned that Adams had left a widow, who now resided in Boston and who was in rather a straitened circumstance. Thinking of how comfortable that widow might live upon the proceeds of the sale of the ruby, I felt my distaste for Kernochan increasing. I made up my mind that I would have that ruby.

But next morning, starting for the second fairway, where the professional was awaiting me to correct a nasty slice that long absence from the game had produced in my drive, I came upon the Kernochans and Vantine in the lobby. They were all dressed for travel, and porters were laden with bags. I stopped beside them.

"Yes, we're leaving," Kernochan told me in reply to my polite question. "A telegram late last night—sudden death of a former partner of mine; inconsiderate of him to die now, when he is enjoying the golf, but it can't be helped."

His callous brutality should not have affected me, but I marked it up against him. I, too, felt that partner was inconsiderate; I wanted

"I COULD NOT WEAR SUCH A RING."
the ruby, and it was going away. I murmured an incoherent condolence. I turned to Vantine.

"I'd hoped, with a little practice, to take you on again," I told him.

"Well, there are other golf courses," he teased.

"I live at Greenwich, Mr. Ainsley," said Kernochan. "In a few weeks the courses around there will be in good condition. If you're in New York—"

"Thank you very much," I told him warmly.

And the next day I, too, left Pinehurst. Two evenings later I was in Boston; and twenty-four hours after my arrival, I had read and digested, in newspaper news, the life and death of the Henry Adams, whose widow had surrendered the great ruby to Benjamin Kernochan. For, you see, when I make up my mind, I am very much in earnest.

I had read of super crooks; I had met one in the flesh, and almost under his eyes had abstracted a jewel for the possession of which he had sacrificed his super crook plans. I had told myself then that the so-called super crooks succeeded merely because of the low intelligence of the police opposed to them. If low cunning—which was all my super crook possessed—could achieve success, what would the intelligence of a gentleman achieve?

I had answered that question satisfactorily. By one bit of sleight-of-hand I had made more money than honest drudgery would have earned me in a lifetime. For I had no profession. Born to expectations which had not been fulfilled, I found myself, at thirty, possessed of an aristocratic birth, a cosmopolitan education and—nothing else. I was a living sermon of the futility of the gentleman.

For the day when the mere being a gentleman entitled one to a decent and honorable living has passed forever. The world has no respect for fine instincts. It pays its tributes to fine gold.

I had intelligence; that I knew. But in addition to a good mind—which had never been used—I had only a gift for sleight-of-hand, assiduously cultivated during my youth. That contemptible accomplishment, however, coupled with a quick wit, to enable me to do what a super crook had failed to achieve.

Yet, with all my contempt for the intelligence of the police, I had vowed that I would, if possible, confine my efforts to fields in which the police had no concern. I would rob thieves. But here, at the very outset, I found myself in a predicament. I found myself planning to steal from one who was not a thief. Pride entered into the affair. Kernochan and Vantine thought me a wealthy fool who would be fooled with impunity. I would endeavor to show them that they had been mistaken. And in furtherance of that endeavor, I made a call upon Mrs. Henry Adams.

I found her in a modest boarding-house on Beacon Hill. I introduced myself as one who planned writing a book on historic jewels. Two days of hasty reading in the Public Library

Scoop's Colyum
DRAKES BRANCH, July 9.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—Passing as a Household Ciphers, a recent court decision on a question of domestic discipline will not be accepted with unanimity. The learned judge in this case told a child to obey her mother if there was any conflict of parental authority. On the merits of the decision as applied concretely it is difficult to decide. Perhaps the mother was worthier of respect than he father. From an abstract point of view, however, the court seems to be treading on dangerous ground.

Is the man no longer the head of the family? The feminist would say yes without a moment's hesitation. But if the mother's word is to be paramount, there is not even the equality of the sexes left. The father becomes a mere cipher. Paternal influence is abolished. Without depreciating the value of maternal influence, it may fairly be asked if it is always equal to the task of dealing with headstrong children, especially boys.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Exhibitionists.
Hold a minute! Before writing on this subject, it is advisable to find the definition of the term. The medical dictionaries consulted limit the use of the term to one kind of exhibitionist. Stedman limits it to one who has an insane or neurotic compulsion to expose or exhibit certain parts of the body to certain groups of people. The medical dictionaries generally follow that type of definition.

The general dictionaries refer to other types of exhibitionists, broadening the term greatly. There is no dictionary limited to term used in behavior. If there was, possibly it would have the definition "I want" for the purpose of this article.

In this article, by "exhibitionist" is meant one who habitually dresses, or otherwise displays himself or his possessions in a way to attract attention. This definition makes the exhibitionist and the peeper closely akin. The distinction made between the exhibitionist family and the peeper family is the former exhibit their persons and their possessions, and the latter, their opinions and sayings. The latter is more a mental attitude; the former more physical.

At the bottom of exhibitionist behavior is self-aggrandizement and conceit. The desire is to be noticed; it is a mental malady—a form of mental sickness—and like all forms of sickness it varies in degree. At one end of the line is the kind of sickness set forth in the medical dictionaries—an insane or neurotic compulsion to behave in certain ways that lie beyond the limits placed by decent people. At the other end of the line is the almost normal mentality of the people who exhibit themselves and their possessions in order to obtain ends that are accepted as proper, or almost proper.

For instance, a man builds the finest residence in town. That fact shows him to be an exhibitionist, but it does not reflect seriously on his intelligence. A woman wears the finest clothes in her town, or the costliest diamonds, because she is an exhibitionist, but her type of behavior does not put her anywhere near the class of those of "insane or neurotic compulsion." Millions of women dress conspicuously, or exhibit so much of the human anatomy as the mode of the moment allows for the purpose of ultimately winning a husband, a home and a family. This is exhibitionism, but it is not pathological.

MOONSHINE MAKERS REQUIRE MUCH SUGAR

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 8.—The ups and downs of the sugar market have a real meaning for the makers of moonshine, according to Robert Kirkley, United States marshal for the western district of South Carolina. His jurisdiction includes that portion of the state commonly known as the "Dark Corner," which is a notorious area for producing "good corn" in blockade stills long before the Volstead act.

BIG FLEET GOES AFTER TUNA FISH

SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 8.—Eight hundred boats, the largest fleet in the history of the local industry, will work out of this port during the tuna fishing season, which started in June and continues until September. During May 13,014 pounds of tuna, of the yellowfin and yellowtail varieties, were brought in. Approximately 2,000,000 pounds of fish of all kinds were delivered to the market here during the month.

Can Sparky Matthews Keep Nats In Fight?

WID MATTHEWS

BY BILLY EVANS
What does one winning player mean to the success of a ball club? The unique experience of "Sparky" Matthews of the Washington club raises that question. It is doubtful if any major league player has ever enjoyed the thrill that has come to Matthews. In successive years he has played a leading role in the pennant aspirations of two big league ball clubs. A year ago last spring I looked over the Athletics in training at Montgomery. The previous year the club had finished seventh. Mack's material was much the same. It did not look as if his club was a first division possibility. In discussing with the astute Mr. Mack his new material, the tall leader of the Athletics dwelled on the play of an outfielder, by name Matthews. Said Mr. Mack:

SOUTH WILL OPEN INSTITUTE TO STUDY POLITICAL PHASES
GREENVILLE, S. C., July 8.—Designed to "promote the serious study of modern political problems, national and international, an institute of politics will be conducted at Furman University here from August 5th to August 16th. The school will be similar to the one inaugurated some years ago at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Prof. James W. Garner of the University of Illinois, will give a series of lectures.

"I do not regard Matthews as a great ball player. I am in doubt as to his ability to hit major league pitching. His arm is rather weak for a center fielder. He is slight of stature and may not be able to stand up under the strain of a hard race. "However, he is by far the most impressive of my new players. He is bright and has initiative. He likes to play ball. He is fired with enthusiasm and the spirit to win. "It wouldn't surprise me if he went big and proved a big help to my ball club." Put Athletics in Race. The history of the 1923 campaign is still fresh in the minds of every fan. For about half the season the Athletics proved the sensation of the league, running neck and neck with the champion Yankees. Matthews played a stellar role in the club's success. "Sparky," the critics named him, because he seemed to have supplied the needed power to make the Athletics a winner. Then something happened that fouled "Sparky." It was a case of from stardom to the bench. During the off season he was sent back to the minors. Washington recently needed an outfielder and brought him back to the big show. Getting his second chance, Matthews proceeded to take up where he had left off with the Athletics.

Goose Big With Nats. A few days after he joined the Nationals the team started a spurt that brought 10 straight victories and first place. Can Matthews continue the mad pace he has set or will he stoop? Washington fans are much concerned. They feel the good showing of the club centers around Matthews, that he must continue to star if the team is to be a pennant contender. "Sparky," the critics named him, because he seemed to have supplied the needed power to make the Athletics a winner.

Ware, died many years ago and later she married her stepson in good faith. Ware is living in a western state. Just as soon as Mrs. Ware was informed of the situation, she promptly consulted her attorney, and annulment proceedings were instituted.

27 RICHMOND BATTERS FACE HEEL IN 9 INNINGS
(By The Associated Press.)
ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., July 8.—Only twenty seven Richmond Colts faced Jake Hehl, star pitcher of the Rocky Mount nine in the first game of today's double header played here. Although Hehl struck out but one man on mound, he was a perfect shot, striking out in reaching first base and the team was retired at the end of the ninth with a perfect shutout registered against them. As if not satisfied with pitching perfect ball, Hehl came through in the fifth inning with a hit which accounted for the two runs made by his team to win the game.

For the Game's Sake

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, July 9.—Will it be America versus France in the Davis Cup finals this year? There is at least a fair chance that Australia will be displaced by the United States as one of the finalists in the great international tennis struggle. In the European zone France certainly seems to be the strongest team. England will be the country she will have to beat and if she does the Frenchmen will have to come to this country to meet the team of the American zone, which doubtless will be Australia.

The contest between the French and the Antipodeans, if it materializes, will be a dramatic affair and worthy of the greatest outpouring of lawn tennis enthusiasts. With LaCoste and Borotra to bear the main burden the Australian stars will undertake an immense task in attempting to dislodge them and it is not certain they will succeed. Edward B. Moss, secretary of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, tells the writer that he expects William Johnston to arrive here from the coast toward the end of the present month.

Johnston, he says, is through with a long and arduous tennis season which finds him completely backed in the continental tour of the season. He has planned for a season lasting from six to eight weeks and believes this will give him ample time in which to reach the peak of his form and to be in possession of a larger store of physical energy and stamina than has been the case in recent years. Johnston is said to be weighing more just now than he has ever weighed.

PROPOSED DEMPSEY-MADDEN FIGHT ON LABOR DAY
(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 8.—Promoters of the Queensboro, A. C., in Long Island city, today announced that an offer of $200,000 had been made to Jack Kearns, Jack Dempsey's manager, for a title bout between the champion and Charles Madden of New York to be held in the Queensboro stadium on Labor Day. Kearns would not say whether the offer would be accepted. He said that the champion's motion picture work would keep him busy until August 14, and if he could get into fighting trim in the interval the match would be arranged.

OLD-TIME OLYMPIC HEROES NO. 5
J. FULLER NOYSE
For 16 straight and narrow years Walter Camp picked J. Fuller Noyse as All-America cheer leader, with unusual apologies. Noyse was a natural-born cheer leader. Indeed, it was hard to tell him from an ordinary half-wit. Except that he did not play a banjo.

Noyse absconded with the Olympic cheer-leading championship exactly 24 years ago. Rocky Mountain time. Everyone said this was remarkable because Noyse was just a freshman at the time. It would be remarkable today. Noyse is still a freshman.

Up until the time that Noyse entered the field, cheer leading was a hit-and-miss proposition. Noyse put the business on a scientific basis, adopting the methods made famous by Gentleman Jim Corbett. He was a hit and no miss with Noyse. His left uppercut was a terrible thing.

Noyse first attracted international attention in 1900 when One Funch O'Goofy, now a retired logger and philosopher, and Dr. Emmanuel Leaker, now in the chess finale at the

SHOAF MASTER OF CAPS WHILE TOBACCONISTS HIT HARD AND OFTEN FOR WIN

Danville won from Raleigh yesterday by the top-aided score of 8 to 1 in an abbreviated affair of six and a half innings. Effective pitching by Shoaf and frequent and timely hitting behind him enabled the Champions to make a runaway affair of it.

The Capitals' only chance to score came when Barrett made his home run smash in the fourth, with no one on base.

Danville batsmen went after Pitcher Elliott from the jump and clinched the victory in the inning with four runs made on five hits, a base on balls and a wild pitch on which two men scored. Meanwhile heavy rain storm was impending and the lowering clouds made it seem likely that the Tobaccoists might lose the victory within their grasp. Consequently the game was postponed to tomorrow to expedite the retirement of his own team in the fourth. Regan struck out purposely. The score was then six to one in Danville's favor. As it turned out, however, the floods did not desert until Raleigh had seven turns at bat, whereupon Umpire Lewis called the game. Rain was then falling, and it was too dark to play longer.

Aside from the hurrying of Shoaf, who yielded but four hits in one inning, the great catch by McDonald, a veritable shoe-string affair in which he came in fast for McMahon's fly and rolled over with the momentum of his sprint, but clutching the ball and immediately Brooklyn's catcher, Resco grounded out, but Myers came through with a two-cushion shot, and Cochlin and Ernst drove hard line singles to center. In addition to all this cannonade, Pitcher Elliott let a single to right in which Staley scored from third and Regan from second. Myers' hard shot aimed against the fence in left center sent McDonald in, and Myers counted on Cochlin's line drive to center.

One of the features of the game was the excellent work of Umpire Lewis. He watched the pitching closely, called them promptly and generally accurately, and what is even more noteworthy, he expedited the play. At one time when Raleigh seemed stalling for time, he held the watch on them. If all the umpires would put more snap into the play and the shifting of the teams from bat to field, it would help the game and add to its interest and pleasure. The 6-1-2 innings game was played in an hour and ten minutes, or almost at the rate of eight minutes to an inning.

Last of Raleigh Series Today
The Raleigh team will close its series here today and will fight to make it two-out of three. Garrison, their star hurler, who shut the Danville team out here on June 27 or 28th will probably be Kelly's choice in an effort to bring home the bacon, while McWhorter, one of Danville's best bats, will probably oppose him. Threatening weather greatly diminished the normal attendance yesterday, but with sunshine today a big crowd is anticipated to see a fine pitching contest.

MASTERS PITCHES WELL AND DURHAM WINS
DURHAM, July 8.—Masters kept his hits well scattered today and Durham defeated High Point by the score of 3 to 1. Hunter was hit for ten bingles by the Bulls but managed to keep them scattered enough to produce but three tallies, though sufficient to win the game. Bourg's double play unassisted was the only play which was outstanding. The locals have a new twirler on the way to join the club. (Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, July 9.—Yale's crack rowing crew is going to have worth-while foemen in the Olympic races. That fact has been assured by the decision of Australia to send a crew which has rowed together for two or three years and which they regard as unbeatable and Leander, up to Saturday an unknown quantity, has demonstrated his worth by winning the Grand Challenge at Henley. Ed. Leander, the Yale coach, will have his hands full yet.

Mellon, the American stroke of Leander, got some satisfaction for his defeat in the varsity race by winning it; the Henley. But he had a hard struggle driving his Leander mates to a six six feet margin over Jesus. Only the crew who know the dead water of Henley and the pace that is set over that course can appreciate what this means.

When on economy to sum up the American rating this year, an enormous amount of credit must be given to Wisconsin and Coach Vail for the plucky visit to Touchdown and the remarkable showing there, where Wisconsin finished second, though underhanded and unseemly. Meantime, it will be very interesting to get the report on the physical condition of the men who tried rowing at Wisconsin this year, and compare it with the records made some years ago which led Wisconsin temporarily to abandon rowing.

Talking at manual work has been found by official investigation to cause considerable loss of time, except when the work is entirely automatic.

TWO BROTHERS MAY MEET TODAY IN GOLF FINALS

(By The Associated Press.)
HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 9.—With the possibility that two brothers from the same city might meet later in the day in the finals, playing in the semi-finals of the Virginia State Golf Association's annual championship tournament started this morning.

The two brothers that went into the semi-finals are Joe Jamison and Paul Jamison of Roanoke, who yesterday defeated Max Paxton, Lexington, twice state champion, and J. M. Newton, Richmond, also a former champion and medalist in the present tournament, respectively.

Paul Jamison sprung a surprise in winning from Newton, for the latter had defeated H. Crim Peck, Lexington, defending champion Monday, and had been playing sensational golf. The Roanoke star ignored what had happened in the past and came out of the match with a 4 and 3 victory.

The other member of the house of Jamison defeated Paxton 1 up.

As a result of his victory in the second round over W. F. Souder, of Charlottesville, won from Judge M. Peck, Richmond 3 and 1 and this morning was paired with Paul Jamison.

The semi-finals of the second round, C. E. Moran, Charlottesville, was paired with R. D. Shepherd of the same city, and O. W. Lockett, Roanoke, with W. R. Mason, Charlottesville. Yesterday Moran beat W. A. Bagley, Richmond, 4 and 3, while Shepherd conquered J. Allen Wheat, Charlottesville, 2 and 1. Lockett defeated M. L. Rea, Charlottesville, 2 up, while Mason won from Tom Soules, Richmond, 1 up in 22 holes.

Miss Margaret Lucado, Lynchburg, defending woman's champion, conqueror of Miss Martha Martin, Richmond, yesterday was faced in the final round by Mrs. Ashby Jones, Richmond, who won from Mrs. J. Allen Belvin, of the same city in the semi-finals.

Originally it had been planned to have the finals for 36 holes, but a rain Monday night and yesterday morning postponed the tournament committee to postpone the semi-finals to this morning and reduce the number of holes in the finals to eighteen.

SIDELIGHTS ON CONVENTION

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—When and if this Democratic convention ever adjourns will be like the parting of old friends. Everybody has come to know everybody else. It has been like one big family where all the members feel privileged to quarrel with all the other members. Madison Square Garden will never be the same with the old familiar faces gone.

Your real acquaintances in the convention depend entirely upon whom your neighbors are. The nearest neighbor and he knows everybody in the delegation by their first name.

It has been interesting to see a great change come over Texas. They arrived here a stern grim lot and all through the Klan and Anti-Klan fight through the tenacious of feeling was apparent.

But now all that is gone. Age has mellowed the delegates. They are much older than when they arrived in New York and therefore much more tolerant. They have been smiling lately at the same sort of incidents which at first excited their wrath.

Most of the breaking points when so many of the Al Smith people go on parade about the hall nowadays the Texans instead of scowling at them, slap them on the back and grin.

It is the old, old saying that after you get to know a man you hate him. At the world war the greatest danger of the state was in the trenches was that the opposing soldiers would meet in the trenches and become friends.

Madison Square Garden has been fraternizing of late. Texas has been receiving and returning visits from virtually every delegation in the hall. So things lately have not been quite so bitter as they were in the beginning and on the surface at least things are quite genial. How can any one stay mad for three long weeks?

An evidence of the good humor which has come to take the place of so much of the anger is apparent at the beginning of every roll call. As soon as the clerk calls out "Alabama," the entire assembly of delegates and many persons in the galleries join in the swelling chorus:

"Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood."

This has become so much of a ceremony that Alabama could not vote for anyone else even if she wanted to, which she does not.

Some one figured it out today that on the first 86 ballots Oscar W. Underwood had received 2,674 votes from Alabama alone. This was about three times as many as necessary to nominate—if they only all have been cast at one time.

Of course Wall Street does not know much about politics, but it has got the hunch that the prolonged deadlock in the Democratic convention and the apparent wide split in the party over religious affiliations, has heightened tremendously the chances for the election of Calvin Coolidge next November.

When the convention opened the betting in Wall Street was 8 to 5 on Coolidge as against any candidate the Democrats would name. Wall Street brokers are what is known as favorite players. They were willing to back Mr. Coolidge because he was already in the White House and they regarded that as being the most favorable place from which to conduct a campaign for re-election.

Today the odds on Mr. Coolidge had lengthened to 11 to 5 with very few Democratic sympathizers willing to take any bet even at that comparatively long price.

When the Democrats met in Madison Square Garden the country at large had no idea that through this people the first news of a national tragedy. Yet it was through the radio phones carrying the news of the Monday night session in the Garden that the news of the death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr. It was a great shock to all the listeners-in, for the afternoon reports from the hospital had a slightly optimistic note about them which had heightened hopes everywhere.

When young Coolidge died one of the first thoughts of Washington was to let the convention know. Earlier in the day the Democrats with professed sorrow had sent a message of sympathy to the president and had received from him one of the most gracious acknowledgments he has ever penned. As soon as it was possible to do so after the news arrived, the convention adjourned.

Governor William Flynn, of Rhode Island declaring that the deadlock in this city is an amateur affair, has hied himself away to his own capital of Providence where they have had deadlocks "what are deadlocks?" Governor Flynn has had a deadlock on his hands ever since the first of last January and there is no end in sight. Being a Democratic governor with a Republican State Senate on your hands is real political trouble, in the opinion of Governor Flynn.

Correspondents returning from the firing line at Cleveland where they made a sortie to cover the La Follette delegates are back in the trenches at Madison Square Garden again and prepared for the worst of eventualities. They report that the crowds around the loud speakers in the chorus of 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood every time that State is called. A little touch of radio seems to make the whole country kin.

Many persons following the convention from the first have been of the opinion that the unusual amount of bunting the unusual number of flags in decorating the big garden, constituted a hazard of dangerous proportions. Unknown to a few persons in the Garden a flag caught fire Monday afternoon. A fireman and a policeman stationed close by soon had it under control. It was stated that one of the decorations had been treated in advance with a solution which made them slow burning. But for this precaution there might have been a disaster.

Missionary to Use an Airplane

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 9.—For the first time in the history of missionary activities in Africa, an airplane will be used by a missionary in covering his territory. It was announced today that the missionary who will employ this means of transportation is E. A. Tate, who with wife and son sails today on the Aquatania for his post in Liberia. The Lutheran foreign missions board of Baltimore, which is sending Dr. Tate abroad, will send the plane at an early date.

CLEAN RAINCOAT.

Clean a raincoat by scrubbing it on both sides with soap and warm water, using a soft brush. Wipe off with clear water and hang up to dry without wringing.

Tropical trees at the British Empire Exhibition this year were planted in their native soil, tons of which were brought from England especially for this purpose.

DAN KINSEY, OF UNITED STATES, IS VICTORIOUS

America Opens Fourth Day of Olympics With Hurdles Victory

(By The Associated Press.)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—America has opened the fourth day of the olympic games with a shining victory in the 110-meter hurdles scored by Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois.

This victory, with two other places won by American competitors in the event, set the total score of the United States up to 112, or just double the number of the nearest competitor, Finland, with 56.

The United States would have added to this score, however, had it not been for the misfortune of Karl Anderson, Illinois A. C., who when up with the leaders stumbled at the next to the last hurdle and fell flat to the track, finishing fifth, while George Guthrie of Ohio State, who crossed the line third, failed to get the place because of knocking over one of the hurdles. Kinsey's time of 15 seconds flat was only 1/5 of a second short of the world's record for the event. It was a remarkable performance, considering the fact that the track had been soaked by a down pour of several hours.

Kinsey and Anderson raced nearly a hundred yards on even terms with Atkinson, the South African, and Peterson, the Swedish star, at their shoulders. Kinsey quickened his stride at the last two hurdles and nipped Atkinson by two feet with Peterson third.

Anderson completed the course after picking himself up and was awarded fifth place over Guthrie, who defeated his qualification for knocking over the hurdles was the only other finalist, thus being given a point for last place. Lee Barnes, of Hollywood, Calif., and James K. Brooker, University of Michigan, both qualified in the trials of the pole vault today for the final tomorrow. With the bar set at 12 feet both Americans cleared it easily with apparently a lot in reserve.

Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C., won the 200 metre dash for the United States.

Default of France, Pickart, of Canada and J. H. P. Campbell, of Great Britain were the others who qualified in the first section of the pole vault trials.

The American prospects for retrieving supremacy in the sprints by capturing the 200 metre dash brightened when all four of the Yankees gained places in the finals as the result of brilliant running in the semi-finals. In the first of which Jackson V. Scholz, of the New York A. C., and George Hill, of the University of Pennsylvania, finished ahead of Harold Abrahams, the Cambridge flash, winner of the 100 metre dash, who is beginning to show the least noticeable fourth straight day of competition.

Paddock showed his first real flash of form by winning the second semi-final, with Diddell, of Great Britain second, and Norton, America, third, thus making the final a battle between English speaking rivals. Kinsey, the speedy South African, who was rated the favorite until he injured his thigh, just failed to place in the second heat, although virtually running on only one leg.

It was announced that Charley Hoff, of Norway, world's record holder in the pole vault, would not compete in the event, in which the trials were set for today, having broken down after the 700 metre run yesterday, in which he had a severe attack of the flu.

The American regret the absence of Hoff from the competition. They felt confident they would have been able to take the event, but with the Norwegian out of it, the pole vault appears like a blanket sweep for the United States athlete. A change in the result of the pentathlon, contested Monday, gave Finland two more points and the United States one more. The French Olympic committee announced this afternoon that Swedish star Unger, who originally was placed fourth, was withdrawn upon a recheck originated by the Swedes themselves.

The revised final standing, which from sixth place to first, follows: Lehtonen, Finland, first, 14 points; Sontag, Hungary, second, 16; Robert Legendre, Newark, A. C. third, 10; Lemo, Finland, fourth, 24; Atkinson, fifth, 24; Lathinen, Finland, sixth, 27.

With the completion of ten events in the Olympic games the point score showed the United States just double the number of Finland's points—112 to 56.

SCHOLZ DEFEATS CHARLIE PADDOK IN SPRINTING

(By The Associated Press.)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—America came today to Olympic sprinting glory when Jackson V. Scholz, the speedy New York A. C. sprinter, won a spectacular duel, defeating his countryman, Charles Paddock, in the 200-meter dash final in which he won by a margin of 1/10 of a second.

Scholz came from behind in the last 20 metres and beat Paddock by a foot in the time of 21 3/5 seconds, equalling the olympic record.

Scholz and Paddock finished so close together it seemed like a dead heat from the stand and the judges required several minutes to make their decision.

After his flying leap toward the tape Paddock who apparently twisted his ankle, fell to the ground. It was several minutes before he was able to take to his feet and limp off the field.

Scholz's time of 21 3/5 seconds, equalled the Olympic record made by Archie Hahn in the 1904 games.

By winning the first, second, fourth and fifth places in the final of the 200 meter dash, the United States added 20 to its point score, making the total 132, as compared with 56 for Finland, the nearest competitor.

Seven men including all four Americans entered, qualified in the final pole vault today for the final tomorrow.

These were: James K. Brooker, University of Michigan; Lee Barnes, Hollywood, Calif.; Ralph Sparrow, University of Oregon; Glenn Graham, California Tech; Fletcher Canada, Henrietta, Belgium; Peterson, Denmark. All made jumps of two feet.

The British threat in this event, instead of being made by Abrahams, whose exertions the past three days have caused his wrist to spasm, was made by H. Ladd, who just now is out George Hill, the University of

OTHER RESULTS

(By The Associated Press.)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Colombes, France, July 9.—Jackson V. Scholz, of the New York A. C., won the first semi-final in the 200-meter dash of the olympic games at the opening of today's olympic program here, with George Hill, University of Pennsylvania, second, and Norton, University of Michigan, third.

200-meter dash, first semi-final score: Three to qualify for final heat.

Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C., first, 21 3/5 seconds; George Hill, University of Pennsylvania, second, 22 1/5 seconds; Great Britain, third, time 21 4/5 seconds.

Second semi-finals heat Charles V. Paddock, United States, first, E. H. Liddell, Great Britain, second, Bayes Norton, Yale, third, time 21 4/5 seconds.

Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois, won the 110-meter hurdles; Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois first; Atkinson, South Africa, second; Peterson, Sweden, third; Christensen, Denmark, fourth; Karl Anderson, Illinois A. C., fifth; George Guthrie, Ohio State, sixth, time 15 seconds.

U. S. VICTOR IN TRAP SHOOTING EVENTS

(By The Associated Press.)

PARIS, July 9.—The United States was the victor in the Olympic Trap Shooting events which ended today, plucking up a score of 15 points.

Finland was second with ten, Hungary was third with eight, Canada fourth with six, Belgium, fifth with five, Sweden sixth with two, Australia, seventh with one.

1,000 metre walk, first heat, five to qualify for the finals Friday: Pavesi, Italy second; Harvey Hinkel, New York, third; Boharra, Italy fourth; Clermont, France, fifth, time 49 minutes 4 1/2 seconds.

200 metre dash, first heat: Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C. first; Charles V. Paddock, United States, second; E. H. Liddell, Great Britain, third; George Hill, University of Pennsylvania, fourth; Bayes Norton, Yale fifth, time 21 3/5 seconds.

FRANCIS HUNTER INJURED

PARIS, July 9.—Francis T. Hunter, fifth ranking American, will be unable to play in the olympic lawn tennis championships owing to a slight fracture of a bone in his hand, suffered in a fall during the final doubles match at Wimbledon, according to indications today. The hand is not infected, but is badly swollen.

The draw for the olympic play, which starts Sunday, shows that Miss Helen Wills, the American champion, will play against Miss Van Essen, of Holland, in the first round. Mrs. Satterthwaite, British star, in the second round, Mrs. Mollie Mallory, former American champion, in the third. Mrs. Mallory represents Norway, her native land, in the olympic tournament.

R. Norris Williams, U. S. A., and Henri Cochet, France, dominate the first quarter in the men's singles. Jean Borotra, Wimbledon champion, in the second quarter, Jean Washer, Belgium, the third, and Vincent Richards, U. S. A., and Manuel Alonso, Spain, the fourth.

Increasing interest in the games by the Parisian population was evident today. The attendance was larger than yesterday, despite the unfavorable weather, the afternoon being one of drizzling rain.

LONG DEADLOCK PROVES SEVERE DRAIN ON FUNDS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—The long deadlock in the Democratic National Convention has proved a severe drain on official as well as private funds. The New York convention committee, which virtually financed the big show for the past two weeks, turned this task over to the Democratic National Committee this week after expending about $800,000, not including the $300,000 daily cost of the band and other amusements.

The national committee with funds limited to about $100,000, promptly began to reduce the costs, eliminating among other things, 41 of the 45 ushers on the floor after a score of "securities" ticket holders needed no guides to find their seats.

Despite the retrenchments, however, it was said today that the national committee had had overdrawn its funds by $25,000.

"DECENCY SCREEN"

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 9.—A regulation requiring "decency screens" for the staircases of Manchester omnibuses has been issued here. The decency screen is "for the protection of people ascending and descending the staircase."

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF DANVILLE IMPROVED

The financial statement for the city during the past year has been compiled and turned over to the Waddell Printing Company of this city to be printed for distribution. There will be sixty or seventy pages of tabulated matter, which will indicate the source of the revenue received, also what the money was expended for. The balance sheet shows that the city is in much better shape financially than it was a year ago. A summary of the assets and liabilities are given here, with also a comparison with the report for last year. Assets, 1922-1923, cash on hand, $12,123.22, cash in depositories, $5,914.29, accounts receivable, $5,529.13, interest and supplies, $44,395.39, current deficit, $98,296.12; liabilities for same period, accounts payable, $198,093.62, borrowed money, $129,450.00, reserves for losses, $81,631.63, current surplus, none, report for current year, assets cash on hand, $17,746.22, cash in depositories, $5,782.50; materials and supplies, $56,120.99, current deficit, none; liabilities, accounts payable, $42,616.44, borrowed money, $130,000.00, reserves for losses, $5,413.75, current surplus, $7,845.51. According to the city auditor, the conservative spending of money has been instrumental in making it possible for the report to show a surplus of $45,512, instead of a deficit of $99,205.12 as of last year's report.

EAST TEAMS MEET WEST WITH INDECISIVE RESULTS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—East met west in the first round of the inter-sectional series in the major leagues with indecisive results. Of the nine games played in the two circuits, the representatives of the Atlantic seaboard won five from their rivals on the wide open spaces.

Only one alteration in the standing of the clubs was recorded today on the strength of the outcome. The Philadelphia Nationals changed places advancing to sixth.

The Yanks failed to improve their opportunity to gain on Washington while the Senators were prevented from meeting Detroit by rain.

An even break was the best the world champions could get out of a double header with the invading White Sox. Chicago breezed through a 10 to 2 victory behind Thurston's skillful pitching in the first, while the Chicago boxman's third, fifth and seventh innings of fast ball won the game for the White Sox in the closing engagement New York got to Lyons and Barnes for 16 hits, registering an 8 to 5 triumph.

In spite of a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the second inning Elmhurst, Red Sox moundsman, lost an 8 to 7 decision to St. Louis. Yeager made his second homer in two days.

In a game halted by rain at the end of the seventh inning, Philadelphia shut out Cleveland 4 to 0. Joe Houser's homer with two on in the sixth clinched the battle for the Athletics.

Three St. Louis pitchers failed to stop New York's vicious attack and the Giants drew first blood in the opener by a score of 11 to 6. Hack Wilson lived up to his reputation as an extra base slugger with a drive for the circuit.

Brooklyn cut down the four game lead by which Chicago held second place to three with a 13 to 11 see-saw triumph. A grand total of 35 hits was made by the two teams, the Robins accounting for 22. Each club used three pitchers, Mack, Wheat and Crampton hit homers.

Pittsburgh nursed its embryo winning streak to four games by downing Boston 8 to 3. The Pirates dubbing the Braves "twins" as will for 15 hits. After 26 innings of fast ball Cincinnati and Philadelphia were no better off than when they started. The Phillies took the first game by a 3 to 1 margin in ten innings, while the Reds reciprocated in the second with a 2 to 1 decision in 16 rounds. All four initial boxmen went the full route.

propositions have been discussed one of which, while leaving the reparation commission to say when Germany was in default, would set up another organism to decide whether that default was voluntary.

Another suggestion is that the inter-allied council of ambassadors with the others, and the council perhaps enlarged to take in some of the neutral states, supersede the reparations commission in supervising execution of the Dawes plan.

Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot both are understood to be eager to arrange the supervision so the United States shall have a share in it on an equal footing with the allies. It is even said in British circles that Mr. MacDonald would be pleased if a settlement could be made by the election of an American to the presidency of the reparations commission as now are the same preponderant rights as now are accorded the French president.

PLAN TO APPLY DAWES REPORT IS AGREED ON

(By The Associated Press.)

PARIS, July 9.—A joint note to the allies suggesting how different questions connected with the applications of the Dawes plan might be settled, was drawn up at the conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, the British premier announced today.

Mr. MacDonald said the documents he had drawn up with M. Herriot, constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes plan problems might be settled at the inter-allied London conference which remained fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

The British Prime Minister receiving representatives of the press after his conference with the French premier, said that the Dawes plan was making a substantial beginning toward a full accord between France and Great Britain.

Declaring there was no intention to postpone the London conference, he added: "What an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time. We have invited the Americans to be present and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

PARIS, July 9.—The premiers of France and Great Britain resumed their conversations at 10 o'clock this morning in the foreign office, though looking for the fiercest of their long night session at the British embassy which did not end until after midnight.

The conversations centered, it is understood on the British premier's proposal to discontinue the reparations commission of its right to decide if and when Germany is in default on the Dawes reparations plan. Several

ROOMS IN THE AIR

BECOMING MORE POPULAR

LONDON, July 8.—Honey-moon trips to the Continent by air are becoming more and more the vogue. Once merely a somewhat adventurous journey for business men in a hurry or for business, American tourists, the swift and exhilarating trip across the channel by aeroplane has now become recognized as an ideal way of starting a honeymoon on the Continent.

As the always now radiate from London to Paris, Berlin, Brussels, and other European centers, and as from these places start other aeroplane lines, many of these ultra-modern "honeymooners" spend all their travelling time in the air and not in a railway carriage.

In nearly every case the flying honeymoon seems to have been the thought of the bride, and it has been noticed at Croydon Aerodrome that women seem less nervous than men when about to start.

GOLD CONTINUES TO COME

LONDON, July 8.—Gold imports into England last week were 968,375 pounds, practically all from South Africa. Exports were 514,835 pounds, the United States taking 356,100 pounds and India 136,834 pounds.

There was a notable increase in silver imports during the week, which aggregated 408,888 pounds, of which 355,475 came from the United States. The week's export of silver was only 54,519 pounds.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY

Openly Condemns the Ku Klux Klan

CLEVELAND, July 8.—The socialist party late today officially condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name after the sharpest debate in the national convention that has been meeting here for three days.

The resolution said: "We emphatically condemn the Ku Klux Klan and every other effort to divide the workers on racial or religious lines and to effect political purposes by secret or terroristic methods."

Opposition developed on the ground that the party was injecting itself into a religious fight with which it was concerned and that a pronouncement covering only the party's stand in position to attention to divide the workers was better suited to a socialist declaration.

The substitute was defeated 19 to 53 and the resolution was then passed 56 to 15. This represented less than half the full registration as many of the delegates had departed for their homes.

Assuage Feelings

To assuage the feelings engendered by the debate, Morris Hillquit, New York, had passed an instruction to the executive committee to circulate a pamphlet setting forth the party's detailed position on the subject.

"This would have a good effect upon not only the general public but on some of the delegates to this convention," said Hillquit, after George M. Goebel, New Jersey, who moved the substitute, had attempted to shut off his talk on a point of order.

"So long as the klansmen merely hate the Jew or the Roman Catholic or the negro, they are merely exercising a personal privilege, but when they put on their pillow slips to intimidate voters and commit murder in opposition to the rule, for and by the people, then it is time for every socialist to take the stand on the side of civil right and liberty."

William H. Henry, Indiana, said his state was so permeated with the Klan that condemnation of it by the party would require a lot of explaining by socialist organizers.

Workers in Klan Ranks. "The mining towns are crowded with union men marching in Klan regalia," he said.

"Then," rejoined Walter Thomas Mills, of California, "you must explain why workers are at each other's throats. You must either tear down the flaming cross or crucify the labor movement upon it."

The convention also passed resolutions denouncing the fascist movement Italy and the assassination there of socialist deputy Matteotti. A dozen other declarations were passed, the avalanche of resolutions coming in place of a formal platform which the party passed over yesterday when it endorsed the LaFollette candidacy and his platform.

Among these declarations were resolutions pledging active support to the child labor amendment, favoring proportional representation for minor-

MARKET FOR GERMAN ART AT A LOW EBB

BERLIN, July 8.—Recent auctions in this city of paintings and etchings have demonstrated that art is about as cheap a commodity as anything purchasable in Germany today.

One of the largest dealers in works of art conducted an auction recently for which the most careful preparations were made. Despite the high cost of printing and engraving, the firm went to the expense of reproducing two dozen of the principal works by modern masters offered for sale. Yet when the day came a work by no less an artist than Liebermann, which was conservatively estimated at 20,000 gold marks, went unsold because not even one-fourth of this sum was offered. An oil painting by Ludwig von Hoffmann brought only 50 marks. Other ridiculously low prices were: a large landscape by Ludwig Willroder, 380 marks; a typical painting by Eduard von Gebhardt, 200 marks; landscapes by Eugen Bracht, until recently one of the German favorites, 80 and 90 marks.

What is true of paintings is also true of other artistic things. For antique furniture, for instance, there is practically no demand at this time, and valuable first editions and rare bindings can be bought for low figures.

Our guess is that vulcanizing has been discovered by studying a movie kiss.

Americans Not Wanted!

Some Japanese merchants and professional men have been quick to inform the world they do not cater to Americans. This sign has been posted on the Paris Inn, near the Imperial Hotel, to avoid any possible boycott by Japanese who might consider it "undesirably foreign." It reads: "The Paris Inn adopts the pure French style appealing to Japanese taste. We do not follow example of America, absolutely! We hope for your understanding. Manager Kimiko Satomi."

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Brazilian government troops have taken possession of the city of Sao Paulo and "have the situation in hand," according to an official communique forwarded to the state department today by Sheldon L. ##### Book Value.

A stock salesman dropped in on me the other day. He had a beautiful proposition. To clinch it, he leaned forward confidentially and said: "You know, I am offering you this stock at $50 a share and its book value is $100."

"How do you estimate the book value?" I asked.

"That's simple, he answered. 'Just divide the total net value of the property by the number of the shares of stock outstanding. The result is the book value.'"

"Yes, but how do you get that total net value of the property? Who says it is worth a certain figure? How do they determine its value? Is the property carried at its original valuation; that is, do they figure what the property originally cost and then allow for depreciation and so they value it on a basis of what it would cost today to replace or do they value it at what it would bring at a forced sale?"

"There's little or no difference in the three forms of valuation, is there?" he asked.

"Well, if you bought equipment at prices prevailing ten years ago you would quickly find a great deal of difference if you tried to replace it today. So, you see, if your 'book value' were figured on cost or replacing the property at today's prices it might be $100 a share. If it were figured on what it cost ten years ago it might be $50 a share. If figured on a forced sale basis it might be only $20 or $25."

"I never realized," he said, "what a difference the basis of valuation made."

(Mr. Hughes' forty-second article will appear in The Bee next Saturday.)

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

CENSORED

Spicy magazines, whose fiction stories are too close to the obscene, hereafter will be barred from sale in Massachusetts.

This is the only kind of censorship that is ever justifiable. There will be a loud howl from the buzzards who commercialize sex. It will be claimed there's no way of agreeing as to where decency ends and indecency begins. Some may even consider Boccaccio puritanic. The faintest common sense will find the boundary.

FRENCH

France in five months sells to other countries 1566 million francs more of goods than she buys from them. This gives her a very fat surplus for the bank.

In the corresponding months last year, the tide was running the other way. France imports exceeded exports by 362 million francs.

With France building up big trade balances in her favor, it is not improbable as many believe, that we'll get back the money she borrowed from Uncle Sam.

COLLECTION

Auction sales have brought in the vicinity of two million dollars for the stamp collection of Count Ferrari de la Renotiere. The stamps were sold in Paris, and Americans were the largest purchasers.

For all practical purposes, these stamps are worth no more than waste paper. Their value is in their scarcity. It's odd that in a very matter-of-fact world value depends not on usefulness as on rarity—which is a nappet to vanity.

FORGOT

They forgot all about their municipal election this year in Grimsland, N. C. Even the politicians were asleep on the job and neglected to provide candidates. It's a town of 500.

Strange to say, things are going along as well as ever, with former officials continuing in office.

Be a good thing if the nation could forget politics a bit more. Our national campaigns are too long—too many months of ferment that makes business times uncertain. The accompanying presidential elections is, in effect, the largest single item in cost of government.

KISSES

A Seattle couple, celebrating their golden wedding, do some figuring and estimate they have kissed 74,000 times since their marriage.

ROADHOUSE

Roadhouses in the air, riding at anchor high above the ground, are predicted by Lord Thomson, British Air Minister. He pictures people in lightweight, inexpensive planes gliding slowly into garages attached to the roadhouses, leaving their planes parked while they enjoy relief from hot summer nights below.

Would such floating roadhouses be within the law if they served hard liquor? How far up into the air does Uncle Sam own? The flying machine inevitably will become the greatest problem of prohibition enforcement agents.

Philippine Army Will Discharge 100 More Men at Once

(By The Associated Press.)
MANILA, July 9.—About 100 men of the 34th and 35th Ambulance Companies of the 12th medical regiment of the Philippine Scouts will be discharged for refusing to perform their duties in addition to the 90 men of the 57th regiment who are to be discharged for insubordination and refusal to drill. The men struck for an equality of pay with white soldiers.

A board of nine officers is investigating individual cases in both regiments. A number of men of the 57th regiment were discharged today without honor. The dismissal of the men of the 12th regiment begins tomorrow.

The eight ring leaders of the movement will be charged with mutiny and tried by court martial. Approximately 300 men of the 57th regiment refused to perform their duties Monday but when the situation was explained to them all but 90 recanted.

The military authorities are making a thorough investigation of all scouts regiments with a view to weeding out malcontents.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—The cotton market opened steady with first trades on new crop months showing no change from yesterday's close, but July was 8 points down, prices rallied right after the call owing to much better Liverpool cables than due. July advanced 13 points from the opening sale to 36.65. October trading up to 23.45 and December to 23.34 or 9 points higher. Private cables from Liverpool showed a strong tone owing to rapidly diminishing stocks. Early advices reported little rain in the belt with higher temperatures. The 18,945 bales cleared here for Russia yesterday were officially added to exports this morning.

Cotton futures opened quiet:
July 26.52
October 23.36
December 23.25
January 23.27

NEW YORK STOCKS

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 19.—Stock prices surged upward again at the opening of today's market, with a half dozen issues establishing new 1924 high records in the first five minutes of trading. Included in the list of new top prices were Southern Railway, American Smelting, West Pennsylvania Power, Philadelphia Company and General Electric, the latter up 2 1/2 points.

With speculative sentiment veering more to the long side of the market, the advance developed more vitality in the late transactions, when several popular stocks, including Studebaker, eclipsed previous 1924 peak prices. American Water Works soared four points to 107, a record high. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by St. Louis and Southern common and preferred. Davidson Chemical, Yellow Cab, United Cigar Stores and United Railway Investment preferred, American and foreign power certificates moved up 2 1/2. Foreign exchanges opened steady.
